NEW BILL RISES TO COMPLICATE PAROLE REFORM

Attempt to Becloud Issue Feared.

Real Regulation

Rules of federal parole system prevent release of convicts before they have served at least a third of the sentence imposed by the court; strict supervision afterward keeps the number of parole violators down. These are the ends sought by Illinois parole reform backers. Details on page 9.

BULLETIN.

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—The second of the Loesch parole reform bills to pass the legislature was approved by the house tonight by a vote of 90 to 1. It is a companion measure to the key bill passed two weeks ago, which would permit trial judges to fix minimum and maximum terms within the indeterminate sentence law. The bill passed tonight, already approved by the senate, provides for the segregation of criminals convicted of sex crimes.

Parole reform was explained in statements last night by Senator Harold G. Ward and Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg after Frank J. Loesch and other experienced crime foes had sent a written appeal to Gov. Horner to sign the Ward-Schnackenberg bill, which would give trial judges power to fix minimum and maximum sentences.

Senator Ward, a leader in the upper branch of the legislature, and Representative Schnackenberg, who is the minority leader of the lower branch, expressed the fear that their efforts to bring about a genuine correction of the parole evil might be complicated by another bill not yet considered by either branch, which is known as the Adamowski bill and as the Fisher bill.

Best Advice Sought.

Senator Ward explained that last winter when he and others met at the request of Mr. Loesch, president of the crime commission, the best advice and the best thought on the subject of parole reform was sought. None of those now offering the Fisher-Adamowski bill attended the numerous sessions or offered any help.

Mr. Loesch, who became head of the crime commission ten years ago and at once began a successful battle against the Capone gang, the Touhy gang, the Moran gang, and the Saltis gang, as well as all other criminals, had declared that the present danger was caused by the premature releasing of dangerous criminals by the parole board, Ward recalled.

Among those who took part in the many sessions, including Loesch, Senator Ward, and Representative Schnackenberg, were Judges John Prystalski and Robert C. O'Connell, both of whom had been prosecutors; Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan, who was also a member of the governor's prison and parole commission; Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, and Attorneys Louis H. Geiman, a former prosecutor, and Wendell E. Green. Moynihan represented State's Attorney Courtney and Sullivan represented Commissioner Allman.

Seek to Give Courts Power.

"We agreed to sponsor a law which would give to the trial judge the power now possessed entirely by the parole board," Senator Ward declared. "Under the present indeterminate sentence law, the minimum is one year, with different maximums for different crimes. It is now possible for a dangerous gunman to be paroled after serving but eleven months.

"After a bill embodying that idea was passed in both houses, a new parole bill was offered by Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, presumably drafted by a committee headed by Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court. Whatever happens to the Fisher-Adamowski bill, it should not be considered as a substitute for our bill."

Representative Schnackenberg said that during the many meetings of the Loesch committee there was no evidence that any of the present advocates of the Fisher-Adamowski bill were doing anything to bring about parole reform. But after passage of the Ward-Schnackenberg bill, which the minority leader said was a con-

BY ARCH WARD.

Two extraordinary young men in an extremely ordinary field fight it out at Comiskey park tonight for the heavyweight championship of the world.

James J. Braddock, who three years ago was on federal relief, is the defending champion. Joe Louis, sleepy eyed son of an Alabama cotton picker, is the challenger. They probably are not the worst and certainly not the best of modern contenders for pugilism's crown of jewels.

The distance is 15 rounds. More than 55,000 customers will be banked around the slopes of the ball park hoping for the best. The fighters will split about $700,000 of the public's dough. Braddock is to get 50 per cent of the receipts after state and federal taxes are deducted. Louis' contract call for 17½ per cent.

Sale Falls Short.

The park has been scaled for a $1,200,000 gate and seats are available for 80,000 spectators, but a capacity crowd is out of the question. There has been a brisk sale in the $27.50 ringside sections, but there has been no rush for the so-called cheaper locations, which retail for $16.50, $11, and $6. The general admission tickets, priced at $3.50, go on sale at noon today at the park. At noon yesterday there still were 40,500 unsold seats.

This is the first time in ten years Chicago has been host to a heavyweight championship fight and it is surrounded by little of the fanfare that marked the spectacular battle at Soldiers' field when Gene Tunney arose from the memorable long count to stave off the challenge of Jack Dempsey. More than 100,000 contributed $2,650,000 on that occasion to establish a record that still stands.

Louis is the first colored heavyweight to earn his way to a championship match since Jack Johnson, a good natured but illiterate and irresponsible graduate of the Galveston docks, knocked out Jim Jefferies at Reno in 1910.

Luck Rides with Jim.

Unlike most title bouts, there is no legend of world domination or invincibility about either of tonight's contestants. Until Louis encountered Max Schmeling, who has lost his faith in contracts, he was considered a militant mixture of John L. Sullivan, Jack Johnson, and Ivan the Terrible. But that illusion has been destroyed. Braddock in popular estimation is just a fair workman who had the good fortune to be maneuvered into a championship fight with Max Baer, who as later developments proved, would have been a setup for any well conditioned plumber in an informal bust-as-bust-can street corner brawl.

While receipts tonight will fall short of early estimates, they will exceed any championship bout since the first Schmeling-Sharkey match at New York in 1930. The last title fight, when Braddock whipped Baer two years ago, drew only $200,000. Joe Foley, promotional stooge for Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century club of Pilots of the balloon, brought down near Jesenitz, were questioned and the balloon searched. Authorities announced a permit for continuance of the flight probably would be granted tomorrow. The Chemnitz, one of twelve bags to take off from Brussels Sunday, was piloted by Richard Schutze.

One of the Belgian entries, piloted by Marcel Van Schelle, landed at Klokoci near Purnau, in northern Bohemia, at 11:30 a. m., Chicago daylight saving time.

A manicurist lackered her nails and dressed her silken white hair while she lay abed where she celebrated her party. She slipped six months ago and broke her hip, which sometimes happens even to people nearly a century younger.

Snite to Reach Chicago Today in 'Iron Lung'

BY MARCIA WINN.

Frederick B. Snite Jr., son of the president of the Local Loan company, will arrive in Chicago at 9:20 o'clock this morning, encased in the "iron lung" which has given him life for the last 479 days.

In the last two weeks young Snite has traversed 9,300 miles of sea and land on his way home from Peiping, China, where he was stricken with infantile paralysis on March 30, 1936, during a world tour.

Seemingly insurmountable obstacles have been overcome to effect the trip. Here is a youth, 26 years old, who cannot move arms, legs, or lungs, who cannot breathe without the artificial respirator which lifts his chest and sucks air into his lungs fifteen times a minute.

Accident Might Mean Death.

The respirator's pump uses 10 amperes of electricity an hour. If, through unpredictable accident, the supply of electric current should be halted for more than three minutes ——. Or if a germ should get into his lungs ——.

In the fear of just such hazards, Snite Sr. was prompted late last night, as he and his party forged on toward Chicago in three special cars attached to the Overland Limited, to wire friends in Chicago:

"Please beg the public" [in obvious fear of a crowd congregating at the point where Snite will be moved from the train] "not to interfere with the smooth running of the respirators."

That was all, but the phrase, "the smooth running of the respirators," is of supreme importance.

"Naturally people are interested," an official of Mr. Snite's company explained. "This is a wonderful triumph for science—but they forget a boy's life is at stake."

Patient Guarded En Route.

En route, particular care has been taken at terminals to limit noise, smoke, or dust around the train. Train crews have guarded against jars or rough stops. Persons entering young Snite's car wore sterile masks and gowns.

Even more meticulous care will be taken in the final transfer here from special train to antiseptic van to Billings Memorial hospital.

On arrival here the invalid's private car, the "San Lucas," and a baggage car, will be hauled by a gas electric engine to the express terminal on Halsted street near Milwaukee avenue.

The rear railing and rear observation window of the car first will be removed. Then the respirator, which is 74 inches long, 65 inches high, and 44 inches wide, placed on wheels, will be rolled down a ramp to the landing platform. An electric cable 150 feet long, provided by the Pullman company, will make this possible.

From the platform the boy in his "iron lung" will be rolled into a special van 25 feet long 12 feet wide and 10 feet high—a van which first had been completely padded, lined with white cheesecloth, and fumigated.

On the truck, provided by the Victor Storage and Moving company, as on the train, the respirator's electricity will be provided by Pullman car storage batteries.

As an emergency measure, a hand operated resuscitator will be carried in the van, as will a large supply of extension cord.

Little Difficulty Expected.

City policemen and railroad guards will be on duty at the landing point to prevent congestion that might disturb the elaborate and delicate set-up. A special police escort will accompany the van to the hospital. Police have been instructed to give it the right of way.

At the hospital the delicate transfer again must be effected. As more than 1,000 feet of cord are available, however, little difficulty is expected. The youth's progress through the hospital, from ambulance entrance to elevator to third floor, will be facilitated—and doubly safeguarded—by the use of double plugs to supply electricity in case of emergency.

Here, in his third floor suite, which looks out over the tranquil green stretches of the Midway, he will be transferred to his other respirator, one working on alternating current.

WIMBLEDON'S TENNIS GAMES PORTRAYED IN LONDON BY TELEVISION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—Television history was made today when tennis games at Wimbledon were successfully televised for more than twenty-five minutes.

It was the first time that a great international outdoor event had been televised by wireless without an intervening land cable to the British Broadcasting company's transmitter in Alexandra palace, north of London.

The television picture on the whole was as clear as any other picture from Alexandra palace direct. Televiewers saw one match between H. W. [Bunny] Austin of England and G. L. Rogers of Ireland. Every movement of the players was observed. Even the marks of the lawnmower were distinctly visible. Faces of spectators also were clear. Later the match between Roderick Menzel of Czechoslovakia and Jack Crawford of Australia was televised.

ROOSEVELT AND DAVEY HELP KEEP MILLS SHUT

Federal Mediators Phone Capital as Parley Collapses.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 21.—[Special.]—The conference under federal auspices seeking peace in the steel strike broke up in confusion tonight after it had been in session less than eight hours. Both sides walked out, convinced that no satisfactory agreement could be reached.

Executives of independent steel flatly refused to make an agreement, written or oral, with Labor Dictator John L. Lewis or his radical Committee for Industrial Organization.

"Republic cannot and will not enter into a contract, oral or written, with an irresponsible party, and the C. I. O. as presently constituted is utterly irresponsible," said Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel.

Joined by Other Leaders.

He was accompanied in his departure from the conference, after having spent seven hours with President Roosevelt's new mediation board, by Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel; Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Wilfred Sykes, assistant to the president of Inland Steel.

While the steel executives were packing, the board summoned Lewis and several of his aids to board headquarters for their second conference of the day. The labor leaders had met with the board before the steel executives came in.

Within a few minutes the Lewis men left the conference, defiant and promising dire things if attempts are made to reopen the picketed plants.

Girdler Sole Spokesman.

"I stated to the board," said Girdler, "that the policy of Republic has been and is now that proper representatives of Republic will meet with representatives of the steel workers' organizing committee for collective bargaining purposes at any convenient time. Our position with respect to a written or oral agreement is unchanged."

It was reported that all other representatives of steel producers concurred fully in these sentiments.

This united stand, according to one of the labor department's conciliators who is acting as an aid to the three man mediation board, spells the finish of the board's efforts to conciliate the two factions.

Futile to Meet, Says Lewis.

Lewis issued a statement immediately after his group left the board rooms in a hotel here. He said:

"We're told the steel executives are willing to bargain but they will not enter into a contract of any kind. Under these circumstances, it would be futile to attempt any agreement.

"We also heard it was the plan of Steel Men Abandon Plans to Reopen at Youngstown.

The President!

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent telegrams tonight to the heads of the Republic Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company asking them not to open their Youngstown plants tomorrow morning.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was joining the steel mediation board in this request.

The text of his message, sent to Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel, President Frank Purnell of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, follows:

"The secretary of labor has advised me that the steel mediation board, of which Mr. Charles P. Taft is chairman, has requested you not to open your Youngstown plants tomorrow, Tuesday morning.

"In the promotion of public safety and in the interest of a reasonable and peaceful settlement which should be expected and can be attained, I earnestly join with the board in this request to you."

Youngstown, O., June 22.—[Tuesday.]—[Special.]—State troops, to the number of 4,800, called out by Gov. Martin L. Davey after talking by telephone with President Roosevelt, marched into the strike torn Mahoning valley early today to rescue John L. Lewis' tottering C. I. O. forces. The objective was to prevent the opening of four steel plants, scheduled for today. The objective was attained.

Gov. Davey read the full proclamation and troop order to the President, who said "he thought very fair and the proper procedure," said the Ohio executive. The governor ordered the troop movement at the specific request of Charles P. Taft II., chairman of the President's strike mediation board.

Abandon Plan to Reopen.

At 2:30 a. m., the Republic Steel corporation at Cleveland, O., announced it would not reopen its Youngstown plant, and the offices here of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company indicated it would not reopen its three plants in the Mahoning valley. Plants already operating are not affected by the Davey-Lewis military coup. The maneuver was patterned after that accomplished earlier by Gov. George H. Earle in Pennsylvania.

While bowing to the military display of Gov. Davey, the Republic and Youngstown companies issued sharp statements of dissent.

"The action of Gov. Davey," asserted the Republic corporation, "takes the announced plans for reopening of the plant entirely out of our hands. Undoubtedly some of the workers will not learn of the governor's action. Our gates will be open for the protection of any worker approaching the plant. The responsibility for the safety of these men rests with the governor."

Put Responsibility on State.

The Youngstown company branded the sending of troops into the district a breakdown of law enforcement.

"We were and are ready," continued the company's statement, "to provide work for such of our employés as desire to return to work. The responsibility for refusing admission to our plants for these citizens and taxpayers to resume work must rest upon the state of Ohio and not upon the company."

At daybreak the troops, 4,800 in number, almost half the state's militia strength, were in charge, and C. I. O. pickets presumably were to be disarmed. The sending of the troops was at the plea of Labor Dictator Lewis. There had been general fear that bloodshed would attend the reopening of the plants.

C. I. O. Recalls Pickets.

Late last night it was announced by Brig. Gen. Gilson D. Light of the Ohio National Guard that all pickets had been called from the strike affected steel plants by John Owens, Ohio C. I. O. strike director. Previously several thousand pickets, reported armed and ready for trouble, swarmed around the three Youngstown plants in suburban Campbell, Struthers, and Hubbard and the Republic plant at Youngstown. Radical speakers harangued them for several hours. Although no weapons were visible, it was reported that the crowd carried a plentiful supply of riot materials or had them near at hand. It was said that many of them possessed guns in defiance of a police order.

Strikers in the Youngstown area were caught by surprise with the announcement by the steel concerns that they intended to resume operations. The companies posted notices and advertised in newspapers that "all employés who want to go back to work should enter the plant at 7 a. m."

Police Promise Protection.

Police and local authorities pledged their intention of "protecting company employés lawfully asserting their right to resume work." Several hundred deputies were sworn in.

The C. I. O. forces openly predicted there would be violence. A leader said, "As soon as anybody goes into these plants the S O S will go out and there will be trouble."

The strikers sent a telegram to President Roosevelt saying:

"Avoid in time most horrible things that may be let loose within the next 24 hours. Any attempt to open the gates will automatically bring terrific violence and bloodshed."

During the night police went ahead mobilizing their forces as they stuck to their announced intention of escorting through the lines the men who wanted to go back to making a living.

Adds Deputies to Force.

Sherif Ralph Elser swore in 120 deputies to augment his regular force of 30 while the police force was increased by deputization from 160 to 350.

"I am not going to use my force to break strikes," the sherif said, "but I expect to have enough men to maintain law and order. I will deputize whatever number of men it takes to keep order."

At the time of the announcement that the troops were coming, the scene was all set for what many believed would be rioting such as would dwarf the battle between strikers and police at the Republic plant last Saturday night, when two men were killed and more than two score were injured.

Lewis had telephoned Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Gov. Davey both to stop what he considered certain "butchery." Later he appealed directly to President Roosevelt.

Orders Plenty of Troops.

Columbus, O., June 21.—In ordering the troops to the aid of the C. I. O., Gov. Davey told Adjt. Gen. Emil Marx to send "ample men." They were ordered to disarm any one "illegally possessing firearms." The statement follows:

"The adjutant general of Ohio has been ordered to send ample troops into Mahoning and Trumbull counties to be ready for duty at daybreak Tuesday morning in order to prevent riot, bloodshed, and possible loss of life.

"The conditions of this action and the orders to the adjutant general are as follows:

"1. Steel plants which are now operating shall continue to operate on the same basis as they have during the strike, free from interference except lawful picketing.

"2. Steel plants which have been closed shall remain closed during the deliberation of the federal mediation board, provided this period of time is reasonably limited.

"3. All persons who are not officers of the law shall be disarmed of weapons of all kinds and description.

"4. Any person or persons guilty of violations of the law shall be arrested and turned over to civil authorities for appropriate action.

"5. There shall be no invasion of these counties by nonresidents, either in small groups or in mass formation.

"The practical effect of these orders is to maintain status quo as between the parties, so that they may continue the conditions as they now exist until the federal mediation board has finished its work. These instructions remain in effect for the next few days and until further notice.

"No just government would show any partiality as between its citizens. We shall pursue a course of strict neutrality for the purpose of doing justice and dealing with entire fairness as between the contending elements in this industrial conflict, and seek with determination to preserve and protect the interests of the general public."

ENJOINS PICKETS

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Judge Lynn Griffith of Warren, O., who yesterday restricted activities of pickets at Republic Steel plant. His ruling led to threats of a general strike.

Warren, O., June 21.—[Special.]—The threat of a general strike was the answer of C. I. O. unionists tonight to a court injunction issued today by Judge Lynn Griffith against violence at Republic Steel corporation plants here and in Niles, O.

The C. I. O. members also proceeded to violate the order soon after it was issued. They swelled picket lines and many carried clubs, which the injunction expressly forbade.

PARLEY TO END STEEL STRIKES GOES ON ROCKS

Federal Mediators Phone Capital of Collapse.

"At 9 o'clock I talked with Secretary of Labor Perkins in Washington and advised her of the circumstances. I told her I believed that somewhere in this nation is an authority able to halt the contemplated butchery of our people tomorrow at these mill gates.

"I also told her that somewhere there should be a power exercised tonight to restrain this madman, Girdler.

"At 9:30 I talked also to Martin Davey, governor of Ohio. I said to him the same thing.

"What the federal or state governments are going to do in the circumstances is for them to decide.

"Whatever happens the C. I. O. will carry on the strike to a successful conclusion. The issue is the right of labor to bargain collectively.

"There will be no compromise on the question. I only hope we will not have to bury our dead after Youngstown tomorrow morning."

Wins State and Federal Aid.

Lewis refused to say what Secretary Perkins or Gov. Davey informed him, after his plea for intervention at Youngstown, where the plans to reopen three plants of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and one Bessemer plant of the Republic corporation had been announced.

The answer was supplied, however, by the action of President Roosevelt in asking the steel executives not to reopen their closed plants and of Gov. Davey in ordering troops to Youngstown.

The steel leaders were smiling and confident when they left the conference rooms. First to leave was Purnell.

"I've nothing to add to Tom Girdler's statement of our position. We all pretty well agree he has stated it well," said Purnell.

Tells Republic's Position.

The position of the steel manufacturers in appearing before the mediation board was defined exactly by Girdler in his statement when he said:

"Republic Steel corporation stands ready to coöperate with this board in examining the facts involved in the C. I. O. strike against this company. It is our understanding that in appearing before the board to discuss the facts of the strike Republic is not submitting the strike to arbitration by the board and the company's appearance before the board is not to be construed as requiring it to consent to any strike settlement plan which may be promulgated by it.

"First of all we must make it clear that the fundamental issue in this strike is not one involving wages, hours, or working conditions in Republic plants.

"The basic issue of the present strike is the right of American citizens to work free from molestation or violence and danger, and the right of the company to furnish employment to 58,000 men and women. It is urged that the board do not lose sight of this fact in the conduct of its investigations.

Antedates C. I. O. Demand.

"It is further urged that the board do not lose sight of this fundamental issue by discussion of the technical question of a written contract between Republic and the C. I. O. There is not now and never has been any contract, oral or written, in existence between Republic and the C. I. O.

"The facts are that the wages, hours and working conditions now in effect in Republic plants were established by the company before the proposed agreement was presented by the C. I. O. Republic cannot and will not enter into a contract, oral or written, with an irresponsible party, and the C. I. O. as now constituted is utterly irresponsible. Therefore any discussion of this subject is futile."

The positions of all the parties to the conferences were made clear to the board before the luncheon hour, when there was a brief adjournment. At that time Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati lawyer, who is chairman, said:

"The board met with both sides and will resume its meeting this afternoon. There was no indication progress had been made. All we're trying to do now is to get a clear picture of the views of both sides on the many issues involved."

Board Spills the Beans.

The mediation board consisting of Chairman Taft, Dean Lloyd Garrison of the University of Wisconsin law school, and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, issued a statement nearly an hour after both factions in the battle had left the conference headquarters.

What seemed an enigmatic final paragraph of the statement likewise was explained by the Roosevelt and Davey activities. It was:

"We feel on the basis of our latest advices that the plants may not attempt to open Tuesday morning. In view of this fact and the possibility of further conferences on Wednesday looking toward a settlement, we are making no further comment on the situation at this time."

None of the members would explain the meaning of these seemingly optimistic words in the face of a general situation then so tense and potentially explosive. Then it was learned that the board had reached President Roosevelt on the telephone to ask his personal intervention. It was said the President would demand that Gov. Davey send troops to Youngstown to prevent the reopening of the plants.

LOYAL WORKERS TELL SEC. PERKINS THEY'RE PRISONERS OF C. I. O.

Niles, O., June 21.—[Special.]—From inside the Niles plant of the Republic Steel corporation, 287 employés today sent a letter to Secretary Perkins in which they declared they are being held prisoners in the plant "by a C. I. O. gang armed with clubs and blackjacks."

Referring to the request made by Secretary Perkins to Gov. Davey that he maintain the "status quo" in the steel plants, the signers asserted that to them "that means you are asking the governor to do all he can to keep a mob of strong arm men and blackjack artists in control of this community."

She was urged to ask Gov. Davey to see that the laws were enforced.

BOMB EXPLODED IN DOORWAY OF SOUTH SIDE CAFE

Hundreds of south siders were roused from sleep early today by the explosion of a black powder bomb in the front entrance of Peter Economu's restaurant at 6317 South Park avenue. The blast was unusually loud, indicating a large amount of powder was used.

The explosion shattered a door and the front windows of the restaurant. It also broke windows in the White City ballroom across the street and in several nearby buildings.

Firemen and police who investigated said that no one was injured so far as they could learn. The restaurant was closed at the time. Chief Daniel Lyons of the 19th battalion estimated total damage at $500. No motive was found for the attack.

FALLS DEAD AT WORK.

Henry Rosenberg, 66 years old, 6056 Champlain avenue, a clerk in a bus depot at 1100 South Michigan avenue, fell dead of a heart attack at work there late yesterday afternoon.

COURT ORDERS SITTERS FROM HOSIERY MILL

Appeals Justices Rule Seizure Unlawful.

Philadelphia, June 21.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals ordered today that 250 sitdown strikers be ousted from the Apex hosiery mill and denounced the conduct of the strikers as lawless and criminal.

The ruling reversed an opinion by District Judge William H. Kirkpatrick, that the strike was not in restraint of interstate commerce and was not in jurisdiction of federal courts.

The Circuit court's opinion, written by Judge J. Warden Davis, reviewed the claims of the company that the plant and machinery were damaged by a rush of hosiery workers into the mill on May 6.

Calls Conduct Lawless.

"Public opinion will sympathize with labor in using every fair, just and legal means to secure and protect its rights, but public opinion—and this includes the sane, sober, thoughtful, and law abiding elements of labor—will feel outraged at the lawless conduct of the defendants, which, if tolerated, would strike down American institutions, flout our long cherished principles of even handed justice and destroy the foundations of the government itself," the opinion said.

"A few sitdowners are keeping 2,500 persons, who were entirely satisfied with their positions, from working and from earning an honest living for themselves and their families.

Wagner Act Protects Labor.

"If an employer had denied to labor any rights, the Wagner act provided an orderly way of calling him to account. Instead of resorting to this act, the defendants, by force and violence, sought to compel the employer and its employés to do what the Wagner act does not countenance and what the true judgment of every true friend of labor and of all good men condemns as wrong in policy and in principle.

"Underlying this case is a question of whether a few lawless individuals, ignoring and condemning the Wagner act, and in defiance of all law and order and useless disregard of the rights of others, should be permitted, by assuming the name of a union, to deprive all others of their means of livelihood and compel them to contribute of their earnings to self-styled leaders."

The opinion was concurred in by Judges Joseph Buffington and Oliver B. Dickinson.

CITY CIGARET LEVY MEASURE DEFEATED IN ILLINOIS SENATE

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—The last hope of Chicago's being granted legislative authority to raise new revenue and thereby cut down the tax burden on real estate disappeared tonight when the state senate by a vote of 19 to 16 refused to pass the bill to empower the city to put a tax on cigarets. Twenty-six votes are required for passage in the senate.

Despite the plea of Senator Harold G. Ward, Mayor Kelly's spokesman, that the proposed law would not affect other cities, only five downstaters voted for the bill.

Home rule for downstate cities was hit by the passage of three other bills, which establish minimum salaries for policemen and firemen in cities of less than 150,000 and authorize those cities to increase their tax levy for general corporate purposes in order to pay those salaries.

PRIVATE PILOTS URGE AIRPORT ON LAKE FRONT

The need of a lake front airport from the standpoint of the private pilot is stressed in a resolution adopted by the Illinois Air Pilots' association, representing 4,000 licensed and student pilots, which was made public yesterday.

The association believes the Municipal airport, since public facilities have been appropriated by airlines, should be turned over exclusively to private planes, while the proposed airport on Northerly island would be devoted entirely to commercial trafic. Next Sunday the association expects 300 private ships to take part in a state-wide tour to Chanute field at Rantoul.

ASKS U. S. BAR ON FLYING SQUADS OF C. I. O. PICKETS

Seeks to Amend Strike Breaker Law.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The house seethed today with a ferment of reaction to the steel strike manifested in numerous ways.

Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] introduced a proposed amendment to the law enacted last year prohibiting the interstate transportation of strike breakers. The Hoffman amendment would prohibit the interstate migration or transportation of pickets or other persons employed to interfere with the operation of factories during any labor controversy.

"The amendment," Mr. Hoffman explained, "is designed to make the act which prohibits the interstate transportation of strike breakers apply also to those who go from one state to another for the purpose of causing, not strikes, but shut downs."

C. I. O. Flying Squadrons.

This proposed legislation is the direct result of the practice of the C. I. O. in dispatching flying squadrons of pickets and agitators from one state to another in the warfare on the steel companies.

Mr. Hoffman also offered a resolution calling on Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins to inform the house whether he "has any plan or suggestion which will assist in enabling regular employés in following their usual occupation in those cases where they are now being kept from their employment by picketing or by labor organizations."

In another resolution the Michigan congressman called on Secretary of Labor Perkins to state whether Charles P. Taft and Lloyd K. Garrison of the steel mediation board have declared in writing that collective bargaining requires written agreements, whether Edward F. McGrady, the third member, being the assistant secretary of labor, is committed to a policy of closing factories the owners of which refuse to sign written contracts, and whether the labor department has an agreement with John L. Lewis regarding the closing of the picketed factories.

Asks Perkins Policy.

The resolution also inquires what plans, if any, the labor department has for helping men thrown out of work by strikes to get work when a majority of the employés desires to continue at work.

"The President was unable to pack the Supreme court, but through his secretary of labor, he has apparently succeeded in packing the strike mediation board so that his friend, John L. Lewis, will be sure of the decision he desires, if the question is as to whether Republic should sign a written contract," Hoffman said.

"The real issue that the mediation board should consider is whether, in the United States and in each of the forty-eight states thereof, a man who wants to work shall have that privilege; the right has been taken from him."

Representative Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the ways and means committee, asserted that Lewis' strike maneuvers are being "abetted by the administration."

Veers to One Man Control.

"It is even said," he went on, "that the head of the C. I. C." has demanded support of the administration as remittance for a $500,000 contribution to the last Democratic campaign fund. "The present attitude is an indication of the Socialistic and communistic leanings of the administration. It is a further indictment of the administration, indicating a move toward one man control in Washington."

Representative E. E. Cox [D., Ga.] pronounced the refusal of the government to deliver parcel post to the struck factories "the most scandalous exhibition of cowardice that I have ever witnessed." The "power of the government," he added, "has been set at naught. It has surrendered to a handful of lawless people and stands before the country as a discredited thing."

Farley Will Be Called.

If local authorities cannot maintain order the United States army should be sent to the scene, said Cox.

"This lawlessness of the C. I. O. and its affiliates," he continued, "and this shameful cringing of the government to them is not only wrecking the great labor movement of the country, as guided by the A. F. of L., but unchallenged and unchecked will wreck the government as well."

The senate postoffice committee which has been investigating collusion between the postal authorities and C. I. O. strike leaders will resume hearings Wednesday, but will turn its attention first to the C. I. O. riot in South Chicago on Memorial day. Later Postmaster General Farley is to be called.

Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.], author of the investigating resolution, and Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], a member of the committee, both said they would urge legislation requiring forcible delivery of the mail except in emergencies caused by "acts of God."

"There should be a law," said Senator Bailey, "guaranteeing to the citizens of the United States that the postoffice department will expend every effort to deliver necessities of life, no matter what the emergency might be. At the conclusion of the inquiry I shall propose such a law."

Representative Henry G. Teigan [F.-L., Minn.] offered a resolution providing for a showing to the house of the film of the Chicago riot, to expose "the manner in which the Republic Steel corporation's private army of thugs and the Chicago city police beat up the strikers without provocation."

SHUT STEEL MILL TO ASSURE PEACE, EARLE'S DEFENSE

Silent on His Ambition to Run for President.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Gov. George H. Earle today defended his position in declaring a "modified form of martial law in the Johnstown strike area."

"I did what I did because in my judgment such action was necessary to assure peace in Johnstown," he said. "I wanted to avoid bloodshed. Free speech, free press, free assembly, the right of jury trial, and all other precious liberties still exist in Johnstown outside of a patroled area. I merely preserved the status quo."

Told that his shutting down of the Cambria plant of the Bethlehem Steel company, where 14,000 workers were employed, was hardly preserving the "status quo," the governor showed annoyance.

Governor Shows Annoyance.

"The trouble with the press is that it is subsidized," he snapped. "It is in the domination of a few men of wealth."

Reminded that he has been friendly to labor and is reported to have presidential ambitions, the governor said:

"I acted for what I believe to be the best interests of the state and country. To my mind there are but two factions in the country today—the liberals and the radicals. I give you my definition of liberals and I think it is my own—liberals believe in fair play and an equal opportunity for every one.

"I give as my definition of radicals—fellows who would level everybody down to a general level and when ability and initiative showed itself the leveling down would be started all over again. That's communism. I dismiss conservatism entirely because to my mind the real battle to come is to be fought between radicals and liberals.

Denies Turning Against His Class.

"I'm no radical. I come from people of means. I know the conservative class. I've been one of them. Perhaps I've turned against my class, but I don't feel that way."

In Harrisburg the general feeling was that Gov. Earle had surrendered the reins of government to the C. I. O. It generally was believed that the governor had sacrificed the powers of his office to further his political ambitions.

A business man, who begged that his name should not be mentioned declared: "Government by the C. I. O. is at hand. I can't speak for the country, but I can speak for Pennsylvania. The governor of this state has compelled an industrial plant to shut down. Who wanted it shut down?—the C. I. O."

An attorney, who toyed with a paper knife as he looked out on the arches of the motor bridge across the Susquehanna, said, "the governor chose the easiest way in the situation. He shut down the plant and thus thrust the onus for possible difficulty on the shoulders of the company officials if they did not accede to his order. The courageous way is not always the easiest way for one who would advance politically."

Former Miner Flays Lewis.

A cab driver said:

"I used to be a coal miner, buddy, and I gave plenty of money to John L. Lewis. I suppose that some of my money is paying for what's going on today and I'm sorry for it.

"I know what it is to look for a job. I know how I'd feel if I was wrestling with pig iron and bringing home enough to keep the cook and the kids going and then be shut out by the law. I am no scab—my father was a Mitchell man." [John Mitchell, an early leader of the mine workers through a magnetic personality brought victory to the miners in the great coal strike of the early days of the present century.]

"But I want no part of relief," he said. "All I want is a job and I can hold it. I want nobody telling me when I can and when I can't work."

A short time later Gov. Earle in pacing the drawing room of the executive mansion, said, "I want to make America the land of opportunity. I think every one should have an equal opportunity to make a living for himself and his family."

The governor had planned to fly to the strike area tonight to look up on the martial law he had ordered, but heavy weather forced postponement of his plan. He said he may make the flight later in the week.

C. I. O. Opens Chicago Area Drive for Strike Aid Funds

While John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization leaders asserted they were trying to settle the steel strike, they prepared in the Chicago steel district yesterday to collect funds to continue it.

In Whiting, C. I. O. oil workers volunteered $1 a day each to finance the strike and launched a movement to enlist all C. I. O. union members in the $1 a day offering to the steel strikers.

Under C. I. O. pressure, commissioners of Lake county, Ind., in which many steel mills are situated, authorized two tag days to raise funds for the strikers. The commissioners told the head of the movement they hoped he succeeds, and said they would be only too glad to assist him at any time.

300 Vote Assessment.

The oil workers acted through the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery workers' local 210, which has a membership of 2,700 in the Whiting district refineries. At a meeting largely attended by radicals, it was learned, 300 members voted the assessment last Saturday. Theoretically, the action is dependent upon similar action by other C. I. O. unions and upon ratification by the oil union membership. Actually, however, it was reported that leaders said yesterday the original vote is binding.

The oil workers are not involved in the strike but are subject to C. I. O. direction.

Edward Ennis and 21 other members of the Gary C. I. O. steel union, which likewise is not involved in the strike, called upon President Charles Baran of the Lake county commissioners to authorize the tag days. At the C. I. O. leaders' suggestion the board met in special session at Crown Point, indorsed the movement, and designated Thursday and Friday as the tag days throughout the county.

Mayor Calls on Governor.

Mayor Andrew Rooney of East Chicago meanwhile called upon Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana at Indianapolis. They conferred upon the strike situation, but little could be learned of the meeting or the reason for it.

The claim of the C. I. O. union to authority as sole bargaining agent for steel mill employés was disputed yesterday by Marshall A. Pipin, attorney for the anti-C. I. O. independent unions at the Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Republic Steel corporation plants in South Chicago and Indiana Harbor. In a communication to the steel strike mediation board he demanded that the independent unions' right to bargaining powers be investigated.

ALL QUIET ON STRIKE FRONT IN JOHNSTOWN AS PLANT STAYS SHUT

Johnstown, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—All was quiet on the strike front here tonight after potential activities on the second complete day of martial law had been washed out by a driving rain.

Col. Augustine S. Janeway, commanding state forces as the personal representative of Gov. George H. Earle, declared emphatically, however, that control by his men would continue indefinitly.

During the day Col. Janeway issued a statement summarizing the situation in the Bethlehem plant area. It expressed his appreciation to the community for coöperating with him in the matter of preserving law and order.

CLINTON'S LOVE RIVALS MAKE FACES IN COURT

Two women of Clinton, Ill., rivals for the affection of a fellow townsman, Walker H. Thorp, made faces at each other in Felony court yesterday, but the object of their love did his best to escape notice. The occasion was the arraignment of Mrs. Nana Pennington, 42 years old, who came to Chicago last Friday in pursuit of Thorp, who she said had promised to marry her. She found him in a hotel room at the Harrison hotel, 57 East Harrison street, with Mrs. Florence Newberry, 24.

While explanations were in progress Mrs. Pennington shot Thorp in the arm. In court she said she had meant to kill herself. Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden continued the case until June 29 and dismissed charges of disorderly conduct against the other two. Unable to provide $2,000 bail, Mrs. Pennington went to the county jail.

Woman Killed by Trolley While on Shopping Tour

While shopping for her dinner groceries yesterday Mrs. Frances Logan, 50 years old, 419 Belden street, was struck and killed by a street car at Belden and Clark streets. Her identity was not known for an hour. She was identified by her husband, Charles A. Logan.

CHICAGO TEXTILE STRIKE CALLED BY C. I. O. UNION

The Textile Workers' Organizing committee, affiliated with John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial organization, called a strike yesterday among the 600 employés of the Bauer & Black company, manufacturers of surgical dressings at 2500 South Dearborn street. The factory remained in operation, but the strikers formed picket lines.

10 Year Federal Term for Counterfeiter Upheld

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday upheld the action of Federal Judge William H. Holly in declining to entertain a petition for probation on behalf of Leo Trant, 43 years old, who is under sentence of ten years on a counterfeiting charge. Trant will be taken to Leavenworth.

PRESS COMMENT ON STEEL MILL CLOSING DIFFERS

Some Papers Condemn, Others Praise Gov. Earle.

Editorial comment from leading newspapers throughout the United States on the action of Gov. George H. Earle in closing the Johnstown, Pa., plant of the Bethlehem Steel corporation pending settlement of the strike follow:

Baltimore [Maryland] Sun—To declare martial law and force the closing of the plant without first putting the responsibility upon the leaders of the intended demonstration would appear unjust to the company and its employés and a singular confession of weakness by the commonwealth.

Boston [Mass.] Herald—Legally, little can be offered in behalf of the Pennsylvania governor's order to the Bethlehem Steel corporation to close its plant at Johnstown, Pa. As President Grace said in reply, it is the responsibility of the state to protect the company in its lawful control and operation of its property and to protect those persons who wish to work in it.

Cleveland [O.] Plain Dealer—The governor of Pennsylvania sides openly with the workers when he orders the closing of the Bethlehem steel plant at Johnstown. Gov. Earle's duty, local government having failed, is to maintain order in Johnstown, to insist that picketing be kept "peaceful," to disarm the lawless, and to permit steel workers who wish to work free access to their place of employment.

Cincinnati [O.] Post—The governor did what he did because in his judgment such action was necessary to assure peace in Johnstown. The important things about the use of the military power is that the extent to which it can be used is limited only by a governor's discretion. It is important to remember that under martial law there is no bill of rights. A writ of habeas corpus cannot prevail against a sentry's command.

Dallas [Tex.] News—From Gov. Earle's viewpoint, the easiest way has proven the best, closing a legal enterprise without warant of law to prevent bloodshed in enforcing legal rights. He has surrendered the sovereignty of Pennsylvania to the C. I. O.

Erie [Pa.] Dispatch-Herald—Several weeks ago, when a small minority of employés staged a sitdown strike at Hershey, Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania declared publicly that they were within their rights and that he could do nothing about it. In Johnstown, at the Cambria plant of the Bethlehem Steel company, a minority of the workers went on strike. . . . A majority did not want to strike and they did not want to be under the dictates of the C. I. O. As a result the plant continued in operation. He [the governor] declared a "modified form" of martial law and forced the 72 per cent of employés out of their jobs. The governor ought to feel very much satisfied with himself.

Harrisburg [Pa.] Patriot—The net result of Gov. Earle's policy has been to preserve order thus far. It has been done by waving the miners back to their hills and by denying steel workers their right to labor and depriving the owners of the mills their right to operate. This has been interpreted in some quarters as government taking sides in an industrial controversy. If the men want to work, certainly if a great majority of them want to work, it is the business of government to see that the workers' rights are safeguarded. If a working man can not exercise this right except at peril of life and limb then his government has failed him.

The Hartford [Conn.] Courant.—In the past, strikers have been accustomed to protest declarations of martial law because it has usually interfered with their picketing activities. Now we have the spectacle of strikers welcoming martial law because it helps them to win their battles.

The Kansas City [Mo.] Star.—In handling the Johnstown situation, Gov. Earle stepped far outside of his authority in preserving order and made the state a partisan. It was his obligation to see that no unlawful acts to break the peace were committed by either side. He had no more business to close a plant that was lawfully operating than he would have had to use armed force to prevent peaceful picketing on the part of the unions.

The Los Angeles [Cal.] Times.—Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania is paying his debt to John L. Lewis in much the manner of Gov. Murphy of Michigan. He has declared martial law in Johnstown, Pa. He did it to close the Bethlehem Steel plant, after the C. I. O. had found itself unable to close it. The C. I. O. strike in Johnstown was a complete failure.

New York Post.—There is only one time to prevent an explosion. That time is—before it occurs. An explosion was in the making at Johnstown. Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania courageously proclaimed a form of martial law before the explosion took place.

New York Times—"There can be only one justification for the modified form of martial law which I have ordered to be put into immediate effect. That is the maintenance of law and order." With this theory of Gov. Earle none can fail to agree. When, however, the execution of his order takes the form of depriving men who wish to work of their ability to do so, when it fails to furnish the protection to which each citizen is entitled in the normal pursuit of his activities, when the armed power of the state is invoked to furnish the shock troops for illegal picketing, then martial law is without justification and the governor's words become a perilous, political harangue.

New York Herald-Tribune—President Eugene Grace of the Bethlehem Steel company deserves the congratulations and thanks of every sound American citizen for refusing to submit to Gov. George Earle's demand that he close the company's Johnstown plant. By doing so he has forced Gov. Earle to declare martial law and to close the plant by military ukase. Mr. Grace has forced Gov. Earle to choose between his duties to the people of Pennsylvania, as the chief executive of that great commonwealth and his personal political obligations [past and prospective] to John L. Lewis. Mr. Grace has forced Gov. Earle, the rich and lily handed exploiter of class warfare, who hopes to succeed Mr. Roosevelt in the White House, to move openly and definitly into the camp of the C. I. O. terrorists and to offer them the support of Pennsylvania's state police and militia at need. This is a great service.

The New York World Telegram.—Arguments concerning workers' rights and employers' rights, human rights and property rights, have been very much in the foreground through all these months of strikes. But something happened in Pennsylvania over the week-end which serves to remind us that these are rights which exist only under civil government, and that, indeed, even the liberty to argue about these rights disappears when civil government yields its dominion.

The New York Sun.—The main objective of the C. I. O. in the steel industry is to stop production. In Johnstown, where the men wished to remain at work or to return to work, Gov. Earle has played the game of John L. Lewis by ordering the Bethlehem Steel company's Cambria plant to close. His order was accompanied by the threat that if the owners refused to submit he would surround the plant with state police. . . . John L. Lewis would have the state of Pennsylvania doing picket duty for him and his crew.

The Philadelphia Inquirer.—Gov. Earle's . . . drastic action raises serious questions about the use and abuse of state powers. If manufacturing plants were closed by government edict whenever there was a possibility of labor disturbances, how many work days would be lost annually to employées in this country? . . . Arbitrary closings of mills by the government . . . are not in the tradition of a free people. Such measures strongly resemble those associated with the iron fists of alien dictators.

The Toledo [O.] Blade.—New Deal Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania declared martial law in Johnstown, when the mayor of that city openly states he needs no assistance. The governor's actions are clear. He wishes to close the steel plants even though only a percentage of the workers are striking. What is the reason for the governor's action? Every one knows that Mr. Earle has nothing else in mind except the hope that Mr. Roosevelt will help him get the presidential nomination in 1940 [providing Mr. Roosevelt himself does not try for a third term.]

FIVE RAIL UNIONS MAP DRIVE TO FORCE PAY HIKE

Leaders of the five railroad operating brotherhoods began conferences at the Great Northern hotel yesterday to map their campaign to force the country's railroads to meet wage increase demands. District representatives and presidents of the brotherhoods—engineers, conductors, firemen, trainmen, and switchmen—are attending the meetings.

Union chiefs said it is likely a strike vote will be ordered. The brotherhoods have asked a 20 per cent pay increase which would add about $116,000,000 a year to the pay rolls of the railroads.

The unions desire the roads to meet them on a national basis to work out a new wage scale.

Edward's Solicitor Arrives on Secret Mission.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Reports that the duke of Windsor and his bride are contemplating a move to the United States were revived today when A. G. Allen, solicitor for the former king, arrived from England.

The story bobbed up again because of Allen's mysterious and secretive movements. When finally buttonholed, the London barrister declined to discuss his trip other than to say it was his business and that he was leaving for Montreal. Dispatches from London had stated he might be negotiating for the purchase of an estate for the duke and duchess.

On Private Venture.

"I am here on private business of my own, in Montreal," he insisted. "I have no commission either from the duke or for the duchess. I know nothing of their future plans."

Allen refused to discuss the possibility of a visit of the Windsors to this country in the near future. He also denied that the duke intended to sell his ranch near Calgary, Canada.

Allen, who was one of the guests at the duke's wedding to Mrs. Wallis Warfield three weeks ago at Monts, France, eluded reporters and photographers as the liner crept up to bay in a dense fog. He remained in seclusion on the upper deck after leaving orders that his hat, coat, cane and luggage be delivered to him on the pier. Allen's name also was left off the passenger list. He was found at customs when officials rummaged through his five bags and trunk.

Consider U. S. Estate.

It was fairly well substantiated before the wedding that the Windsors, now honeymooning in Austria, were dickering for an estate in the United States. The newlyweds had their eye on the Cloisters, a castlelike country residence owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sumner A. Parker, near Brooklandville, Md., just outside Baltimore. It was reported that the former King Edward had taken an option on this estate, with the understanding that he might renew it for two years at the expiration of a year. Parker admitted subsequently in France that he was negotiating.

Allen represented the duke in his action against "Coronation Commentary," the book of Geoffrey Dennis that angered Edward.

EDWARD AND WALLY DANCE ON A TOUR OF VIENNA NIGHT CLUBS

VIENNA, Austria, June 21.—(AP)—The lighthearted duke and duchess of Windsor returned tonight to the Viennese night clubs which they enjoyed last year on a vacation cruise before their marriage.

The couple lunched at the British legation, went shopping during the afternoon, and then went dancing. Chatting gaily, they danced to old Viennese tunes and to American jazz during visits to restaurants and night clubs.

Edward was clad in a dark blue suit. His wife, the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield [Simpson], wore a black silk gown trimmed in white. On her hand was a large diamond at which she glanced frequently.

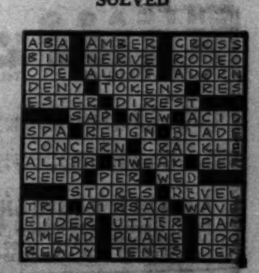
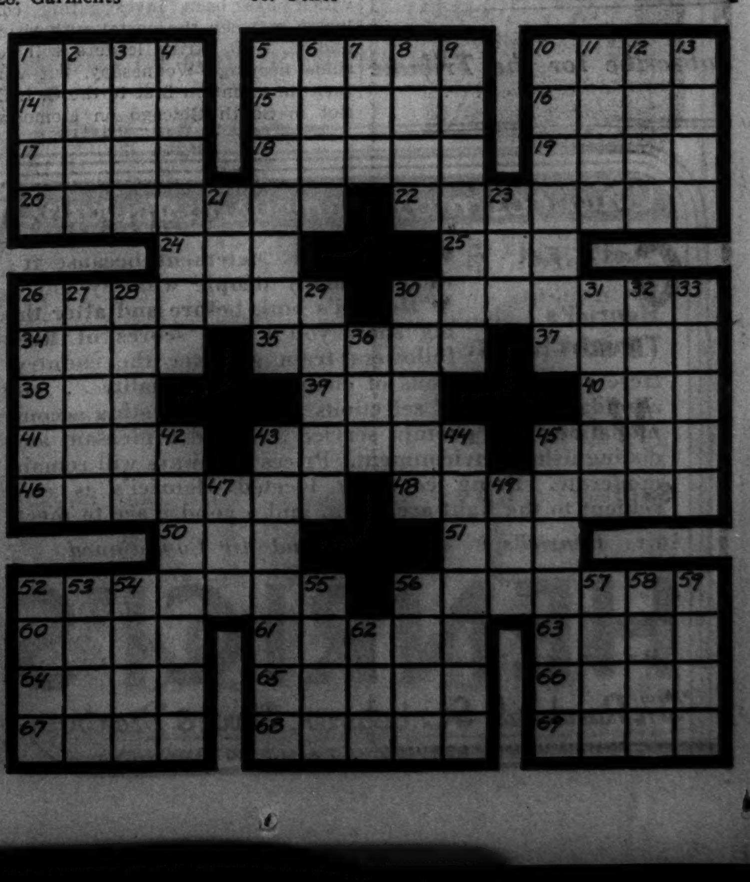
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





BRITISH PROTECT LOYAL WORKERS; STRIKERS CURBED

Here's How England Deals with Trade Unions.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—Trade unionism in Great Britain is supposed to trace its history back to the trade guilds of the middle ages. But in its present form it is essentially the product of modern industrial conditions and owes its birth to the capitalist system.

In the space of the last century the trade union movement has become an integral part of the industrial life of the country. The latest figures show that registered trade unions in England number 537, with 3,827,562 members. They administer funds totaling more than $72,000,000. The trade union movement plays a big part in politics and is closely allied with the Labor party which brought it into existence.

A Struggle for Liberty.

The history of trade union legislation is one of constant struggle for liberty. As early as 1799 combinations of workers to better labor conditions were declared illegal and it was a criminal offense to raise funds for collective bargaining or calling strikes.

The growth of the movement to present proportions dates from 1871. Legislation was passed making trade unions lawful and protecting their funds. In 1906 under a Liberal administration peaceful picketing was recognized, and in 1913 unions were allowed to apply funds for political purposes.

Following the general strike of 1926, however, Stanley Baldwin's Conservative government pushed through parliament in 1927 the trade disputes and trade unions act which definitly restricted trade union rights.

The 1926 strike was called by the trades union congress' general council on a decision of a conference of trades union executives and was the biggest walkout ever waged in British history. It is estimated that it cost British industry $150,000,000.

Law Supported by Public.

The Conservative government's subsequent action in making general and sympathetic strikes illegal aroused the ire of trade union circles, but commanded popular support. The attempt by the Labor government in 1930-'31 to wipe out the Baldwin act and restore the freedom of trade unions failed completely.

The 1927 law governing trade unionism in England gave effect to four main principles:

FIRST—General strikes are illegal and no worker must be penalized for refusing to take part in walkouts.

SECOND—Intimidation is illegal and no man may be compelled by threats to abstain from work against his will.

Need Not Donate to Parties.

THIRD—No man shall be compelled to subscribe to funds of any political party unless he so desires.

FOURTH—All civil servants must give undivided allegiance to the state. They are barred under penalty of dismissal and loss of pension from joining any trade union not confined to civil servants or which is affiliated with any outside industrial political organization such as the Trades Union congress or the Labor party.

In addition the act prohibits local authorities to make nontrade unionists victims. It also bans sudden strikes in breach of contract by municipal employés engaged in essential public services if they cripple such services and cause injury, danger or grave inconvenience to the community.

How the Law Works.

The ban on general and sympathetic strikes does not mean that all walkouts are illegal. Under the terms of the act sympathetic strike action on a national or local scale is judged illegal if it is designed to coerce the government either directly or by inflicting hardship on the community and if it seeks to extend the walkout outside the trade or industry in which the original dispute arose. Lockouts also are illegal.

Conservative administration has sought to suppress intimidation in labor disputes. Before 1927 it was held that in order to constitute intimidation there must be threats of personal violence. The trade disputes act while not interfering with picketing—as long as the picketing is confined to peaceful persuasion—prohibited intimidation of any kind, whether it took the form of causing fear of personal violence, of being driven from employment or of injury to a worker's wife or children. Heavy penalties are provided upon conviction

Permits Levy on Members.

Finance has figured largely in trade union history. Before 1913 it was illegal for trade unions to use their funds for political purposes. The trade union act of 1913 permitted unions to make a levy on members for political purposes, but allowed members to "contract out" of that liability by signing a declaration that they were unwilling to pay.

Under the 1927 act political levies remain legal, but only those who have signed a declaration stating specifically that they desire to contribute could be made to do so.

The political fund must be separated from union funds and ordinary funds of a union neither may be used nor pledged for political purposes.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS LEAD IN TRAINING PUPILS FOR JOBS

Recognize That 90 Pct. Do Not Go to College.

(This is one of a series of stories on Chicago's public school system by Seymour Korman. In this story and others to follow Mr. Korman tells how the schools are following the modern educational trends which place emphasis on courses that will help the pupil to make a living after graduation. This is in contrast to the old ideal of a cultural education which was considered necessary as a background for adult life.)

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

In the last 25 years the trend in public high school education has been away from purely academic instruction and toward the teaching of practical and vocational subjects. Moving with this educational pendulum, Chicago stands today among the nation's leaders in city school systems which train their students to be employable citizens.

The economic chaos throughout the country since the depression has made it difficult—if not impossible—for millions of persons to find jobs in private industry. In the last few years of this critical period, the Chicago high schools have moved steadily forward in their task of preparing students to go out and earn a livelihood.

Ready for His Chance.

There is no blanket gurantee, of course, that every graduate of a technical or commercial course in the city's high schools will find a job awaiting him with his diploma. But he is ready to step into a job when he finds it, without having to take postgraduate training, because in his formative years he has had the necessary instruction.

And more and more of the high school graduates are finding jobs actually ready for them, because leaders in business and industry and many of the trade unions are coöperating with the schools. These leaders prefer taking their artisans from the Chicago schools instead of having to import older men from other cities.

Subjects Once Prescribed.

Twenty-five years ago the primary purpose of a high school education was to give the student an academic education, and he had little choice of subjects—the prescribed course included mathematics, history, foreign language, and the classics of literature. That course of instruction gave the graduate a good foundation for college. But if he didn't go to college—and it is estimated that not much more than 2 per cent of high school graduates went to college at that time—he had gained few tools with which to earn a livelihood.

Today about 90 per cent of Chicago's high school graduates do not continue on to college or to a university. The 10 per cent who do go on with their studies are not overlooked in the high school system—they may still elect the academic course and get all their requirements for college entrance.

All Get Good Background.

Nor are the 90 per cent whose formal education will be concluded in high school deprived of all academic background. They must take courses in history, civics, mathematics, and English in addition to their vocational studies.

The boy or girl who wishes a vocational education need no longer go to a private school. Nearly every standard trade or form of business training is given in the public high schools. The old argument, "I've got to quit school so I can get a job quickly" is robbed of much of its force. The schools are training for those jobs, and the graduate has served much of the apprenticeship and is ready for work.

There are about 130,000 pupils enrolled annually in Chicago's 37 high schools. Of that number, 20,300 boys attend the three large technical high schools—Crane, Lane, and Tilden, which give instruction in woodwork, forging, welding, foundry, pattern making, cabinet making, printing, air conditioning, linotype operation, aeronautics, auto mechanics, machine and electrical work, mechanical drawing and architectural drawing. All of the 33 other co-educational schools offer some of these courses.

Washburne Gives More Courses.

At the Washburne trade school are given many of the courses offered at the three technical high schools, and also courses in plastering, lathing, carpentry, sheet metal work, plumbing, steamfitting, sign painting, photo engraving, and cylinder press and offset press work.

The board of education is now taking steps to condemn property for the site of a trade school at 87th and Chappel avenue.

This school which may be in operation by the fall of 1938 will offer instruction in the basic trades and will accomodate 6000 students many of whom will be transferred to it after two years in the other technical schools. At the new school will be offered many courses now given at the other schools and also instruction in bricklaying masonry meteorology, and special trades of the steel industry.

Trains 3,000 Girls.

Industrialists have already declared they will coöperate with the new school, will hire many of its graduates as apprentices and will lend some of their department heads as lecturers at the school. After boys graduate from this school and go to work, many employers will send the boys back for advanced instruction one day a week, the boys receiving full pay for the time they spend in school. The school will have more than 300 teachers, all of whom will have had practical training in their subjects.

The Lucy Flower Technical High school, which enrolls 3,000 girls, has a two fold purpose: training the girl for efficient work as a homemaking citizen and preparing her for a specific career. To this end are offered courses in the domestic sciences, nursing, making of clothing, dietetics, child care, cosmetology, commercial art and applied chemistry.

Many of its graduates find direct employment in millinery and clothing workrooms, in hospital diet kitchens, in department stores, and in restaurants, cafeterias, and tearooms.

Commercial courses are offered in all of the thirty-three co-educational high schools and are taken by about 40,000 students. The courses include typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping, comptometry, selling and merchandising, and clerical practice.

The old Jones school building at Harrison street and Plymouth court is now being remodeled and is expected to be in operation by the fall semester as a central commercial high school, with accommodations for 1,200 students.

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, in explaining the theory of vocational education pointed out that it is making the schools more democratic in purpose.

[Another story by Mr. Korman about the Chicago schools will follow.]

DROP SPEEDING CHARGE AGAINST JUDGE BRAUDE

Berwyn City Attorney Refuses to Prosecute.

Municipal Judge J M. Braude was dismissed when arraigned yesterday on a speeding charge before Police Magistrate Frank Pavek in Berwyn. Magistrate Pavek issued a nol pros in the case at the insistence of City Attorney William E. Oplatka, who said he did not want to prosecute an officer of another court for a trafic violation.

The Chicago jurist was arrested last Wednesday in Ogden avenue near Harlem avenue in the suburb by Policeman Leo Beck, who charged him with driving at 60 miles an hour in a 40 mile an hour zone. Judge Braude insisted at that time and again yesterday that he had not been going faster than 45 miles an hour.

Judge Asks Case Be Tried.

"I do not feel that I want to prosecute an officer of another court for a mere trafic violation," said Prosecutor Oplatka in asking for the nol pros. "There has been much publicity regarding this case, and we are not interested in its merits."

"I am perfectly willing to have the case tried now and abide by the court's decision," Judge Braude replied. Magistrate Pavek agreed to sustain the prosecutor's motion, however, but with the statement that the case should be tried in fairness to all parties concerned.

Avenue Called "Death Trap."

After Judge Braude's arrest the Chicago Motor club charged it had received complaints that Ogden avenue in Berwyn is regarded as a speed trap. Similar statements were received by Judge Braude. Regarding that charge, Oplatka said in court: "Ogden avenue had better be called a death trap." No other mention of a speed trap was made in the hearing.

Judge Braude appeared in the Berwyn court shortly after 9 a. m., although the case had been set for 10 a. m., and asked that his case be heard as soon as possible so he could return to his Chicago court. Chief Joseph Pilat, who arrived after the case was concluded, said he had received no complaints that there was a speed trap in the suburb.

New View on Policeman's Word.

Outside the court room Judge Braude, who sits regularly in Boys' court, but also sometimes in Trafic court, said:

"I don't know how I am going to believe a policeman's testimony in the future. Hereafter, when a motorist insists he was going at a certain speed and the policeman says he was going faster, it is going to be difficult for me to accept the officer's word."

DRUNKEN DRIVER WHO FLED CRASH GETS SIX MONTHS

Lawrence Le Duc, a clerk living at 4300 Ellis avenue, was sentenced to six months each yesterday on charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident, when arraigned before Municipal Judge George B. Weiss in Safety court. The sentences, to run concurrently, were among the severest to be handed out in the court.

On June 20 Le Duc drove his car headon into an automobile driven by Richard O. Kramp in front of 1642 Diversey boulevard. Mildred Kramp and Richard Jr. were injured.

Lothar Deus, 35, of Hammond, Ind., who was in an accident yesterday at 79th street and South Chicago avenue, was sentenced to serve 10 days in jail or pay a $100 fine for driving while drunk. He paid the fine. Fern Betts, 31, 665 Diversey boulevard, was fined $10 and costs for leaving the scene of an accident after her car struck a parked car on June 18 in front of 3632 North Damen avenue.

HORNER-HUGHES PATRONAGE WAR STILL IS A DRAW

Drivers' License Bill Up to Conference.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—The legislature tonight is going into the final rounds of the bout between Gov. Henry Horner and Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes for the patronage that would be created by enactment of a drivers' license law.

A blow by blow and foul by foul review of the engagement since the first driver bill was introduced last Feb. 2 shows that both participants have been hit hard. However, unless public opinion halts the battle before this assembly is ended a week from Wednesday, the main sufferers will be the motorists who will be deprived of a regulatory statute designed to save lives.

Both Sides Adamant.

This evening neither side indicated any willingness to call the fight a draw and to divide the patronage for the sake of passing a driver bill. The governor declined to make any statement and in the opposite corner Hughes and his political sponsor, P. A. Nash, chairman of the Cook county Democratic central committee, were equally uncommunicative.

Tonight the senate, which is aligned with Mr. Hughes, authorized its presiding officer, Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, to name five members on a conference committee to consider the patronage issue. He picked five who will fight for the secretary of state as uncompromisingly as the five chosen from the house last week to fight for the governor.

The committee, which will probably meet tomorrow, consists of Senators George M. Maypole [D., Chicago], Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], James O. Monroe [D., Collinsville], James B. Leonardo [R., Chicago], and Arnold P. Benson [R., Batavia], and Representatives Nicholas L. Hubbard [D., Mount Pulaski], Thomas A. Bolger [D., McHenry], William Vicars [D., Pontiac], Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown], and I. H. Streeper [R., Alton].

The bill offered in the house Feb. 2 provided for administration of the act by the governor's highway department. In ten years of drivers' license advocacy in Springfield, the secretary of state always had been proposed for the job.

House Reverses Position.

It was not until May 19 that the bill was called on second reading. The representatives, by a narrow majority, voted to give the administration to Hughes. After a week-end of aggressive lobbying by F. Lynden Smith, the governor's campaign manager and director of public works, the house reversed itself May 24 and returned the administration to the highway department. The house passed the bill June 1, four months after introduction.

In the senate a drivers' bill with Hughes as administrator was introduced April 28 and passed May 25. The representatives since have been holding this bill on second reading.

The senators, turning to Horner's bill, amended it June 9 giving Hughes the administration, eliminating the fee, and halving the appropriation. They passed it June 14. The house refused June 15 to concur in amendments. The senate the following day refused to recede. And last Thursday the house requested a conference committee, but stalled in sending the message to the senate until it was too late for the upper chamber to act before the week-end recess.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1937 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

DRIVER, 16, HELD AFTER HIS AUTO STRIKES BOY OF 8

Edward Bandish, 8 years old, 708 West 47th street, suffered internal injuries yesterday when he was struck by an automobile in Union avenue near 47th street. The automobile was driven by Francis Courtney, 16 years old, 5259 South Halsted street, who was detained by the police for questioning.

Mrs. Nettie Dishman, 50 years old, was injured seriously yesterday and her grandson, Richard Singer, 5, suffered a fracture of the left arm when they were struck by an automobile in Ogden avenue near Oakley boulevard. They live at 1531 South Trumbull avenue. Charles Daly, 50, 4530 North Clifton avenue, was the driver of the car.

There were no automobile deaths in Chicago yesterday. Up to 4 p. m. 492 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 382 were killed in Chicago, where in the same period 9,904 were injured in trafic accidents.

WOUNDS FLEEING BURGLAR.

The police were notified yesterday by Oakley Johnson, 1842 North Wells street, a watchman, that he had wounded one of two colored men when he fired on them as they attempted to break into the Sam Much grocery store, 406 East 33d street. The burglars fled, he said.

JUDGE M'GARRY TO BE WED; SH-H! DON'T TELL HIM

He's Keeping His Marriage Today a Secret.

If this doesn't come as a surprise to anyone else, then Judge Joseph H. McGarry — the only one who shouldn't be surprised—will be very much surprised indeed:

He's going to be married this morning.

The news won't surprise anyone in the county building or the city hall, because everyone in both buildings knew about the Municipal court judge's secret yesterday. But it's bound to surprise Judge McGarry, because he was so very careful to keep it from becoming known.

Friends Become Suspicious.

He was so cautious, indeed, that his friends all became suspicious. Within a few minutes, it was common knowledge that the judge had taken out a license to marry Miss Beatrice Carvlin, who lives at 5742 Kenmore avenue.

And so all the officials went around smiling wisely because they knew the judge's secret. And the judge went around smiling just as wisely because he thought they didn't.

He didn't even tell his best friends, Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Circuit court, and Harold Sullivan, Circuit court master in chancery.

Invitations Are Issued.

Judge McGarry couldn't have found them to let them in on the secret if he'd wanted to, because they were out telling the rest of his friends about it. On behalf of Judge McGarry, with whom they served overseas, they invited city and county officials and the police and fire departments to the ceremony.

The wedding will be at 10 a. m. at St. Mary's church, 911 South Wabash avenue.

But don't tell a soul. The judge thinks it's a secret.

TOURING KILLER TRIES TO HANG SELF IN CELL

Lonoke, Ark., June 21.—(AP)—Sherif Troy Carroll said today "Crime Tourist" Lester Brockelhurst tried to hang himself in his jail cell "because he knows he is going to get the electric chair and is tired of waiting."

Carroll said the former Galesburg, Ill., Sunday school teacher used his blanket to swing himself from the ceiling of his cell last night, but was cut down by officers before suffering any ill effects.

Brockelhurst, 23 years old, faces trial Thursday for the hitch-hike killing of Victor A. Gates, Little Rock landowner, last May 6. Jointly accused with him is his sweetheart, Bernice Felton, 18, of Rockford, Ill.

The certificate above, differently numbered, appears each day except Sunday. 12 Mark Twain Certificates, each differently numbered, qualify the holder to receive a set of two volumes of "The Complete Works of Mark Twain" (in twenty-four volumes) in accordance with the terms of the Chicago Tribune's Good-Will Offer.

THE SAFE, SENSIBLE WAY TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

Every one knows the dangers of constipation. Pills and drugs usually bring only temporary relief. That's because common constipation is due to meals low in "bulk."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains "bulk" that does not break down in the body as does that of many leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water and forms a soft mass that gently sponges the intestines.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. In addition to "bulk"—it gives vitamin B to tone up the system, and iron for the blood. It is a healthful way to get rid of constipation and all its evils.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily with milk or cream—three times a day in severe cases. Or use it in making bran muffins, breads, in salads or soups. Guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ECONOMY LOSES AS DEMOCRATIC SENATORS SPLIT

Roosevelt Policy Wins in Relief Bill Battle.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The relief and spending policies of President Roosevelt triumphed in the United States senate today despite the greatest split in the Democratic party on any major issue to reach a vote since Mr. Roosevelt took office.

With all the President's nominal leaders voting against him, the senate rejected, 49 to 34, an amendment to the pending two billion, 23 million dollar relief bill under which local sponsors of WPA projects would have been required to put up 25 per cent of the cost or else take a virtual pauper's oath.

Robinson Offers Proposal.

Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas offered the amendment and voted for it. Others who voted for it included Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee; Senator Key Pittman [D., Nevada], president pro tempore of the senate, and Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], the President's official spokesman on the four billion, 880 million dollar relief bill in 1935.

The vote on the Robinson amendment followed three hours of tumultuous debate in which Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.], chairman of the appropriations committee, delivered one of the philippics for which he is famous, charging that the spendthrift recklessness of congress and this administration "is precipitating this country into actual bankruptcy."

Charges Treasury Coercion.

Senator Glass also charged that the treasury is coercing banks into buying government securities and that the banks have no other recourse because of the huge investment already made in government bonds.

Senator Glass, the ranking Democrat member of the banking and currency committee, denounced the treasury propaganda about "oversubscriptions" whenever new issues of government securities are placed on the market. They are not subscriptions at all, he said, but "allocations."

A drop of 10 points below the par value of government bonds would destroy the banks and precipitate a disaster "the like of which has never been known in the history of the world," the fiery Virginian declared.

Barkley Defends President.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], who is a pretender to the Democratic leadership when and if that post is vacated by Senator Robinson's appointment to the Supreme court, led the fight against the Robinson amendment at the personal request, it is understood, of President Roosevelt.

Barkley denounced what he termed the "abortive" efforts of economy advocated to reduce or "ham string" the relief appropriation demanded by the President. He assailed the proposal first made by Senator Byrnes to cut all appropriation bills by a flat 10 per cent, and he sneered at efforts of Senator Byrnes, Senator Robinson, Senator Harrison and others to get the relief appropriation for the 1938 fiscal year cut down to one billion dollars.

Uses Roosevelt Words.

"We trusted our great leader in 1935, when we appropriated four billion, 880 million dollars," Barkley said. "Why can't we trust him now, when we are marching up the hill of prosperity because of his policies?"

In attacking the Robinson amendment, Barkley used the very words employed by President Roosevelt in opposing it last week. He said the President should not be called upon to "convert himself into a Moody's manual" to determine what cities should put up 25 per cent and what cities were bankrupt, unable to put up anything.

Senator Robinson offered his amendment as a compromise when it became apparent that a similar amendment, requiring 40 per cent local contributions, which Senator Byrnes proposed, would be rejected. The Byrnes amendment, put in the bill by the appropriations committee, was rejected, 58 to 25, by the senate.

Glass Takes Floor.

Senator Glass took the floor after Senator Barkley had concluded with thanks to "God Almighty" for President Roosevelt, "who has led our people out of the wilderness and who is a leader sufficiently adventuresome not to be afraid to plow through new ground in the solution of the great economic and social problems that beset our great people."

"I think," said Senator Glass, "that the senate has been treated to more lacrimose rhetoric than it has ever heard before in the history of the republic. I do not think that we have yet gotten out of the vale of tears. I think that more economic blunders, if not in some instances economic crimes, have been perpetrated by congress in the name of starving people who never starve and freezing people, not one of whom has ever frozen, than the imagination can conjure up.

Asks Who Is to Pay.

"I shall vote for the amendment of the senator from Arkansas because I believe that in some small measure it will make the people tax conscious. I do not believe the governors of the states or the lobby of the mayors of the various cities are in any degree tax conscious. The talk about the cities and communities being unable to pay a certain percentage of the costs that they incur for the nation raises the question as to who is to pay the nearly 40 billion dollars of indebtedness already incurred—not nearly 36 billion, but nearly 40 billion, if not over that when we count the contingent indebtedness of the United States. Who is to pay it? Are we to repudiate the national debt or are we to pay the national debt at maturity and as it matures?"

Borah Backs Proposal.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] supported the Robinson amendment on the ground that it might force some degree of economy upon the administration of the relief appropriation. The Supreme court's recent decisions in the social security cases, Senator Borah declared, constituted the greatest economic change in the history of this country and placed a tremendous new responsibility upon congress as the controller of the nation's purse strings.

"Not much has been said and very little debate has taken place on the great change which has occurred in recent months with reference to the taxing power in the United States," said Senator Borah. "The responsibility now under the decision of the Supreme court is entirely or almost entirely with congress. The court has said, and by the unanimous vote of all parties and all divisions of the government, that the congress may now lay taxes, impose duties and excises, to provide for the common defense and to take care of the general welfare of the country. It has further said that the discretion as to what is the general welfare is practically in the hands of congress.

Calls Change Serious.

"We have not as yet felt the effect of that policy, but to have established the policy of this government by the consent of all departments of the government and by consent of all political parties that the congress may lay taxes to take care of anything that congress regards as for the general welfare, constitutes the most serious change in the economic situation of this country of which I can conceive.

"Let us not forget that after all is said and done, and all the talk that we indulge in about taxes in high brackets and about gift taxes, the great burden of taxation falls upon the masses in this country. Analyze the gift taxes, analyze the income taxes in the higher brackets, and set the two sums down beside the other taxes which are passed on and on and on, most of them until they reach the man who can not pass them on, the burden falls upon the great mass of the people of this country."

VOLIVA TESTIFIES BOY CONFESSED HE FIRED TABERNACLE IN ZION

Thomas Griffith.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Catholic church of Zion, testified yesterday that he was present when Thomas Griffith, 19 years old, confessed he set the grudge fire which destroyed Zion's famed Shiloh tabernacle April 2.

Voliva was the first witness in the Zion youth's trial, which began yesterday before a jury in the Circuit court of Judge Ralph J. Dady of Lake county at Waukegan. Griffith, who if convicted faces a penalty of 1 to 10 years in prison, has repudiated the confession.

Voliva declared the temple was destroyed in 75 minutes. He said he discovered fires in several parts of the structure and heard two explosions. The overseer testified that Griffith confessed setting the fire because of a fancied grievance.

Hughes Warns Nation Against Teachings of Alien Philosophy

Providence, R. I., June 21.—[Special.]—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes today warned against the "insidious teachings of an alien philosophy" that in the long run, safe as we are at present, may affect the ability of our democracy to survive.

In an address before the annual alumni meeting of Brown university, from which he was graduated in 1881, the chief justice spoke of those who are "congenitally unable to think straight."

"The arch enemies of society," he said, "are those who know better, but by indirection, misstatement, understatement and slander seek to accomplish their concealed purposes or to gain profit of some sort by misleading the public."

School Problems Society's.

The eminent jurist reviewed briefly the history of the university and pointed out that educational problems are always but a phase of the larger problems of society. Especially, he said, is that seen today.

"The economic dislocations following the great war," Justice Hughes declared, "have produced conditions, national and international, which vex the imagination and confuse the judgment.

"We still proclaim the old ideals of liberty, but we cannot voice them without anxiety in our hearts. The question is no longer one of establishing democratic institutions, but of preserving them.

"The question is no longer one of triumphing over sectional discords and unifying the nation, but whether a united people, putting forth its great strength for national ends, will leave appropriate scope for individual freedom.

"The question is not one of the adequate power of government, designed to keep clear the highways of honest endeavor, but how that power shall be used. Safe as we may still be in the present, what of the look ahead?

"Are our democratic impulses growing weaker, and under the pressure of economic forces and the insidious teachings of an alien philosophy will our democracy be able to survive?"

The answer to these questions, the justice said, "should not be a pessimistic surrender, but a quickening of the resolve to utilize the resources of reason to their fullest extent.

"Put no confidence in mere forms or in institutional arrangements however astutely contrived in the interest of liberty," he warned. "All these arrangements depend upon the popular will.

"The security of our democratic institutions is not in existing constitutional provisions or framework of government, but in the dominant sentiment which maintains them."

Buttresses of Democracy.

Referring to the standard of freedom of learning that has been Brown university's heritage, the veteran justice said:

"Freedom of learning, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, freedom of conscience—these are our security, the essential buttresses of democratic institutions.

"In the conflicts of opinion, with freedom for all, we have confidence in the triumph of the true over the false, of the worthy over the meretricious. By that freedom alone, may we hope that experience will be able to teach its salutary lessons and that public ills which may be due to temporary aberrations will find correctives."

GAMBLING

By CALEB

IN a sunny sidewalk cafe a group of people had just completed their luncheon. Several women and a man rose from a table and sauntered indoors. A six-year-old boy and his father remained. The locale—Miami Beach.

The small boy ate his dessert thoughtfully for a few moments and said, "Where's Mother? Has she gone in to those slot machines?"

An old gentleman at an adjoining table laughed and remarked, "He has learned at an early age where to look for missing people here."

Slot machines in some parts of Florida are as much a part of one's surroundings and daily life as are automobiles or chairs or beds. In Florida's Hollywood, in the stores in one block are more than twenty slot machines. During all waking hours of the day and night people are clustered around them—of all ages and apparently of all degrees of affluence.

Merchants, cashing in on this public mania, pay an important percentage of their expenses with the returns from the machines. . . .

Miami is in a political fight because a man reputed to be a great gambling operator is attempting to gain political importance in order to strengthen control of numerous bookies.

Returning from Florida recently, Chicagoans found our papers full—as full as the local taverns—of slot machines.

And now to cap the climax, we have received through the mail a carefully printed, three-piece mailing from Cuba urging us to participate in the Cuban government's lottery.

It is amazing how many people live on the cupidity of the public. It is amazing how many persons cash in on and make money out of the public's love of gambling.

Our business has been successful through precisely the opposite tastes of the public. It was Marshall Field's belief that a person spending money for merchandise should be taking no chance. No matter how ingrained a man's desire to gamble is, he does not want to gamble on the merchandise he buys, reasoned Mr. Field.

We still follow the early Field rule of eliminating the customer's gamble on merchandise. It has been our ambition that if any store in the world could eliminate chance for the customer in his purchases, it would be our store.

NEW BILL RISES TO COMPLICATE PAROLE REFORM

Crime Foes Fear Attempt to Becloud Issue.

structive measure, a cry was raised by the other crowd—hitherto silent—that they had a "constructive measure," too, he said.

Court of Judges Sought.

"The so-called constructive measure merely tends to glorify the present parole board members, enhance their powers, put robes on them, and give them more pay and dignity," Representative Schnackenberg declared.

"The Fisher-Adamowski bill calls for a court of seven members to administer paroles. The members would have the title of judge. They would have the power to subpena witnesses and compel testimony under oath. And their pay would be doubled."

The sponsors of the Fisher-Adamowski bill are a number of club members, representatives of some civic societies and others recently termed theorists by Mr. Loesch.

Six Sign Letter.

No mention of the Fisher plan was made in the letter sent to the governor. It was signed by Mr. Loesch, Judges Prystalski and O'Connell, and Attorneys Moynihan, Geiman, and Green. The letter cites the outburst of indignation against the present parole law and its administration caused by the killing of several Chicago policemen, and continues, in part:

"The Ward-Schnackenberg bill, passed by both houses of the legislature, does not abolish the indeterminate sentence. The purpose of the bill was to allow the presiding judge at the trial of the case to fix a minimum sentence after conviction of the defendant, but within the present minimum and maximum sentence prescribed by law.

"In other words, a judge in passing sentence in a case of robbery with a gun, could fix the sentence at from 10 to 15 years instead of the prescribed sentence of from one year to life, or 1 year to 18 months.

Assurances for Society.

"Society would have the assurance that the defendant would not be released before the expiration of the minimum term imposed by the court. The responsibility for the length of time a person would serve in the penitentiary upon conviction would be allocated to one elected official, qualified by training and experience to administer sentences, rather than an appointed board of seven members.

"The opponents of this bill argue that a person convicted of a crime is socially sick and should be confined in a penal institution only until he recovers. The inconsistency of this argument is that no treatment is accorded the prisoner while in the penitentiary to assist him in recovering from the so-called sickness."

SLAYER JAILED FOR LIFE

John Mikosz (right) with Chief Deputy Sherif Edward Scholler after he was sentenced yesterday for slaying laundry truck driver.

John Mikosz, 18 years old, was sentenced yesterday to life imprisonment in Joliet penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba in Criminal court on a charge of murder. Two additional sentences of one year to life for robbery with a gun were imposed to run concurrently with the life sentence.

Mikosz was sentenced to the life term on his plea of guilty of the murder of Edward Niewierowski, 40 years old, 2451 Cortez street, a laundry truck driver, who was killed April 6 in a holdup. His companion in the murder, Walter Pekovitch, 18 years old, 1101 North Hermitage avenue, was convicted last week by a jury and was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary.

"You have led a depraved life for one so young," Judge Schwaba said in sentencing Mikosz. "It is better for society that you be put away."

Two other paroled convicts were reported named by the grand jury yesterday in true bills charging them with robbery with a gun and with being habitual criminals. They are Roy Lester, 35 years old, 1050 Buena avenue, and Rudolph Kacic, 29 years old, 3244 North Cicero avenue.

Named with them are Emma Patzer, 20 years old, alias Connie Fanter, and Joseph Neri, 26 years old, of 3244 North Cicero avenue.

SEEK REVOCATION OF SUBURBAN BUS LINE'S FRANCHISE

Mayors and trustees of nine southwest suburbs with a total population of more than 20,000 voted last night to petition the Illinois commerce commission to revoke the franchise of the Southwest Towns Bus Lines. They said 11 of the company's 14 buses are unfit for safe service. The communities, all dependent to a great extent on bus transportation, are Evergreen Park, Oak Lawn, Columbus Manor, Chicago Ridge, North Oak Lawn, Worth, Palos Park, Palos Heights, and Orland Park. The officials met in Brandt hall, Oak Lawn.

MANY NOT GOING TO ROOSEVELT'S CONGRESS PARTY

More than 100 Fail to Accept.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt learned today that more than 100 congressmen had failed to respond to invitations to the Democratic "love feast" scheduled for this week-end at Jefferson island in Chesapeake bay.

Sent out a week ago, the invitations carried an "R. S. V. P." requesting immediate acceptance. In former years the bids have been highly prized inasmuch as they provide an opportunity not only to see Mr. Roosevelt personally in informal surroundings but also because vast quantities of whisky, beer, and oysters are available for the fun loving statesmen.

The lack of enthusiasm for the festival among such a large group of Democratic representatives was therefore all the more significant. The house leadership swung into action immediately. Majority Leader Sam Rayburn delegated Representative M. C. Wallgren [D., Wash.], member of the whip organization, and a popular back slapper, to interview the reluctant congressmen.

By nightfall, Wallgren said, he had won over more than a score of the reluctant members. It was considered probable that eventually not more than fifty congressmen would hold out against the skilful pressure applied by the whip organization.

THREE YEAR REPRIEVE IS GRANTED TO CCC UNDER COMPROMISE

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The house today approved extension of the Civilian Conservation corps for a period of three years.

President Roosevelt had asked that the corps be placed on a permanent basis. Denouncing the practice of making the "emergency" organizations of the government a permanent burden on the taxpayer, the house rebelled and voted an extension of the CCC for two years only.

The more amenable senate acceded to the President's wishes and passed a bill setting up the CCC as a permanent organization.

The bills then went into conference between the two houses and the three year compromise was worked out.

FEDERAL PAROLE SYSTEM BLOCKS QUICK RELEASES

Illinois Bill Seeks to Achieve Same End.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The federal parole system was cited by criminologists yesterday in support of the Ward-Schnackenberg parole reform bill passed by the legislature at Springfield, and expected to go to Gov. Horner soon for his approval or veto.

Law enforcement groups held the federal method has been devoid of the scandals which for years has attended the state parole system in turning loose hardened criminals who plunge into new crimes.

Of 4,603 paroled prisoners handled by the federal bureau of prisons last year, 96 per cent lived up to the conditions of parole. Of the 194 violators of parole, a majority was said to have been guilty of minor infractions, such as failing to report on time. Of 6,654 conditionally released prisoners handled in the year, 90 per cent lived up to the terms of release. These are prisoners with criminal records who are denied parole, but have time out for good behavior in prison.

Points of Superiority.

Lack of politics in "springing" prisoners, better selection of the personnel of the parole agencies, closer contacts with parolees, and a narrower limit of the powers of the parole board are held to be the chief points of superiority of the federal system over that of Illinois.

The federal rules say a prisoner has no "right" to parole. The board at Washington grants a parole only when, according to the rules, "it is not incompatible with the public interests."

A prisoner is not eligible to apply for parole until he has served one-third the total term or terms, if the total sentence is more than a year. Good prison conduct is a prerequisite.

Opponents of the Schnackenberg-Ward bill contend it provides that the court shall fix maximum and minimum sentences within the law. Law enforcement leaders argue the effect of this would be somewhat similar to the federal practice, although the federal law does not say this in so many words.

Early Parole Blocked.

In the federal courts the judge passes sentence within the range of penalties set forth in the law. It is not directly minimum and maximum sentence. But until the prisoner has served a minimum of one-third of any sentence of over a year, he is not eligible to apply for parole. In essence, it is argued, this is the equivalent of a minimum sentence in that it blocks parole of a prisoner until he has served a certain portion of his sentence. Such is the practice as set forth yesterday at probation and parole headquarters in the federal building.

The Chicago parole officers, headed by Walter K. Urich, chief, and Charles W. Fisher, next in charge, are selected by the federal judges and appointed with the approval of Washington. They are not politicians—not a precinct captain among them.

When a parole plan is submitted on behalf of an eligible prisoner, it is checked up at great pains. The prospective parolee must have employment in sight and an environment conducive to reclaiming him for society. The agent checks up to see if the employer will really give the man a job that will last at least several months and that it is not merely a scheme to get the prisoner out. The agent checks up on the home conditions to which the man will return, then turns in his report to the parole board at Washington.

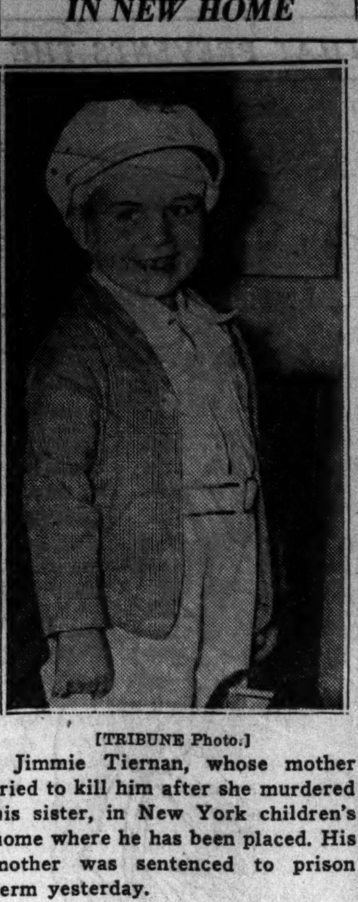
Hearings Conducted.

This board holds hearings at each federal prison, with one board member present. In the prison is a social service unit. This gets the background and history of the case, and other data. Last year, with a federal prison population of 15,055, parole releases numbered 2,204 out of 7,855 applications.

If a parole is granted the parolee has to report once a month to his parole adviser, who must be a substantial, responsible man.

According to the bureau, men with previous criminal records seldom get paroles. Prisoners who get out on conditional release, a modified parole reducing the prison period on account of good behavior, must report in person each month. All parolees and those conditionally released remain under such supervision until the sentence as imposed by the court terminates.

IN NEW HOME



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Jimmie Tiernan, whose mother tried to kill him after she murdered his sister, in New York children's home where he has been placed. His mother was sentenced to prison term yesterday.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Two slayers who were permitted to plead guilty to second degree murder were sentenced today, one to twenty years to life and the other to thirty-five years to life.

The lesser sentence was imposed on Mrs. Helen Tiernan at Riverhead, the "babe in the woods killer" who beat, cut, and burned to death her daughter, Helen, 7 years old, and tried to kill her son, Jimmie, 3, because they interfered with a love affair.

The other sentence was imposed on Micha Ross, vaudeville mandolin player, in Manhattan for the hammer murder of Tania Lubova in a Times Square rehersal hall. General Sessions Judge Saul Streit assailed Ross bitterly and said he should have been tried and convicted of first degree murder.

Samuel Leibowitz, attorney for Ross, said that he would move for resentence on the ground that Ross' offense was no greater than Mrs. Tiernan's.

POLICE BREAK UP MOB AS FRANCE HUNTS CABINET

Socialists Cry "We Want Blum" at Rally.

PARIS, June 22 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Mobile guards early today dispersed 3,000 Socialists attempting to stage a demonstration for the resigned Premier Leon Blum. The crowd had attended a political rally in Luna park and gathered afterward along the Place de la Concorde.

Camille Chautemps.

Chanting "We want Blum," the Socialists gathered around the Arc de Triomphe. Municipal police scattered the paraders, who then turned back into the Champs Elysées. After a short distance of march mobile guards blocked the way and again split the crowds into small groups, restoring calm.

Senate Attacked by Speakers.

The Socialist rally had affirmed its confidence in the Popular Front government of Blum, and speakers attacked the senate for refusing to vote the first Socialist premier of the republic financial powers which he asked. It appeared, nevertheless, that Camille Chautemps would head a new Popular Front government.

Chautemps, 52 years old, a Radical-Socialist leader and twice before premier, was commanded by President Albert Lebrun to form a new government after Blum's resignation early yesterday.

Chautemps was minister of state—minister without portfolio—in the Blum cabinet, and his party was one of those forming the Popular front of Radical Socialists, Socialists and communists which had kept Blum and his cabinet in office a year and 17 days.

Sounds Out Leaders.

Chautemps spent the day in sounding out leaders of the Popular Front parties. Because Socialist support was considered essential to success of his effort to form a cabinet, the premier-designate offered a portfolio to Blum as leader of that party.

Friends of Chautemps said he was ready to offer the ministry of finances to Georges Bonnet, ambassador to the United States and Radical Socialist deputy.

Bonnet's six month period as ambassador is nearly at an end and he would be free to accept the new post. He accepted the Washington post for the limited period so that he would not have to forfeit his chamber seat.

Otherwise it was believed the new cabinet would be almost identical with the preceding one. Blum probably will not accept a portfolio, friends declared, but the ex-premier withheld his answer until he consults his Socialist colleagues in their national council meeting today.

It was the financial situation that caused the fall of the Popular Front cabinet. Faced by what he called speculative attacks on the national credit and the value of the franc and a prospective budget deficit of 40 billion francs [$1,760,000,000], Blum demanded he be given power to deal with financial questions by decree—without immediate parliamentary approval—until July 31.

Twice Rejected by Senate.

The bill embodying these powers was twice passed by the chamber of deputies, but the senate rejected the government's bill. Later, Sunday night, it rejected a substitute measure that somewhat curtailed the sweeping powers Blum had asked.

The franc opened stronger yesterday on news of Blum's resignation but the official close was only slightly above that of Friday, at 22.4475 to the dollar.

It will be made from Foynes, Ireland, to Botwood, Newfoundland. Only the one flight will be made on July 5, Pan-American Airways planning their first eastward flight at a later date.

RUSSIA REMOVES PREMIER OF HOME STATE OF STALIN

High Official Disappears; New Trials Loom.

MOSCOW, June 21.—(AP)—G. A. Mgaloblishvili, premier of the Georgian soviet republic, Dictator Josef Stalin's homeland, was removed from office today. An official announcement merely said he was being transferred to other work.

New treason trials were indicated to be in store for soviet leaders as another high communist party official joined the list of those apparently imprisoned in the sweeping purification of party ranks.

Held High Position.

Josef Stanislavovitch Umschlicht, acting secretary of the union executive committee, whose position was equivalent to the speakership of the United States house of representatives, disappeared June 16.

Similar disappearances in recent months have preceded the placing of treason charges against numerous Russian leaders. Umschlicht is a Pole by birth.

The hint of important new trials, following closely the trial and execution of eight army leaders, was made by Prosecutor Andrey Vishinsky.

Discover More Saboteurs.

New evidence incriminating additional "enemies of the people" who have yet to face the courts was uncovered in the recent military trial, Vishinsky asserted.

Discovery of a new band of saboteurs was reported from the Crimea, where the former commissar of social welfare, A. K. Ziumbilova, a woman, was arrested on charges of embezzlement. N. S. Ghorasimenko, manager of the Gorky railway's car department, was dismissed by the commissar of railways and it was reported he would be tried for sabotage for failing to repair cars.

Convict Repudiates Confession of Murders

Warden Joseph Ragen of Stateville penitentiary said yesterday that Henry Euler, a prisoner, has repudiated a confession to two murders in Pennsylvania and Ohio he made last Saturday. Euler is serving a 1 to 14 year term for a service station robbery at Pontiac, Ill.

WAUKEGAN AUDIT LAYS SHORTAGE TO EX-OFFICIAL

A shortage of $2,028 in the accounts of John P. Wyllies, former Waukegan city collector, was revealed last night at a meeting of the Waukegan city council.

Wyllie, a former city clerk, ended a two year term as collector last month. He lives in the Waukegan hotel. An audit made by Charles J. Anderson & Co. of Chicago showed a shortage of $1,500 in liquor license fees, and $238 in vehicle tax funds. Three worthless personal checks of Wyllie's, totaling $290, were reported found in the cash box.

Corporation Counsel George S. McCaughey said he would notify Wyllie and his bondsmen—three Waukegan business men—of the shortage today and demand restitution.

NONSTOP FROM MOSCOW TO WASHINGTON.

The spectacular nonstop flight of the three soviet aviators over the north pole to the United States missed its goal by 580 miles. The destination was Oakland, Cal., and the landing was at Pearson field, Vancouver barracks, Washington. The forced landing short of the objective was attributed to poor visibility.

Whatever may have been the motive or motives of Stalin's government in ordering the flight at this particular moment, it had to be a complete success, and this can be said without detracting from the praise due the flyers themselves, and to hit the prescribed landing, just as Lindbergh put his plane down at Le Bourget field. The flyers did their best, but they did not give Stalin the complete triumph.

In these days, when an objective is announced, the test is in precisely making it. Anything short of that in present competitive air flights does not rate as a perfect performance, no matter what the difficulties may have been.

This was an official soviet government demonstration, undertaken for something more than the pioneering of an air route, as Russian Ambassador Troyanovsky said, to provide a new means of communication between two great nations. Troyanovsky was at San Francisco when the news of the landing reached him, and he flew at once to join the flyers at the Vancouver barracks. The affair was in all respects official, and was so recognized in Washington.

Mr. Roosevelt telegraphed his congratulations to the ambassador and said he had learned with the greatest pleasure of the successful conclusion of the first nonstop flight from the soviet union to the United States, and gave his highest praise to the soviet airmen. It may be that this was the moment for it, when there is so much violence here raised by the government supported C. I. O., led by radical and violent if not communistically minded men, and when Russia's internal dissensions are amazing the world. It was the moment for a demonstration permitting an exchange of greetings of good will between the two governments which at times seem to look alike. The brighter side of soviet life was revealed and the admiration of Americans engaged.

The flight was a soviet exhibit, and in addition to its intended effect upon American public opinion at this time other reasons not contradictory could be entertained as possible. The soviet cause in Spain has just suffered a serious setback in the capture of Bilbao by its German, Italian, and Spanish Fascist enemies. The loss is not merely that of a stoutly defended city and its surrounding regions but also of great mineral resources.

Troyanovsky said that the flight was only the beginning of his country's aviation exploits. The Russian army heads the list of nations in the number of planes, and this was a five year old plane with a Russian army pilot. It could easily be that Stalin, liquidating his enemies at home and oppressed by the turn of events in favor of Italy and Germany in Spain, thought it was the moment to show what Russian aviation could do, not with one of the new models of fighting planes but with an old one.

Japan is an ally of Germany against Russia and not well equipped in the air. Japan might read in the flight from Moscow to Vancouver barracks an intimation of what would happen to its large cities when flights of Russian bombers and pursuit planes took off from Siberian fields on a nonstop war visit to its eastern enemy, if an attack were made on two fronts against the soviets. Germany itself might read an intimation if the soviet planes flew across Czechoslovakia.

In congratulating the gallant Russian flyers a note might be made of the fact that they were fortunate not to crash, because if they had and had lived they might have found themselves guilty of wrecking activities.

MOLASSES IN THE CORN CRIB.

The United States commerce department reports disclose that imports of corn are continuing to rise rapidly. The total receipts so far this year have been 29 million bushels, against 4 million 500 thousand for the corresponding period last year. Congressmen from corn producing states are proposing increasing taxes on the product.

Something to engage the speculative mind is forever arising in the corn business. The American corn acreage reduction was brought to its full achievement by Mr. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, and his first assistant, Dr. Rexford Tugwell. At the time of the reduction Mr. Wallace's Hi-bred corn, which could get astonishingly more out of an acre than any other, was extensively exploited. Dr. Tugwell, when he resigned from the storm center of the federal administration, became vice president of the American Molasses company, under his friend Mr. Taussig.

The Taussig firm has been chiefly interested until recently in the importation of molasses. A recent bulletin from the University of Illinois says: "A part of the high priced corn used in fattening cattle in Illinois this spring has been replaced successfully by molasses in cases where sufficient protein has been included in the ration. . . . At present molasses is cheap enough to replace part of the corn satisfactorily in most rations."

We pause to make no comment.

GOVERNOR EARLE'S INNOVATION.

The lexicon of industrial relations contains no term which covers the Johnstown Pennsylvania incident. Strike is obviously not the word for it. A strike is a suspension of work by a body of employés to force an employer to agree to terms desired by the employés. At Johnstown there was no suspension of work. The employés of the steel company plant wanted to work, and were working. They had no dispute with their employer, or at least had not suspended work because of it. They wanted to go right on earning their living.

If there had been a strike of a part of the working force the strikers could have picketed the plant to attempt to make the strike unanimous. Picketing has a sanction in law, but it has to be peaceful. When it amounts to intimidation, or when violent methods are resorted to, it has been condemned by the Supreme court of the United States in decisions in which the most liberal justices have joined.

The C. I. O. organizers failed to produce a strike at Johnstown, even by using methods uniformly condemned by the courts. They appealed to the governor to close down the plant in which they had not been able to bring about a strike. The governor is one of a group of weaklings now in office who refuses to say no to anything John Lewis asks them to do, however preposterous. He obediently called upon the company to close the plant. And when the company refused to lock out its employés the governor called out the militia to lock the employés out of the plant in which they were working and wanted to continue to work.

Gov. Earle has made three causes for industrial shutdowns grow where but two grew before. Formerly industrial interruptions were due to action only by employés or employers. The one was called a strike, the other a lockout. Industry may be interrupted when there is neither a strike nor a lockout. The state may cause a shutdown when employés want to work and employers want them to.

It may be doubted that Gov. Earle would have acted as he did without an O. K. from Washington. A New Deal spokesman will explain that the militia was called out to close the Johnstown plant so as to avoid taking sides. That was precisely the excuse that was offered to explain the failure to use force to keep the United States mails functioning in Ohio.

The rule is that the armed force of the government will be used when it promotes John Lewis' interests and will be withheld when it doesn't.

So one wonders whether private industry was purposely liquidated in Johnstown on the day the communist flyers were to have triumphantly landed in San Francisco, or whether the landing of the communists was to have coincided with the closing of the mills.

LANDING THE GENTRY.

A number of Americans, it may be a very large number, have received from editorial offices at 6 Carmelite street, London E. C. 4, letters which begin: "I have to inform you that your name and family history has been selected as an American collateral branch of one of our ancient lineages in Burke's Centenary Year Issue—the Great Coronation Edition De Luxe."

The priceless name of Burke—it isn't, to be sure, "Burke's Peerage" that you are invited, if you have been, to enter. But nevertheless it is Burke's, and it is Burke's Landed Gentry. The gratified American has also received accompanying the letter a "Pedigree Form for Completion by Selected Collateral Families Overseas."

"No monetary liability is incurred by sending in this form. An order form for this genealogical authority and social guide, which extends to some 2,800 pages, will be found at the foot of page two."

The order form informs the by now enthralled American that the price of his landing in Burke's Landed Gentry will be $25. He might, it may be said, land without filling out this order blank, but the landing will certainly be happier and surer if the financial interest of the American collateral family is expressed in the terms to which reference is delicately made.

The happy coincidence of the centenary of Burke's and the coronation falling in the same year makes an attractive offering for any collateral who has the collateral to make the grade. The backward state of our laws regarding peerages and titles of nobility restricts the opportunities our English friends can offer us to those of the landed gentry. Any gent so landed will know he has been.

There is another book which Americans are being importuned to purchase. It is Jim Farley's book, in which you will not find your own name but the names of certain Americans of distinction, some of whom might be regarded as landed gentry. Jim's book costs $250—even corporations by a special dispensation may buy it and are being urged to—but the plain citizen who pays Jim's price will get nothing in return and possibly some of our collateral families overseas will think that they get more for their $25 in London than they would get for their $250 in Washington.

Before a play can be produced in Berlin a great many solemn preliminaries must be complied with. Among them is the production of birth certificates by the actors and authors to assure the citizens of the Third Reich that their appreciation of the drama will not be contaminated by non-Aryans. Such a request was received by Sinclair Lewis and Sydney Howard, co-authors of "Dodsworth," which a German impresario wanted to produce in Berlin. Herr Bartsch had to have the "antecedents" of Messrs. Lewis and Howard in writing. He got them, as follows:

Dear Mr. Bartsch:

I am afraid that with deep regret we shall be unable to give you certificates guaranteeing that we are Aryan. Who knows what ancestors we may have had in the last few hundred years? We really are as ignorant of them as even Hitler of his.

In answering, please use our proper legal names: Sidney Horowitz, Sinclair Levy.

Yours sincerely,

SIDNEY HOWARD,
SINCLAIR LEWIS.

Somehow we feel that "Dodsworth" has about as much chance of being produced in Berlin as the later Lewis-Howard collaboration known as "It Can't Happen Here"—about as much chance, indeed, as that this comic letter will be read by any German other than a somewhat jittery Herr Bartsch.

SYRUPY ANSWER FROM GRANDPA.

One of my earliest recollections of grandfather is based on the tender care he gave his beard. It was long and silky and pure white, and every few days he washed it carefully and ended by rinsing it in a pan to which he had added a little bluing. . . . One day, just after he had gone through the ritual, which included drying before the fireplace, he consented to carry a jug of molasses down to the cellar for grandmother. On the third step he slipped. Although he regained his balance, some of the molasses sloshed out of the jug onto his whiskers and perversely worked its way in. Grandmother, who had heard the clatter, called down to him: "Edward, did you break my pitcher?" . . . Silence for a few seconds. Then a roar: "No; but I damn soon will." . . . CRASH. To check the use of liquor by soldiers the Fort Crawford Temperance society was organized. Shortly thereafter Maj. That night, as the major and another officer were strolling outside the fort, their attention was attracted to the strange antics of an approaching cat. When they stepped toward it the animal stopped. Maj. Garland picked it up and found that he held a cat's skin stuffed with a bladder full of whisky. It was being dragged from a resort to a thirsty soldier in the barracks and had halted because the officers stepped on the string attached to it. B. E. M.

TWO TYPES OF THYROID DISEASE.

Of the numerous endocrine glands which are constantly pouring highly specialized secretions into the blood, none plays a more important rôle than the thyroid. The hormones which it produces regulate metabolism and when bound up with the nervous system these substances govern the activity of muscles and have much to do with the feeling of well being and the ability to work efficiently.

There are two types of thyroid disease—one which we call toxic, the other nontoxic. One causes symptoms of very severe grade; the other presents merely a swollen gland. The overgrowth, however, may not be visible, the enlargement taking place in a downward direction beneath the upper portion of the breastbone. It is always well, therefore, in any case of increasingly labored breathing, to investigate the possible presence of surplus thyroid tissue that may be pressing upon the windpipe. An X-ray plate will frequently disclose the site of the difficulty.

We cannot distinguish between goiters which are toxic and those which are not, merely by looking at the patient. We must take into consideration a number of manifestations, which include enlargement of the neck, nervousness, loss of weight despite an increased appetite, sweating, rapid pulse, inability to tolerate heat, and diarrhea. If this situation is allowed to proceed without treatment it will become increasingly evident. Later the patient will complain of marked tremor, of rapid heart, and staring—apparently protruding eyeballs.

Even before this panorama of symptoms is observed the physician may insist that a metabolic rate determination be made. This must be carefully performed if it is to be relied upon. If a rate of 20 or more above normal is recorded routinely—after two or three trials—there is reasonable ground for assuming that thyroid difficulty is in the offing.

It has been demonstrated clearly that the initial enlargement of the gland is due to the lack of iodine. This is the reason that iodized salt in concentrations of one part to 200,000 of salt is recommended for the prevention of the disease. Larger proportions are rarely needed. This is borne out by the results of feeding this substance to the school children of Detroit, where the percentage of goiter dropped from 25 to less than 2.

This nonpoisonous form is the only kind of goiter that should be treated with this drug, except as a preparatory measure to the removal of the toxic variety. The indiscriminate use of either thyroid material or of iodine has resulted in much damage.

For the poisonous variety there seems to be no recourse other than skilled surgery, and the relative ease with which these individuals are returned to useful life is little short of miraculous. Although the Roentgen ray has been used with some benefit, it possesses but a fraction of the value of the operative procedure.

The success of removal depends largely upon the care with which the patient is prepared. This entails the administration of iodine [Lugol's solution], which will be followed in most instances by a degree of ease that has not been felt in several months. In addition, the diet is regulated and the food intake stepped up to approximately double that of normal. The pulse falls and so does the metabolic rate. After about seven to ten days on this regimen the operation may be undertaken with relative safety and comfort.

Many patients with a pulse of 140 will find that the level has dropped below 100 and that it will remain low for a short while. It is not surprising that some of these victims feel so much better that they will decide they have recovered, only to discover that the effect of the medication wears off in a short time.

Occasionally, of course, as with almost any gland in the body, the thyroid can become the seat of malignant disease or of some inflammatory reaction. These conditions will give us but mild concern compared to the great group of poisoned men and women who must find relief.

TUBERCULAR KIDNEY.

M. L. writes: Last year I was advised to have the left kidney removed, as it was found, after inoculation test, to be tubercular. Before going to the hospital I suffered great pain and other discomforts, but treatments I received at the hospital helped me and since then I have had no discomfort except occasionally a sick feeling which lasts for five or ten minutes.

Is the danger of infection of the other kidney just as great after removal of the kidney as before? Does the fact that I have no pain indicate that it might be improving? If not taken out will it get worse? Is there any other remedy except operation? I am an arrested case of pulmonary tuberculosis.

REPLY.

Tuberculosis of the kidney usually involves the entire urinary tract. There is no satisfactory medical treatment. Surgical removal offers the only hope of relief. The chances are that you can get along perfectly well with one kidney, provided it is free from disease.

FATTY HEART.

Mrs. S. S. writes: What are the symptoms of a fatty heart in a woman of 57 years? Is it serious? Would diet and exercise help?

REPLY.

The manifestations of fatty degeneration of the heart are breathlessness or cardiac pain on slight exertion, with palpitation or a feeble, irregular pulse. The outlook is unfavorable.

There is no treatment capable of restoring the degenerated muscle fibers. Worry and physical exertion should be avoided. Prolonged rest is advised until the cardiac symptoms subside. When exercise is permitted there should be specific regulation as to type and amount; climbing stairs is prohibited. The diet should consist of easily digested foods. Iron, cod liver oil, and hypophosphites may be administered with value in certain cases.

ROSEOLA.

R. N. C. writes: What information can you give on infantile roseola?

REPLY.

Roseola is a name applied to any rose colored skin eruption. It may be a simple rubella [German measles] or, if there is dilatation of the blood vessels, it may be rosacea juvenilis, a condition of obscure cause, sometimes ascribed to hyperthyroidism.

AN INOCULATION THAT PREVENTS THE DREADED MALADY

From Across the Sea

BY VICENTE PACIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA.—If Paul V. McNutt, United States high commissioner to the Philippines, attended the party in honor of the birthday of King George VI. of Great Britain here June 9 expecting to see himself toasted ahead of President Quezon of the Philippines he was disappointed.

British diplomacy obviated any possible incident which might have had repercussions. Consul General McDermott, when it was time to give the toasts, hit upon a characteristically British compromise and let it go at that.

According to the high commissioner's instructions to consuls the head of the consul's state should first be toasted, then the President of the United States, the high commissioner, and finally the president of the Philippines. The right of McNutt to outrank the president of the Philippines was questioned.

At the British party the consul general rose twice to drink to the health of his sovereign and then to that of President Roosevelt. He rose no more. When most of the guests began to look for McNutt, expecting a third toast, but not knowing whether it would be for him or for Quezon, the consul general declared the party over.

It was at a recent party given by the Japanese consul general in honor of Emperor Hirohito's birthday that, according to reports, McNutt felt slighted. During the toasting the consul offered a toast to the health of Quezon ahead of the high commissioner. A few days later his office issued the circular on toasts. When the circular reached the press a controversy ensued.

The burden of the arguments of those who criticized the high commissioner was that he was merely a sort of a diplomatic official accredited to the Philippine commonwealth, and was not part and parcel of the Philippine government.

The upshot of the controversy seems to be a sort of a victory for McNutt in the sense that he is ahead of his critics in score. There probably will be no toasts for him, it is true, but there will be none for Quezon either. Meanwhile, consuls in the Philippines have been complying with his requirement that consular communications to and from the commonwealth government be routed through the high commissioner's office.

CONTRACT BY MINOR.

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am indebted to a music school for lessons taken between February, 1933, and February, 1934. At the time I paid $143 of the total tuition of $208.50. Since that time I have made no payments on the balance of $65.50, but about a year ago I wrote to the school saying I would make small regular payments to them, but it turned out I was unable to do so. I received a summons today. They claim $85. I was born September, 1913, so at the time I took the lessons I was only 20 years old.

1. Could I get out of paying the debt by saying I was a minor at the time, even though I acknowledged the debt when I was 22? I have no property and have worked only one month since I took the lessons. However, I am the heir to one-eighth of an estate of securities worth about $2,400. The estate is still in Probate court and the heirs do not wish to sell the securities until they are worth more. I am dependent on my mother, who did not know I took the lessons.

On the facts stated [2] what do you advise me to do about the summons?

3. What can they do to me if I explain what I have told you?

4. Can they get my share in the estate?

5. What happens if I do not show up?

W. T.

1. By ratifying the contract after coming of age you would waive your minority defense.
2. Find out what they will take in settlement.
3. They can collect out of your assets.
4. Yes.
5. They will obtain judgment by default, but since no defense appears on the facts you state, they will presumably obtain judgment either way.

PAYMENTS ON DELINQUENT TAXES.

Chicago, June 17.—Some time ago, in order to expedite the collection of real estate taxes, the county treasurer, in conjunction with the state's attorney, inaugurated the so-called six year plan to enable delinquent taxpayers to pay their accumulated taxes up to the year 1930 in semi-annual payments over a period of six years. Many taxpayers, with an earnest desire to adjust their tax difficulties, took advantage of this plan, but, due to the excessive tax bills and reduced rentals subsequent to the year 1930, were unable to meet their current tax bills together with the agreed instalments under the six year plan in full, but made partial payments to the best of their income ability, which payments were accepted by the county treasurer.

Of late the county treasurer has flatly refused to accept any partial payments from any taxpayer under the plan which fall short of 60 per cent, the amount now due. This, it seems to me, is an unbusinesslike and absurd policy inaugurated to harass the already overburdened taxpayer. It cannot possibly accomplish any good, either to the county or to the taxpayer, except to put an additional burden on the latter by the costs engendered by a tax sale or the possible appointment of a tax receiver under the Scarda law. I do not know of any business concern, large or small, which would not gladly accept a partial payment in any amount from a delinquent debtor to reduce its claim, unless it be a loan shark or similar institution seeking an undue advantage. OTTO FETTING.

JOBS IN THE BETTING INDUSTRY.

Chicago, June 16.—Because of the closing of the Chicago hand books several days ago some 30,000 men in Chicago were deprived of employment, many of whom must return to relief rolls. Apparently this action is taken so that the race tracks may avoid losses. Just what do the race tracks mean to this city? Some of these tracks bring help with them from other cities. Why not let the tracks work out their own salvation and let Chicago take care of itself? There is no good reason why Chicago should increase its relief rolls at this time. Moreover, books just outside of this city are running, taking money from this city. LOUIS THOMAS.

BELOW WACKER DRIVE.

Chicago, June 17.—The sidewalk under Wacker drive on the south side may not be intended for pedestrians, but nevertheless is used by hundreds of Illinois Central patrons, especially when it rains, saving many suits and hats in a storm. If the city could find a few second hand street signs or even paint the street names upon the walls it would be greatly appreciated by all, I am sure. F. B. O.

OVERBEARING SECRETARIES.

Chicago, June 17.—I would like to voice my protest against the overbearing, rude, and often impertinent manner of a great many private secretaries of so-called prominent Chicago business men.

Granted that these men are busy executives and that every moment of their valuable time must necessarily be accounted for, it is not pleasant for a quiet, well bred woman, who asks to see Mr. X. personally, to be told by a dashing pert young woman: "What do you want to see Mr. X. for? I am his private secretary and you will have to tell me about it first. If you are after a job we are not hiring anybody."

And so you retire somewhat baffled and as gracefully as you can, feeling that an interview with the President of the United States would have been easier to obtain.

A little less self-assurance on the part of these young women and a little more courtesy mixed with a dash of the milk of human kindness would go a long way.

We cannot all be 21 years of age, have beautiful auburn hair, and weigh 110 pounds! I. C.

THE DUKE AND WALLY.

Iowa City, Ia., June 15.—One more word about the duke of Windsor before the dramatic episode of his abdication and marriage fades into history. In all the furor of comment, both condemnation and approval, no one seems to have recognized that David Windsor and his bride belong by nature to a royalty that is scarce enough in all conscience—the royalty of those who are capable of a love which puts the beloved far above all selfish interests and material considerations. The aristocrats of this order love with a generous and joyous abandon that carries them to a spiritual plane where the flesh is of secondary importance. Well they know that marriage without union of heart and mind is a dead and terrible thing. Let us honor David Windsor who with high courage won his right to the title king of love in a sordid and material world.

EDNA R. MAHAN.

BOTH ARE IMPORTANT.

Chicago, June 17.—Is it more important for us to have a driver's license bill, or that every car that runs should have insurance for injury to the pedestrian?

We have a sticker on our car to show that we pay the vehicle tax. Why not a sticker on each car to show that the owner is insured in event of injury to a person or persons by him while driving?

When injured we can only sue. Most of the time we can collect nothing by way of compensation. EDNA SMITH.

ANOTHER STORM OF LOVE LASHES YOUNGHUSBAND

Fourth Wife Tells About Blows of Marriage.

Love in the air. Blows on the nose. Engineers breaking down her locked bathroom door in a Paris hotel. Dark glasses to cover two black eyes on the Riviera.

Life with J. Leslie Younghusband, wealthy cosmetics king, was anything but dull, according to the testimony of his fourth wife, the former Mrs. Lillian Hawes Carter, in the Superior court of Judge John C. Lewe. Mrs. Younghusband, who married the manufacturer after a six hour courtship in the Drake hotel bar a year ago last Sunday, is asking a divorce.

Tiny, piquant, 30, and the mother of a child by a previous marriage, Mrs. Younghusband is receiving $125 a week temporary alimony and the use of their apartment at 233 East Walton place. Her husband recently successfully defended a $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by a former employé, Miss Alyce Strand.

Questioning Is Begun.

As testimony began yesterday Mrs. Younghusband's attorney, Samuel A. Rinella, attempted in vain to bar reporters from a conference in chambers on various technicalities. With bad grace he eventually consented, then began his questioning of Mrs. Younghusband.

"Six hours after I happened to meet Mr. Younghusband in the Drake hotel cocktail bar," declared his handsome wife, "I mentioned that I was going to Yellowstone park. He said he was going to Europe, and suggested that I accompany him.

"'Without benefit of clergy?' I asked. 'No, with,' he answered. So we took a cab to Crown Point and were married."

$3,200 Diamond Ring.

Three days later the newlyweds picked out a diamond ring. The stone alone cost $3,200, and Younghusband said "charge it." At this juncture, Mrs. Younghusband said her new spouse showed her a newspaper clipping describing him as a "millionaire cosmetic manufacturer."

"'Oh, are you a millionaire?' I asked," she said. "'Well, yes,' he said. Then he told me his income was $600 a day."

They started the honeymoon by going to Montreal, Canada, his home town, picking up his plane and a pilot, flying back to Chicago where she bought some summer formals, then returning to Montreal.

Then it was Paris in August, at the George V. hotel. A business associate, Dr. Montonier, and his wife, dined with them, after Mrs. Younghusband said her husband had engaged in an afternoon drinking bout.

"My husband told me that Dr. Montonier manufactured the lipstick preparation which he then placed in containers over here," she testified. "They had two separate corporations to evade income taxes."

Quarrel Over Mrs. Montonier.

After the dinner Mrs. Younghusband said she discovered her husband leading Mrs. Montonier to the bedroom. Dr. Montonier objected, she said, and her husband struck him. She interceded and patched up the quarrel, but after the Montoniers left, Mrs. Younghusband said her husband started to berate her. So she locked herself in a bathroom.

Mr. Younghusband called two engineers, remarking he would get her out if they had to break down the door. They did, but Mrs. Younghusband had slipped into the next room, locking that door. The engineers broke it down, then blushed to find her in bed.

That was the night, Mrs. Younghusband said, when she received two black eyes, a split lip, and a swollen nose. But the next day her husband swore off liquor for three months. So she put on a pair of dark glasses and accompanied him to the Riviera, Corsica, Marseilles, Berlin, Vienna, Rotterdam, Denmark, London, and finally home.

In January he pulled her hair and knelt on her chest, Mrs. Younghusband said, when she returned from riding his five gaited horse, and found him intoxicated. After a reconciliation they went to his $90,000 home in St. Petersburg, Fla.

But at a night club, Mrs. Younghusband said, she protested when he brought a girl to their table and boasted of their affair. Whereupon, the wife said, her husband knocked out a front tooth.

DICK TRACY—In a Switchyard

DEATH IS CALLED SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury yesterday found that Mrs. Louise Aeverman, 30 years old, 1315 North Central avenue, who shot herself Sunday, committed suicide while temporarily insane after the birth of her second son.

BOY IS BURNED BY FIRECRACKER; SELLER HUNTED

A firecracker that burst prematurely severly burned the right hand of Calvin Cornell, 12 years old, as he was playing in the back yard of his home at 3815 South East avenue, Berwyn, last night. He was holding a two inch flasher type firecracker when it exploded. He was taken to the Berwyn hospital for treatment. Sale of fireworks is unlawful in Berwyn and police began a search for the person who sold them to the boy.

At 4731 South Ada street a light explosion last night caused slight damage to a garage in the rear. Police first thought the blast was caused by a bomb, but later said it probably resulted from a home made composition of potash and sulphur, mixed by boys prematurely celebrating the Fourth of July.

SLAYS WAITER IN RESTAURANT.

Impatient at delay in getting food he had ordered, a colored gunman shot and killed Thomas Mouhlis, 52 years old, 5527 Flournoy street, early yesterday in a restaurant at 2001 West Lake street, where Mouhlis was a waiter. The killer escaped.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

So you want to be a farmer! For first-hand information about farm life from January to December, read "Day by Day on the Farm," by Frank Ridgway, Tribune agricultural editor. Its 94 pages and 58 photos tell a fascinating story of the farm. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 25 cents. Postpaid, 32 cents.

Hens on Set Strike.

June 21, 1937.

OLD HENS are on a sitdown strike at the Wheaton farm nowadays. Twenty of them have been driven off their nests during the last few days. Each day three or four new ones join the ranks of the "setters." The poultry keeper objects to so many hens becoming brooders because it is causing egg production to fall off. As soon as he finds a sitting hen he orders her to cease and desist and promptly puts her back on the layers' pay roll.

Through the use of modern electrical incubators and brooders, comparatively few brooding hens are needed at the farm. Seven chicken hens have been assigned as substitutes for turkeys, heading tours of the young poults on their daily search for grasshoppers and bugs in the meadows and pastures. Three old barred rock cluckers are nursing about twenty-seven baby chicks.

Production Declines.

Only a small flock of chickens is kept at the Wheaton place. At the first of the year the poultry keeper's records show that there were 90 Rhode Island red hens and 46 barred Plymouth Rocks, a total of 136 layers. Since then 13 have been lost and one killed for table use.

During December the egg production began climbing. Here is the number of eggs produced by the flock, by months, since the first of this year: January, 723; February, 1,112; March, 1,821; April, 2,194, and May, 1,780. Since the first of this month the production has been decreasing, ranging from 32 to 52 a day. The total for the first twenty days in June is only 848 eggs. Production has been falling off rapidly during the last week.

Turkeys Doing Well.

In contrast to the unfavorable reports coming from some turkey raisers this spring, the poultry keeper at the Wheaton farm says he is having better luck this year than usual. Nine turkey hens have saved 127 poults, according to a rough count made today. It is difficult to make an accurate count because more than half of the poults are running wild with turkey hens in the woods.

A rough tally made of the poults as they darted in and out of the tall grass and under brush in the timbered pastures today revealed that practically all of the 75 poults sent into the wood with their seven mothers still are alive. The chicken hens that are taking care of the other poults running in the fields near the poultry yard have saved 46 out of 47. These were hatched under chicken hens a few weeks ago.

The only blot on the turkeys' record this year resulted from two hens laying their second clutches of eggs on the sheep barn floor. One of these hens laid 16 eggs and only 2 hatched. The poultry keeper says this was due to the excessive heat produced by the fermenting of manure under the turkey's nest, which practically cooked the eggs. The other turkey hen saved only 4 poults out of 7 eggs. One wild turkey has laid more than 40 eggs this spring.

SAFETY PROVED ON THE SPEEDWAYS FOR YOUR Protection on the Highways

Wilbur Shaw on May 31 set a new record for the 500-Mile Indianapolis Race at an average speed of 113.58 miles an hour on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires

WHETHER you are planning a long tour this summer or a three-day trip over the Fourth of July, NOW is the time to think about your tires. For safety's sake, be guided by the experiences of Wilbur Shaw, Ab Jenkins and other famous race drivers. They know tires . . . and they have proved on the speedway that Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are the safest tires for the highway. For 18 consecutive years, Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the 500-mile Indianapolis Race. This year every one of the 33 cars in the race was Firestone-equipped.

Race drivers know that Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires give greatest protection against blowouts. Tests show that these tires run up to 28 degrees cooler because of Firestone's patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process, every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated and coated with pure, liquid rubber which counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life.

This important feature is but one of Firestone's many exclusive safety advantages. Two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread guard against punctures and give added strength to the tire. Tests prove that the scientifically designed tread will stop a car up to 25% quicker, giving greater non-skid protection.

You want and need ALL of those safety features in the tires you buy for your trips this summer. Be sure you get them! Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—the safest tires that money can buy!

OBEY! OLD DAYS GONE! GERMANY TELLS CHURCHES

"It Is We Who Govern," Goebbels Warns.

BERLIN, June 21.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's propaganda minister, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, warned churches tonight that "the new era cannot be held up—the old days are gone forever."

He spoke in Olympic stadium before thousands of Germans celebrating summer solstice [first day of summer, year's longest period of sunlight].

Two towering bonfires reached toward the night sky at each end of the big arena where Italian ballila [youthful Fascist organization], Hitler Storm Troopers, and costumed folk dancers participated in festival preceding the fiery propaganda minister's oration.

Speaks of German Tradition.

Referring to the solstice celebration as like that of the ancient Germans, Goebbels emphasized "However, it is not a heathen spirit, but the German tradition which motivates us here."

Naziism has no desire to establish a new church, he said.

"We have enough churches in Germany already—indeed, sometimes it looks as though we have too many," Goebbels added.

Ridiculing those who view Germany as an unhappy land, torn by religious strife, the propaganda minister said, "All Germany is happy except a few hundred preachers and sexual criminals who are out of luck."

"The church is here to prepare the people for the kingdom of heaven, and we don't want to compete in that sphere," he continued. "Our mission comes to us from the people.

Demands Strict Obedience.

"The preachers say their mission comes from God—well, we can't very well judge that claim. We don't want church strife—but in this Germany down here on earth it is we who govern, and every German must obey our laws."

Goebbels' warning to churches followed announcement by the government that new immorality trials of Catholics would show justification for its action in closing eleven private schools. The schools were in Bavaria, and a Munich announcement declared the public would know the reason "when the trials begin."

More than 900 parochial schools in Bavaria also were ordered transformed into secular institutions.

Vatican Aims to Avoid Break.

VATICAN CITY, June 21.—(AP)—The Vatican indicated today it would try to avoid a diplomatic break with Germany although high prelates believed Germany had violated the Berlin-Vatican concordat of 1933 by changing private Catholic schools in Bavaria into secular schools.

A semi-official statement said the Vatican would follow a policy of conciliation toward the reich. It said there was no change in "the general principle of the Holy See" of avoiding acts which might cause responsibility "for denunciation of concordats or breaking of diplomatic relations to fall on the Holy See."

HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR PROF. P. S. ALLEN

He was termed a great exponent of the religion of research by Prof. George T. Northup. Prof. Chester N. Gould said that Prof. Allen was the most brilliant teacher in the field of modern languages.

Prof. Allen had been a member of the Midway faculty for forty years.

Boy Insists on Swim in River; Find His Body

Police and firemen late last night recovered from the river at 24th and Laflin streets the body of James Jiran, 7 years old, 1521 West 18th place, who yesterday was determined to swim in the river. He was taken to a slip in the river by Joseph Riha, 13 years old, of the same address, who refused to let him go into the water. After dinner James disappeared. Later his clothing was found on the river bank. In recovering the Jiran boy's body Lieut. John Felker of inhalator squad 8 accidentally drove a grappling hook through his right hand and had to go to St. Anthony's hospital for treatment.

SOVIET FLYERS AT CALIFORNIA GOAL IN 2D HOP

Report Clouds Over the North Pole.

Oakland, Cal., June 21.—(AP)—The soviet flyers of the Arctic airways unfolded the personal story of their flight from Moscow to Vancouver, Wash., today as they flew down the Pacific coast to this airport, the original goal of the history-making journey.

Ambassador Alexander Troyanovsky served as interpreter.

"Scientists told us," he said, "we would encounter no clouds over the top of the earth at 3,000 meters [about 2 miles], but we went as high as 6,000 meters over the geographical pole and saw many clouds.

Lowest Temperature 22 Below.

"The lowest temperature we experienced was about 22 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. That was in the north pole region."

"The sphere of the magnetic pole caused certain deviations in our instruments," the tousle haired pilot continued. "We foresaw this and figured our calculations accordingly.

"We used the sun compas virtually all the way and it worked very well.

"We first left our charted course when he encountered a terrific storm on the Barents sea. We had to make a wide detour that lost almost three hours. Our average speed was not more than 100 miles an hour.

"Despite these shifts we knew where we were all the time. Our orientation was made possible by the sun because until we reached the land north of Vancouver, B. C., we were in daylight.

"We received and sent communications in the international code to Moscow, Dixon Island, Anchorage, Seattle, Portland, Bellingham, Wash., San Francisco, and Norman, Canada."

Radio Functions Perfectly.

Navigator Georgi Baibukoff added that the radio functioned almost without interruption and only faulted slightly.

As the trio stepped out of their plane here cheers went up from men in the crowd who carried banners identifying themselves as members of the communist party. Ceremonies at the airport lasted but a few minutes, and the flyers were taken over the bay bridge to the soviet consulate in San Francisco, where they will stay briefly before going to Washington.

"On this flight we have taken a mass of scientific data which we will study in the long months to come," Pilot Valeri Chekaloff was quoted as saying at Portland.

"Then, when the time is right, we'll try to fly once more over the north pole and land this time at your New York City."

FR. MULHERIN, 60, CHICAGO PASTOR 36 YEARS, DEAD

He was born Dec. 12, 1876, at 2637 West Jackson boulevard in Our Lady of Sorrows parish and was baptized, received his first communion, educated, confirmed, said his first mass and served all of his priestly career in that parish.

In his 36 years as a priest, he held the highest offices in the Order of the Servite Fathers from pastor to provincial of the United States province. His friendship for the poor and unfortunate led him to be called "Father of the Poor."

The body will lie in state at 3246 West Jackson boulevard until Thursday noon when it will be taken to the church at Jackson and Albany avenue. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil will officiate at solemn mass to be said at 9:30 a. m. Friday.

News of Radio

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

While nearly a thousand radio leaders—members of the National Association of Broadcasters—in convention at the Hotel Sherman are here ostensibly to solve such problems as increased taxation, class legislation, government control, and possible competition, much of the off the record argument yesterday revolved around the Louis-Braddock battle for tonight. The convention management, because of the attraction at Comiskey park, wisely scheduled no session for tonight.

At the opening session yesterday C. W. Myers of Portland, Ore., announced that the association would oppose any move of the government to get into the broadcasting business. He referred to the proposal of Congressman Celler to establish a government broadcasting station.

Mr. Myers also deplored the proposal to prohibit ownership of radio stations by publishing interests.

"The test of granting radio licenses should be public service," he said. "Good newspapers should not be restricted from owning radio stations. All newspaper concerns owning radio stations should not be penalized for the actions of a few."

Judge Eugene O. Sykes, chairman of the broadcast division of the federal communications commission, addressed the radio men on responsibilities of broadcasters. He commended the broadcasters for their great services in preventing loss of life and property in the flood regions last winter.

The nominations committee presented the following slate for consideration today: For president, John Elmer, WCBM, Baltimore; first vice president, John J. Gillen, WOW, Omaha; second vice president, William J. Scripps, WWJ, Detroit; treasurer, Harold Hough, WVOP, Fort Worth.

David Rubinoff, violinist, just in from Hollywood, accepted an invitation of the Chicago Federation of Musicians to conduct a concert in the Grant park series later this summer, as he did last year.

The conductor personnel for the concerts, made public yesterday, includes several broadcasting names: Henry Weber of W-G-N-Mutual, Roy Shield of NBC, and Carleton Kelsey of C. B. S. The concerts will be broadcast in part over the major networks.

In addition to the Clem McCarthy-Ed Hill reports of the fight over both NBC networks [WMAQ and WENR] at 10 tonight there will be two additional airings by short wave for South American and Mexican listeners.

Judith Anne Jeffrey, 16 years old, honor graduate of Morgan Park High school, was awarded WBBM's first $300 university scholarship for aptitude in radio on Sunday. Miss Jeffrey, who lives at 9568 Prospect avenue, was selected from more than 125 high school graduates who recently managed the station for a day.

WORLD COLONY PLEAS CALLED 'SMOKE SCREEN'

Trade Outlets Sought, Says Bowman.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

In a study of what he calls "the world's pioneer fringes," Isaiah Bowman, president of Johns Hopkins university, chairman of the National Research council, and president of the International Geographical union, has reached the conclusion that the rest of the world cannot receive the surplus populations of Europe that would like to migrate.

Dr. Bowman last night opened the 13th annual institute of the Norman Walt Harris foundation at Mandel hall, the University of Chicago, with a discussion of population outlets in overseas territory which showed the claims of Mussolini, the Japanese, and others that they must have room for their surplus populations to be an illusion, a smoke screen for trade outlets and political purposes.

Migration Forces Analyzed.

The forces that have led men to migrate, colonize, make war, and build great armaments were analyzed from the aspect of the new geography, which means many things besides naming capitals and rivers. Dr. Bowman defined geographers as "capacitators" rather than environmentalists. The question is how many immigrants a country usefully can receive, its capacity to absorb. He finds this very small, a sort of "bottleneck" problem intervening.

The British empire settlement act in Australia failed, for example, he said.

"Why was it a failure?" he asked. "Because as soon as people learned to eat out of the hands of government—learned to depend on the government—when anything that happened to them that was unfavorable they blamed the government and cried for help."

60,000 Go to Alberta.

The Peace river country of Alberta provinces supplies an illustration of the "bottleneck." Since the world war 60,000 persons have gone into that region.

"They ask for telegraph lines, good roads, schools, doctors, and virtually free transportation of their grain surplus part way to the point of export," he said. "The provincial government cannot give them these things because the rest of the province has more grain than it knows what to do with, and until settlers have proved their capacity to remain and grow crops profitably in high latitudes it is not certain that so heavy an investment would pay."

The world's pioneer fringes, or under-developed lands, are approximately three million square miles, he said—about the area of the United States. But these are too hot or too cold, or have other drawbacks.

He had been a member of the Franciscan order for forty-one years. Father Kisserling was born in Elberfeld, Cologne, Germany, sixty-eight years ago. Betty Brooks Sets Wedding for Early Fall

Miss Mary Paul Welling to Bow Sept. 10.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE dates have been set for an early autumn wedding, a fall debutante party, and a winter debutante dinner-dance. The bride-to-be is Miss Betty Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps. Her marriage to Thomas Morgan Schriber will take place at 8:30 o'clock the evening of Saturday, Sept. 11, at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, followed by a reception at the Phelps' home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Welling have set Friday, Sept. 10, as the date for a small dinner-dance they will give at the Onwentsia for their daughter, Miss Mary Paul Welling. Mr. and Mrs. Laurence H. Armour have reserved the evening of Friday, Dec. 3, for a dinner-dance they will give, probably at the Casino, for their debutante niece, Miss Betty Armour, and Miss Kay Goodman, debutante daughter of Mrs. James M. Hopkins.

The prenuptial entertaining for Miss Brooks and Mr. Schriber will provide an extra round of parties during the early September days, which usually are devoted to debutante activities. After their marriage Mr. Schriber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Schriber of Oshkosh, Wis., will take his bride to Bedford Hills, N. Y., to make their home.

Miss Welling Will Continue Studies.

Following the traditional September round of teas and dances many of the debutantes and their beaux will go east to resume their studies. Miss Welling is among these, for she will return to Vassar. Mr. and Mrs. Welling are engaged in moving into their new Astor street home now, and have been too busy to make plans for a summer trip, which they will make later.

Miss Armour and Miss Goodman are among the debutantes who will spend the entire season at home, taking part in the St. Luke's fashion show Oct. 19, and the dozens of small dinners and dances that lead up to the brief but hectic Christmas holidays. Miss Welling, Miss Armour, and Miss Goodman will be feted again during the Christmas season.

Entertaining for debutantes will start tomorrow with a luncheon Mrs. Mansfield Ralph Cleary of Highland Park is giving at the Exmoor Country club for her debutante niece, Miss Lorraine-Marie Roach. Mrs. Cleary's young guests will swim or play bridge after luncheon. Miss Roach is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Roach of Highland Park.

Reveal Engagement of Miss Lilla Renshaw.

The engagement was announced recently in Pasadena, Cal., of Miss Lilla Price Renshaw, daughter of Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman Jr., to Phelps Stokes Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter of Montecito, Cal. Miss Renshaw's father was Howard P. Renshaw of New York and Hollister, Cal.

Her fiancé's parents are not the Robert Hunters who lived in Chicago many years ago and whose daughter Helen was introduced to Chicago social circles in 1933. The former Chicago Hunters live in Santa Barbara. The senior Mrs. Coleman has left her apartment at the Ambassador East for California where she will spend the summer.

Mrs. Robert H. McCormick will not be occupying her house at Bar Harbor this summer for she has taken a house in Lake Forest for the season. At present she is in Baltimore welcoming her new granddaughter, born June 12, to Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Buckler Jr.

The I. Newton Perrys are going to spend the summer at Harbor Point, Mich., where they have taken Mrs. Samuel D. Rowe's house. Mrs. Rowe and her family will spend August at the Point or at Wequetonsing.

Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay, Mrs. Alan Floyd, Mrs. A. F. Gartz Jr., Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. William O. Hunt, and Mrs. Herbert H. Kennedy are some of the women who will assist at a sale for the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins to be held from 10 until 5 o'clock today, daylight saving time, at the Lake Geneva home of Mrs. Albert F. Madlener.

The junior Mrs. Madlener, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr., Mrs. Frank S. Porter, Mrs. Philip Wrigley, Mrs. William Spencer, Mrs. Philip T. Stark, and Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman are others who will be at the Lindens during the day.

FRANK WILSON, a railroad station red cap, is this week's nominee for the Hall of Transitory Fame. Wilson not only carried the bag of a departing passenger from taxi to train but also bought—and paid for—the passenger's Pullman ticket when he found he was short of cash and there was no time to get a check cashed.

Redcap— Tea drinkers— Red faces.

The passenger was Harry Junot of 900 North Michigan avenue. Mr. Junot, with Mrs. James Waller Rogers, had won the tennis tournament at the Saddle and Cycle club and sat late over the dinner and bridge table with friends celebrating their victory. Mr. Junot was taking a train for Grand Rapids that evening and he allowed himself just time enough to get to the station with the taxi waiting outside his apartment while he threw some things into a bag. Arrived at the station, he asked for his reservation, then found he was short of cash. He had enough for his ticket, but not for Pullman fare.

"You'll have to go in the day coach," said the ticket seller.

"But I'm a tired tennis champion," argued Mr. Junot. "I need rest. I've got an early business appointment tomorrow. . . ."

Mr. Junot tried to work out some financial arrangements with the ticket man. A check, with proper identification supplied? His watch as security? The medal Napoleon gave his great-grandfather, Andoche Junot, duke of Abrantes and a grand marshal of France?

"Train pulling out in one minute," interrupted the red cap. Then, as his patron was still arguing desperately, "How much is the Pullman fare to Grand Rapids?"

Told it was $2, the red cap produced the amount, bought the ticket, and rushed the grateful Mr. Junot aboard the train.

ADD firms serving tea: A chemical company on South Wabash avenue that for ten years has been serving tea to employés every afternoon at 3. Iced tea in hot weather. The president, Alden Scott Boyer, also invites all visitors and salesmen to join the tea drinkers. On the Saturday half days "10 o'clock French coffee" is served.

MENTION of the Chicago business firms and factories where afternoon tea is served elicited a comment from an eastern visitor that the banking house of Lehman Brothers in New York makes a feature of afternoon tea.

"Does everybody get tea—all the employés?" we asked.

"Well, everybody down to about $8,000 a year men," he answered.

WHEN Ralph Gudahl was buying slacks he intended to wear at the golf match at which he astonished the golfing world at Birmingham, Mich., recently, the advertising manager of the State street men's clothing manufacturing company where he was buying them was asked if he wanted to meet the pro. He was busy and declined, intimating he had never heard of the fellow, anyhow. The firm's style designer, accompanied by a photographer, went to the tournament at Birmingham to report and photograph what the best dressed golfers were wearing. Neither Guldahl nor his apparel attracted them. They were considerably embarrassed later when they learned that Guldahl had won playing in slacks made by their own manufacturing firm and they had neither met nor photographed him.

Even Average Girl May Have Beauty Share

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Is it true, in your experience, that the girl who isn't blessed with the perfect face and body will apply more "drive" to succeed than the more beautiful girl? Is it true that she is more likely to excel the born beauty?

Running over my list of acquaintances and friends, I'd say, at least, that there's no such thing as having to take a back seat for anybody these days, provided the less favored girl has that urge to get places, be a somebody pictorially and charmingly. The natural beauty isn't today what she used to be in taking the heart out of the average one, because the average one can lift herself out of the ordinary and she can develop something peculiarly her own with which not even the beauty can compete.

It's interesting to hear from Fanchon, first woman producer of motion pictures, on this subject. She says:

"I've interviewed literally hundreds of girls who come to me seeking jobs, girls who wanted to dance in the Fanchon and Marco shows and now girls who want to appear in pictures. I'm a little reluctant to admit it, but my first judgment always is based on physical appearance. I know very well that the girl who isn't blessed with the perfect face and body will expend that much more drive to succeed, and very often she will win a more lasting success than the more beautiful girl."

However, because the girls Fanchon engages must subscribe to the visual impression that is so important to the type of show presented, the beauty is more apt to be spotted first.

"I never was satisfied with my own appearance," Fanchon says. "I've never felt that I looked the way I wanted to. So, when a girl walks into my office with an exquisite face, a lovely figure, a distinguished carriage, a sense of clothes and lots of poise, she impresses me. But I've trained myself to withhold judgment on her until I also have found out how deeply rooted is her ambition and how persevering she is."

Cites Marriage Bureau Evil as Threat to U. S.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Those who weaken respect for matrimony—the example of numerous Hollywood divorces and marriage bureaus and lonely heart clubs—were described here today as helping make a society in which democracy cannot survive. This view was expressed before the institute of human relations at Rockford college by the Rev. Dr. Carl Christenson, pastor of Saron Lutheran church, Chicago.

The institute is sponsored by the Chicago Round Table of the national conference of Jews and Christians.

Dr. Christenson said there are more than four hundred matrimonial bureaus and lonely heart clubs in the country, adding that 100,000 letters are delivered daily to unmarried men and women. More than 5,000 such marriages are made this way each year, he said.

"Are these marriages successful?" Dr. Christenson asked. "No. Every sixth marriage is dissolved, mostly from this group and the Hollywood people."

Msgr. Ryan said Catholic principles as enunciated by the encyclical of Pope Pius demand national social legislation following the general lines of the late NRA.

"The aim of this social legislation must be the reëstablishment of occupational groups," said Msgr. Ryan. "The word reëstablishment shows that Pope Pius is not suggesting something new. His model is the medieval guild system where masters, journeymen, and apprentices were all united in one association."

Good Morning!

I wish somebody would write a real story for this nice Burns person! He's made of too good stuff to be sent rattling around the country in inferior vehicles.

His present rattletrap is a burlesque on feudin' and feudists in the mountings. To keep from wedding his brother's gal, who is the darter of a foe and whom said long whiskered belligerent insists shall become the bride of Bob or ELSE, our hero runs away from there.

Now Bob has a peculiarity. Every time he gets a blow on the head he hears music and forgets who he is. A dash of water in the face and he can't remember who he is when he forgets who he is . . . His courtship of Mary proceeds between blows and dashes. A blow and he thinks she's a lovely creature and begs her to be his wife. A dash and he lays back his ears and growls:

"Woman, are you still following me?"

And so to a happy, half-witted ending.

The picture, as a whole, moves slowly and not very amusingly. As I remember, the audience of which I was one laughed just once. [The audience all but me.]

The funniest entry on the Chicago's program is Johnny Burke [in person]—"the man who won the war." He really has 'em splitting their sides.

Free Concerts in Grant Park to Open July 1

The Chicago Federation of Musicians announced yesterday that this year's free Grant park concerts would run from July 1 to Sept. 6, inclusive. These programs total 68. There will be a concert every evening except Aug. 21 [the date of THE TRIBUNE's eighth Chicagoland music festival] and a single matinée on Sept. 6 [Labor day]. The band shell opposite 11th street is again to be used for this series. Seventy-five musicians will be employed for each concert.

These downtown programs are to be sponsored by the park district of Chicago. A separate series of fifty-two concerts by units of thirty-five musicians will be given on Navy pier under the auspices of the city of Chicago. A third summer series—in Lincoln, Garfield, and Jackson parks—is to be sponsored by the Chicago Federation of Musicians, James C. Petrillo, president.

The Grant park and Navy pier cycles include both bands and orchestras. The outlying park series will use bands alone.

Church Is Decorated with Easter Lilies.

St. Paul's Episcopal church was decorated with Easter lilies for the wedding at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon of Miss Ruth Miriam De Young to Herbert Vollrath Kohler of Kohler, Wis. The Rev. John C. Evans, rector of St. Luke's church, read the service and a reception followed at the South Shore Country club.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Herbert De Young, was lovely in a gown of ivory crêpe, that contrasted her black hair and vivid coloring. Made simply, with a cowl neckline and long mousquetaire sleeves, the gown swept out in a full court train. A long tulle veil fell from a coronet of crêpe, and she carried a shower bouquet of swansonia and lily of the valley.

The five attendants, Mrs. Alfred Hart Stafford, matron of honor; Miss Julia Hafner, maid of honor; Miss Mary Rowland, Mrs. Wardell N. Cronwall, and Miss Eileen O'Daniel, wore chartreuse chiffon with matching halo hats of chiffon, tied in back with chartreuse ribbon that fell in streamers to the hem of the gowns. Mrs. Stafford's and Miss Hafner's gowns were of a deeper shade than the others. All carried large bouquets of fuchsia daisies.

Mrs. Frederic R. De Young, mother of the bride, in hyacinth blue with matching accessories, stood at the head of the receiving line which formed in the large dining room at the club. A screen of greens guarded by two pyramids of white peonies formed a background for the line. In addition to the bride and bridegroom and her mother those in the line were Miss Evangeline Kohler, sister of the bridegroom, and former Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin, brother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Kohler. Gov. Kohler was best man.

Four nephews of the bridegroom served as ushers. They were Walter Kohler Jr., Carl J. and Robert E. Kohler of Kohler, Wis., and John M. Kohler of Glencoe. Cyrus L. Philipp of Milwaukee, son of the late Gov. E. L. Philipp of Wisconsin, also ushered.

Mr. Kohler and his bride will sail tomorrow from New York on the Queen Mary for a honeymoon abroad. They will be at home after Dec. 1 in Kohler in a house that is being built during their absence. The bride has been woman's editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the last two years. The Rev. Dr. Evans is religious editor of THE TRIBUNE.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

LONDON.—[Special.]—Since she was a young girl Queen Elizabeth of England has worn her hair in exactly the same way, always with a little fringe wisping down over her forehead. On coronation day her brow was undecorated, with the little fringe carefully brushed back. But only for that day. The fringe is now apparent again.

Every one knows who the royal hairdresser is, but you daren't mention his name as such yet. Etiquet forbids it because the official royal appointment has not yet come through. He must remain absolutely mum until the appointment comes—and even then the world will probably never know why that unfashionable little fringe isn't abandoned.

The queen's hair is unbobbed, worn with small curls along the hair line at the sides and a little knob at the base of the neck. But it's beautifully glossy, as the hair of all well groomed English women is, even though it is a bit dowdily dressed.

Waves are not fashionable here. The smartest hairdressers prefer the sleek line with disciplined curls and ringlets. Hairdressers for fashionable, large functions are inclined to be elaborate, but smartly so. The long bob is practically unknown in the chic circles. Hair is usually arranged to give height and is almost invariably brought up off the ears to show jeweled earrings to the best advantage. If a tiara is worn the hair is always simply arranged in front and at the sides and curled to give a soft line in the back.

Your Wardrobe Needs Jersey for Cool Days

Sheer Wool Another Fabric for Chilly Weather.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The cool days that manage to dawn sometimes to the dismay of the owner of nothing but the coolest and airiest of clothes are the days for silk jersey and pastel thin wool. Where the climate is chilly till late in June, where the days are hot and the breezes blow sharp and penetratingly as soon as the sun sets, you'll slip into the comfort of sheer wool and this year's fashion pet, dresses of jersey.

There are all kinds of clever one piece dresses of silk jersey. Soft aquamarine blues and powdery pinks, stunning all whites, and very intriguing white jersey striped in narrow bands of contrasting color. There also are some exciting Scotch plaids, with which to wear big shiny cartwheel hats in brilliant color and a patent lether belt to match.

This silk and silk backed jersey material is obliging stuff, for it comes in grand summery colors, is cozily warm without being bulky or suffocatingly thick, makes exceptionally good travel togs [it doesn't wrinkle easily], and fashions some of the smartest, sleekest looking dresses you'll ever find for general wear of a coolish day.

Some of the most delectable of new summer dinner gowns and summertime hostess gowns are of this clinging to the streamline jersey. And every one knows the inimitable swank of a suavely draped dull black silk jersey dress for summer street wear with daringly high colored or plaster white accessories.

Thin wool suits, slim, almost skimpily cut, come in luscious shades of coral, watery greens, sky blues, pale yellows, lovely mauve tones and cream-beige. The short, rib hugging jackets are unlined. They are cut high so that a blouse is not needed and the skirts are as straight as a pencil. They look exquisitely smart and, because of the lovely pastel colorings, also look as summery as a crisp cotton or silk.

SYNOPSIS.

INSTALMENT VIII.

ATTENTIVE GESTURES.

It was Michael's own roadster standing at the curb, and the top was down. Michael was bareheaded, and wore a soft white sweater which she had often told him she adored. As they swung into the traffic with a beautiful skill which always left her breathless, it seemed to Katharine as if the clock had been set back; as if it were last June again, and all their bright hopes were certain to come true.

"Not too tired to run over and see if the lake is still there?" Michael asked. "Moon over the lake."

The girl nestled down comfortably, wriggling into the shelter of his arm. She stared up at the moon, and laughed, a daring light in her eyes.

"Could we go to Plum lake tonight?" she asked lazily. "Couldn't we, Michael? And maybe not come back—ever?"

"Couldn't we?" she coaxed. "Couldn't we get there by this very road—after while?"

"After while," he said tensely.

"Be good, Kit."

"Why? Why do I have to be good?"

"So that I can be good."

"Who wants you to be good?" She raised her big soft eyes to his, laughing but appealing. "I don't Michael."

The young man gave her a good vigorous shove to the other end of the seat.

"Don't you dare come sneaking, snuggling back!" he warned her. He was grinning heroically, but his eyes were stormy.

Kit promptly regained her former position, a little closer to him than before. Michael said nothing more, nor did she, until they had reached their goal, a little spur of land which reached out beyond the drive, a point from which one saw only a great expanse of lovely water. Then, somewhat to Katharine's surprise, for she was used to Michael's lack of demonstrativeness, and to the curb which he usually put on their rising emotions, he gathered her in his arms and held her very close.

"Kit," he said, his voice carefully controled, "are you going to help?"

"O, dear!" the girl moaned. "Are we going to be highminded. Under that shining moon?"

Michael leaned back in silence.

Katharine smiled resignedly and sat up.

"What do you want of me, Mickey?" she asked. "I'll help. Sure, I'll help."

"You'll just have to keep me going straight," he said soberly. "It's up to you, Kit. You surely know that you can twist me around your little finger. You've always played fair. Don't pull the Lorelei stuff, sweetheart. I'm drifting pretty near the rocks."

Katharine looked at him with a sudden flash of resentment. "Yes, you are!" she muttered. "You are blind and deaf when you choose to be, Michael."

She felt the strong encircling arm relax its hold. He did not push her away gaily, as he had before. He just walled himself away from her, mysteriously. That, too, she had experienced before.

"Heads you win, tails I lose," he said laconically.

"Yes?"

"Why, yes. If I run off with you, as God knows I'd like to, to the ends of the world, and ditch my plain duty, what is a square shooter like you going to think of me? And how much will I think of myself?"

He paused, reached for a cigaret, lighted it with a hand that shook slightly, took a perfunctory puff, and tossed it away.

"On the other hand," he said, rather bitterly, "if I back away desperately, and you continue to dangle before me all that I have wanted so fiercely for so long—if I try hard to keep my head, then you are hurt and choose not to understand, and—I lose."

He tried to laugh it off.

"O, I'm feeling very sorry for myself," he said derisively.

"Notning to worry about, Mike!" the girl said comfortably. "Not a thing! I wanted to play a little, that was all. You were not in the mood. I was moonstruck, that was all. You weren't. We'll just have to plan to synchronize a little better," she said mischievously. "But I'm good now. And, Michael, nothing—nothing will induce me to try seriously to make you do something which is against your sober better judgment."

He looked at her half gratefully, half amusedly.

"You're an awfully pretty little thing," he said coolly, "and when you take that dear patient motherly tone with me, I love you till it hurts. But you are a good girl, Kit, and thanks a lot."

He gravely produced a funny knobby bundle.

"What's this?" she demanded.

"Lunch," he said complacently.

They divided conscientiously the tiny sandwiches and the bunch of grapes, and drew lots as to which should have the pickle. They finished with thin chocolate mints and glasses of lemonade from Michael's thermos bottle. It was an old game of theirs, and though they played it with difficulty at first, they grew quite happy and gay.

That thermos bottle I shall present to our car," Michael volunteered. "Father has bought me a new one. He fills it himself, and brings it up to me. Fills it with that good artesian water, that I have always liked, and that nobody appreciates but me. Poor father! It's touching. He puts up a brave bluff, but I think he is unhappy over mother. And sorry for us. He tries to do all sorts of little things that will let me know how I stand with him—like the thermos bottle. He tries to think of things that don't cost money. He put a rose from the garden on my desk. He loves flowers, you know, and putters away over his rosebushes like some old woman, and those roses are precious. I never rated one before. I think maybe he thinks that they, at least, are his. So he has something to give me."

Katharine stirred restlessly. "Do you believe that, Michael?" she said.

"Believe what, dear?"

"That bunk you've been talking about John Millis?"

She was not sure that the heavens would not fall, but the words were out and could not be recalled. To her relief Michael smiled slowly.

"I try to," he said distinctly. "Suppose you try to, too. Mustn't we go home now? Am I invited to breakfast?"

"At seven o'clock?"

"Seven o'clock is a perfect hour," he said cordially. "But do you get up so early, Kit?"

"Mr. Colby likes to have me open up the office and sort the mail before he gets there, and he's on hand at ten of nine."

Michael frowned, and there was an awkward silence.

"Kit," he said, after a rather long pause, "what are we going to do about this? Do you really want to go on working?"

"Suppose I didn't?" the girl said shortly.

"Isn't there any way?" Michael said eagerly. "Can't I even give you my useless money?"

Katharine patted his cheek. "'Fraid you can't."

"Preposterous!" he said. Pain made his voice sharp.

"Sure! But you'll kiss your preposterous child," she coaxed. "O! I forgot!"

March Suffers as Obit Writer in News Movie

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 21.—[Special.]—Give and take banter prevails on sound stage No. 3 at Selznick-International, where Director William A. Wellman performs a one-man show for the company as he heckles his leading man, Fredric March, playing a newspaper reporter doing penance on the obituary desk after he unwittingly perpetrates a hoax in the plot of the picture "Sacred Story."

Studio aids assure the visitor that director and star are bosom pals, that the derogations they heap upon each other are all in fun. Example of friendly fun in Hollywood:

Wellman is directing a scene where the suffering March, working at his desk in the areaway to the morgue of the New York Morning Star, is forced to undergo indignities from all who pass.

To the office boy, who carelessly brushes a pile of proofs in March's face, Wellman orders, "Slap him with them hard. Make this take real."

To desk movers who push March out of the way as they pass: "Shove him hard. Make him feel it."

When March finishes the scenes and walks to his camp chair mopping his brow, Wellman follows him like a little dog barking at his heels. He snaps, "So you're going to work for DeMille, are you? [March's next picture is the lead in Cecil B. DeMille's 'Buccaneer.'] Well, just wait until you start telling DeMille how to direct a scene. You won't get away with the stuff you do around here."

"Hey, Freddie, did you hear about 'A Star Is Born,' run at Helena, Mont.? The best single run record up to now has been seven days. Our picture is in its 29th day."

And Wellman beams, for he is very proud of his technicolor success.

Booms back March disdainfully, even though he has a lead in that production. "Why, that's because it's the home town of my secretary, Jack White. You didn't think it was a good picture, did you?"

Wellman, rebuffed, shouts for gum until everybody on the set is fishing in his pockets for a piece. Soon he is ready to shoot the scene again. Turning to his bit players, he says, "Let's have more realism in this scene. I want you to shove March around harder. You guys moving the desk, when you push March out of the way, let him have it."

And so for the twentieth time March gets slapped in the face with flying proof sheets, shoved aside by brawny desk movers, sprayed with water from a nearby cooler, and rained with photographs. No reporter in durance vile of the morgue ever suffered greater. Wellman snaps his gum and grins.

"Act for DeMille, will he?" he mutters under his breath.

"They're pretty good," a nearby veteran tells a friend, "but you haven't really seen anything yet. Wait until Carole Lombard gets on the set. She's a born ribber."

The city room after "Sacred Story" is ornately appointed. The city desk is rimmed with a horseshoe of lether cocktail chairs and a white linened bartender would look more natural in the slot than that bald-headed bit player who poses as the city editor.

"Gee," says a veteran news hawk now press-agenting, "if they'd had city rooms like this when I was in the game I never would have left it."

Several of the bit players and extras who fill the city room as atmosphere reporters have had actual newspaper experience. J. G. McMann, who acts as the librarian, actually worked in the files of the Cincinnati Standard Union. As extras on the copy desk are Baxter Newton, once city editor of a small town daily at Mobridge, S. D.; Billy Lacy, a former reporter on the Citizen-News at Hollywood, and Max Pollack, formerly on the circulation stafs of Chicago papers.

In the best film newspaper tradition March wears his hat at his work, parked on the back of his head. Some day a bold Hollywood director is going to win a prize for distinguishing services in journalism by filming a reporter with his hat off, but it will be some time hence.

An egg, to be good eating, must have tender treatment. Not even the most select egg will bear up under the torture of high heat and long cooking. A fried egg behaves best over low heat, a "boiled" egg is tender only if cooked at simmering rather than boiling temperature, and a baked egg in any form is most appetizing when the oven heat is low.

It's a good practice to serve eggs for breakfast as often as is convenient, because of their important dietary contributions and because they aren't likely to be served often at other meals. Breakfast eggs may be served in dozens of ways to thwart the breakfast bogey of an unvaried menu. These two egg recipes are appropriate for Sunday or other late breakfasts.

Scrambled Eggs in Sausage Cups.

[Serves Four.]

8 thin slices summer sausage
4 eggs
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons cream
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Leave the skin on the sausage slices and brown them quickly in butter. The skin will cause the edges to curl up to form cup shapes. Scramble the eggs with butter and seasonings over low heat, being careful not to overcook them so that they become dry. Fill the sausage cups and serve, garnished with parsley, on a hot platter.

Scrambled Eggs in Muffins.

[Serves Four.]

4 leftover muffins or buns
4 eggs
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons tomato juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cut off tops of muffins or buns [at least a day old] and scoop out the centers. Toast lightly in the oven. Butter may be spread over the buns or muffins before they are toasted. Beat eggs with other ingredients only enough to blend, and cook in butter over low heat, stirring constantly. Fill eggs into muffin cases and serve at once.

For the ordinary, rather hurried breakfast, the soft cooked egg is highly desirable. Try this method for a tender, delicate egg with a yolk the consistency of thick cream.

SOFT COOKED BREAKFAST EGGS.

Place the eggs in boiling water [allow them to stand outside the refrigerator for a few minutes first], and lower the heat under the container so as to keep the water at simmering temperature, 185 degrees, for four minutes. Remove from water and serve at once.

Hard cooked eggs are cooked in the same way, except that they are left in the simmering water for 30 minutes. If they aren't to be eaten hot at once, they should be plunged into cold water, as the change in temperature will prevent the formation of a greenish sulphur ring around the yolk. This ring, although harmless, makes the egg unattractive, and often is the indication of too long cooking or too high a temperature.

Articles for Baby Brighten His First Days

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Bottle warmer [excellent for traveling] made by a reliable manufacturer. It consists of a long, flat fabric bag filled with a chemically treated substance on which one pours water to generate heat. This is wrapped around the bottle and then put into an insulated bag. It can also be used dry to keep the bottle cold.

High chairs of wood in attractive models with separate seat and back pads. Also high chairs upholstered in water resistant, washable fabrics.

For the younger baby's delicate body, floor pads to put in play pens. These may be of turkish toweling or of thick padding covered with calicos or of other attractive, washable fabrics.

For the baby whose ears do not lie as flat as they might, a light net cap.

For the baby who sucks his fingers—various devices. The one of muslin built on the "stiff elbow" principle is obtainable in all sizes. The thumb guards are of wire and are tied on around the wrist. If the small one starts sucking his fingers, too, there is a simple device to tie around them. Devices of this sort, if tried, must be used with discretion and the effects of their use watched to see whether or not they are proving beneficial.

The increasingly popular "carrying basket" for the small baby has long, convenient handles. Some of these have frames with little wheels on which they may be set for moving about the house. Others are permanently attached to frames with castors.

For Defeating Summer Heat

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

You can easily defeat the summer heat if you wear this crisp looking and simple dress. It has tailored lines and no details to create discomfort or to muss. The bodice buttons down the front. The neckline is low and square and may be embellished with either a flat collar or with washable lingerie touches. Pockets, if you like them, may decorate both the waist and the skirt. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulderline and may be either long or short. The skirt has plenty of fullness achieved by means of gores. No plaits to lose press and make necessary painfully hot minutes over the ironing board!

Style No. 2704 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

DOUBLES OF NO TRUMP GAME BID.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

An opponent's three no trump contract should be doubled when the defenders hold four honor tricks, but rarely will they have this opportunity. Three no trump is a contract seldom attempted without at least six honor tricks in the combined hands of declarer and dummy, leaving only two and one-half or three honor tricks as the portion of the defenders. A player should not double an adverse three no trump contract, as a rule, unless he holds [or knows from the bidding that his partner holds] a leadable long suit and sufficient stoppers and entries to establish and cash it before declarer has time to win nine tricks.

When such a suit is available, value the defensive power of the hand as follows: 1. Decide upon the suit to be opened and estimate its combined length and strength in the partnership hands. 2. Determine how many stoppers declarer's side probably holds in the suit. You will need as many entries as the number of declarer's stoppers, plus one. [This time valuation of a long suit is based on the Rule of X-plus 1.] The opening lead may be counted as one of the required entries. The other entries must be honor tricks which the doubler holds or which he can safely assume that his partner holds. Also counted as an entry is a guarded honor in a suit which is one of declarer's strongest and which he will, therefore, have to establish.

TODAY'S HAND.

The bidding [Match Point Duplicate]:

South	West	North	East
3 spades	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West chose an unfortunate opening for his side—namely: his fourth best club. Dummy played the eight, East the queen, and South won with the king.

Declarer immediately returned a club toward dummy and finessed. Dummy's singleton trump was led. East ducked, but won the second round, and exited with his third club. Discarding a diamond on the club ace, declarer then led a low heart from dummy and, when East ducked, went right up with the king. Trumps now were rattled off, until with only one to be played the situation was as follows:

NORTH
♠ None

♦ A Q

WEST
♠ None

♦ 10 9 2
♣ None

EAST
♠ None
♥ A

♠ 2
♥ 10
♣ None

The last trump was led and the heart queen discarded from dummy. East, who knew a squeeze when he was caught in one, blanked his diamond king without the slightest hesitation or show of pain. It then became a simple problem of whether to finesse against the diamond king or to go up with the diamond ace on the chance that East had blanked the king. Actually the "percentage" of each play was identical. But at this point the squeeze play was by far the better choice, for the simple reason that if the finesse were tried and it lost a heart trick also would be lost and dummy's diamond ace would be put to sleep. On this basis declarer chose to play for the squeeze, and the drop of the unguarded king was no more than his just reward.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: It was my turn to lead and by mistake I pulled two cards. Does the declarer have the right to say which I shall lead?

Answer: No. You may choose the card you wish to lead and the other card becomes a penalty card.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

JO-JOTTE POINTER.

As a general rule a player should decide for or against becoming declarer solely on his first six cards. Occasionally, however, he may be swayed one way or the other by the possibility of improving the hand in the draw. The chances are about 6 to 1 against obtaining any single card, but when any one of four cards will produce a valuable additon to the strength of the hand the player has better than an even chance of improving. A close take may be justified on such a hand, but would be unjustified on a hand of otherwise equal strength which had no chance of improving in the draw.

Baseball Party Draws Flood of Child Letters

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Would any of you young White Sox fans like to see your heroes play the Detroit Tigers on July 1?

As the first of our series of summer parties for children, 50 boys and 50 girls will be taken to see that game, which should be a swell one. J. Louis Comiskey, the owner of the White Sox, has generously extended the invitation, so I'm looking for some boys and girls who'd like to go. I don't think I'll have any trouble finding them, judging from the mail which has already poured in, but there's still time to try for an invitation.

If you'd like to be my guest at this party, just write and tell me why. You can tell anything you think will prove that you'd have a good time if you won an invitation, which should be easy if you're a real fan.

Any boy or girl may try for an invitation. Your letter will have to be on my desk by next Thursday, and must include your name, address, and age. There are no coupons or subscriptions or anything of that sort necessary.

Each child must write his or her own letter—you can't win if your mother or father does it for you. Don't ask for invitations for your pal or your cousin—make him write his own letter if he wants to come.

You don't have to worry about your grammar or spelling, either. This isn't for English composition class, you know—this is all for fun!

Address your letters to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

New Romance Usually Cure for Heartache

It's Grand Way to Help One Forget Pain.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Does any one know a recipe for forgetting one who plainly has forgotten you?"

If any one could prescribe a balm for this type of aching heart, there'd be a fortune awaiting! If you know a good remedy, be a good soul and pass it on to us, reader! You have no idea how many clients we have with this type of ache gnawing away at them. Sometimes the pain lasts for years, sometimes forever. In the latter event, we unsympathetically believe that the patient must enjoy the suffering or he would not prolong it so. Even letting it affect one's life for several years is bad enough, and likewise suggestive of the wish to be miserable. A certain sense of enjoyment must be gotten out of it, or surely there would be an effort made to remedy the ill.

Our feeling is that this heart ailment can be conquered, but not by telling one's self he or she must forget. You can't cure worry, as millions have found out, by just ordering yourself not to worry, but if you give your mind some intense activity with nary a speck of space left for the worry demons to encroach, you're on your way to recovering your old philosophical calm. So it is with the type of heartache under discussion. You can't say: "You've got to stop thinking about Jim or Bill or Tom. It will get you nowhere!" But if you can make yourself say: "I'll give Joe or John or Hector a break now instead of centering thoughts on the one who has walked out on me," you must get somewhere. That is, if you follow up the statement with activity in the direction of said Joe or John or Hector.

We have heard it said these many years that the only cure for a broken heart is a new heart interest. And we have seen some remarkable recoveries following that very prescription. When some one has gone out of your life and you know he or she is gone for good and aye, there's little use in centering heart and mind on that individual. There's a constant drain on the soul, there is anguish in every little memory. Every mention of that beloved one's name brings new pangs. Now, if one were suffering a physical ailment, one would be deemed a perfect lunatic who would not take steps to get relief and a permanent cure.

Of course, it's all very well to sit back and tell another what he or she should do under the named circumstances, but there is, in the final analysis, the individual disposition to take it on the chin or to collapse under the strain. But, if you know of a remedy, we still would welcome your help, readers.

Mary, who is to marry Buddy Saturday, visited the Paramount lot and saw her betrothed wed Betty Grable. Later, Mary took part as an extra in a theater scene and received a check for $8.25. "It was the lowest studio check of my career," she said.

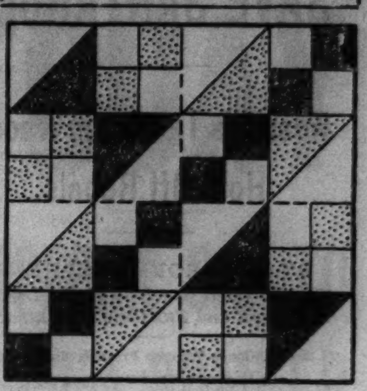
"State House" Is Pieced Quilt on Four Patch Basis



State House.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"State House" is another one of those unusual and attractive pieced blocks which were fundamentally a four patch pattern. There is a distinct resemblance to "Jacob's Ladder," the old quilt with a pre-Revolutionary birth date, although "Jacob's Ladder" is a simple nine patch design. "State House" block is simple and easily set together, and is not difficult for the beginning quilt maker to consider as her first attempt at this type of needlework. The blocks are large, measuring 16 inches square when completed. When used as an all-over design the quilt requires only 30 pieced blocks.

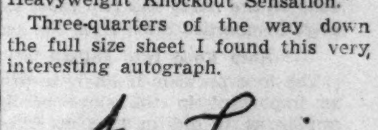
Joe Louis Puts His Ring Punch Behind a Pen

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

Before I looked for the signature I knew who it was. In red letters fully an inch high at the top was spelled "JOE LOUIS." Underneath in bright blue letters, also of large size, was printed "America's New Heavyweight Knockout Sensation."

Three-quarters of the way down the full size sheet I found this very interesting autograph.



All of the page description may sound irrelevant to the handwriting of this pugilist who fights for the world heavyweight title tonight, but that is not so. Heavy writers like rich colors as well as rich foods and of all the heavy handwritings I have ever seen this is probably the heaviest pressure of all.

The space wasted shows that our hero is also extravagant. Whenever you find some one wasting paper to such an extent that he begins away down the page with an unreasonably deep margin, you can be sure he wastes everything. Those who scrimp unnecessarily with paper are likewise scrimpy with other things.

There isn't much handwriting here by which to judge Joe Louis, but certainly the combination of powerful pressure with the enormous underloop of the letter "j" reveals a mighty powerful punch. There is a certain ruthlessness here that shows he'll have no mercy if he once gets going well.

Notice, too, that the first "o" is closed rather carefully and the second "o" is wide open. It looks as if Joe Louis can restrain himself better in the beginning than after he once gets into swing. There is much more deliberation in the first word than in the second.

This is a shrewd, overbearing and hair-stirring handwriting — but if you'll remember my analysis of energetic, aggressive, alert, Jimmy Braddock some weeks ago you'll know that neither side is poorly equipped for tonight's big fight.

BASQUES FLEEING BILBAO FIGHT TO SAVE SANTANDER

Guerrilla Tactics in Woods Hold Off Rebels.

BY PEMBROKE STEPHENS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BILBAO, Spain, June 21.—Rearguard units of the Basque army are making determined resistance to the Spanish rebels' advance from Bilbao to Santander, 45 miles to the west.

These contingents are not allowing the capture of Bilbao to demoralize them. They are fighting energetically to allow time for troops from Santander and Asturias province to reorganize.

It would be a mistake to underestimate the importance of this resistance. Santander and Asturias sent comparatively few troops to defend Bilbao. They said they needed the bulk of their men for their own defense. The Basques are not good soldiers. The cream of the loyalist army on the Basque front evacuated Bilbao with its war material and it is determined to oppose the rebels to the end.

Resort to Guerrilla Tactics.

New tactics are being followed. Instead of building complicated defenses which form an easy aim for aviation and artillery attack, the loyalist troops are now fighting with guerrilla tactics, holding up the rebels in the woods without trenches, keeping their mechanized material hidden from the sight of aviation and moving from place to place in the night.

Santander is much farther from Bilbao than the rebels were from Bilbao at the beginning of the offensive. While the loyalists are delaying the rebels, it is understood important fortifications are being erected around Santander.

[Basque dispatches said the present front line runs between Baracaldo and Alonsotegui, only a few miles west of Bilbao. It was asserted rebel planes machine gunned refugee caravans on the roads and two rebel warships bombarded them from the sea.]

Ship Food Into Bilbao.

The food problem is likely to prove as important in the siege of Santander as it did in that of Bilbao. The population [normally 91,000], has been swollen by many thousands of refugees and the hesitation of foreign countries to send food complicates the problem.

Conditions are becoming normal in Bilbao. The rebel general staf has allocated 50 trucks for the transport of food by road from San Sebastian.

Senor Escario, director of the rebel technical services, succeeded today in reëstablishing the water supply which was cut off during the last days of the siege.

Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander in chief, has nominated Don Miguel Ganuza as the new civil governor of Vizcaya province, of which Bilbao is capital. He was formerly a captain of infantry and took part in the attack of Bilbao.

Seeks British and French Aid.

SANTANDER, Spain, June 21.—(AP)—Basque authorities requested the British and French governments to assist with their warships in evacuating a large part of the refugees to Barcelona and other cities in government-held Spain. They warned that the situation would become desperate if food, medicines, and antityphoid serums are not received quickly.

Blast Rebels in Madrid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, June 21.—Government sappers today exploded two huge mines under the Clinic hospital which rebels have been holding as a fortress in University City since last November.

The Clinic building is the most imposing structure in the medical group of University City, northwest section of Madrid. When the rebels made their farthest penetration on the Madrid front some 3,000 soldiers occupied the building.

Loyalist officers declared the two blasts literally split the clinic in two. They asserted 300 rebels were killed in the explosions.

Newcomers at Zoo

Three alpacas, who up to now have spent a rather dull life raising fleece for overcoats, arrived from Bolivia yesterday to find that henceforth they're going to be headliners at the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield.

With them came two camels from Siberia and six crested screamers. The screamers are birds resembling turkeys, and Director Edward H. Bean, who brought the whole lot from New York, said he'd let them run around the zoo grounds as long as they don't make too much noise.

HANDS OFF SPAIN GROUP SEEKS U. S. AID FOR PATROL

Britain Admits Failure of Munitions Watch.

LONDON, June 21.—(AP)—The 27-nation European nonintervention committee decided tonight to seek aid from the United States and other countries after a sharply worded British declaration that the committee had failed thus far to keep arms from either side in the Spanish civil war.

The British stand regarding the "present state of affairs as thoroughly unsatisfactory" was believed by some observers to be a veiled threat to quit the "hands off Spain" alliance.

Lord Plymouth, chairman and British representative on the committee, told a subcommittee session that efforts must be intensified to halt the flow of munitions to the civil war combatants.

"If there is no early evidence of such coöperation," he warned, "the British government would feel bound to take this fact into account in giving further consideration to the situation."

Seek Aid of Outside Nations.

Thereupon the subcommittee agreed to solicit aid from non-European nations through "informal negotiations" conducted by Britain. Presumably the nations would be asked to agree not to sell or ship war materials to Spain. Britain also warned that practical measures must be taken toward securing the removal of foreign volunteers from Spain.

The decision came after Germany announced postponement of a visit to London by her foreign minister, Baron Konstantin von Neurath. Berlin said the situation created by "repeated Red [Loyalist] Spanish attacks on German warships" made Von Neurath's presence at home imperative.

Cancellation of Von Neurath's visit reliable informants said, had brought home to the British how seriously Germany views the Leipzig incident [an alleged attack last Friday against the Nazi cruiser by Spanish government submarines].

May Insist on Naval Action.

Authoritative quarters believed Germany took this line to enforce a demand that Britain, France, and Italy join her in an "impressive demonstration"—possibly naval action—against the Spanish government. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden held three long conferences with the ambassadors of Germany, Italy, and France, one meeting lasting until nearly midnight.

Germany was said to have insisted she would not be satisfied with further notes of warning to Valencia.

The Spanish embassy announced it had informed the British government that German charges of attacks on the Leipzig were "totally without foundation."

British officials did not attempt to hide disappointment over postponement of the Von Neurath visit, scheduled for Wednesday. He had been invited by the British government, and was to have discussed Spanish and other issues.

Inspect Warship's Hull.

BERLIN, June 22.—(AP)—The government announced tonight it had discovered positive evidence that the cruiser Leipzig was sidewiped either by an attacking submarine, allegedly Spanish, or by a torpedo launched from it. The attack occurred Friday.

Underwater scrutiny of the Leipzig hull showed that it had been scraped by a sizable metal object. The incident aroused further resentment among Germans. Minister of Propaganda Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels declared in an address to 100,000 tonight, "We want action [from the nonintervention committee], we want reality. A new Germany has arisen which is a world power."

OVERHAUL AMELIA'S PLANE IN JAVA FOR HOP TO AUSTRALIA

BANDOENG, Dutch East Indies, June 21. — (AP) — Amelia Earhart decided today to take a three day rest and have her plane overhauled before taking off on the next leg of her flight around the world.

She landed at Bandoeng at 10:17 a. m. today [10:37 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time] after a flight from Singapore over the Java sea and a part of mountainous Java. Military planes went aloft to lead her to the landing field when she circled for 15 minutes, apparently unable to see airport markers.

After her plane is checked by workmen of the Dutch Air Service, K. L. M., she plans to take off from Java for Darwin, Australia.

IRISH VETS COME HOME FROM SPAIN; 9 JAILED FOR POSSESSING ARMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 21.—Gen. Owen O'Duffy and his Irish brigade of Fascists came home today from Spain, where they had fought for the rebel general, Francisco Franco. Six hundred and fifty-seven returned and reported only nine fighters lost their lives. Most of them were in tattered clothes and did not appear very soldierly.

Police searched the soldiers for arms and nine men found with revolvers and ammunition were taken to jail.

At Mansion house, where a crowd of 3,000 had assembled, Msgr. Waters welcomed the men as "soldiers of the cross," who had been engaged in a cause more sacred than the crusaders who fought for holy places or the Zouaves, who fought for the pope. They deserved well of the church and the Irish people, he said.

IL DUCE PRAISES FRANCO ON HIS BILBAO VICTORY

ROME, June 21.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini sent this telegram today to the Spanish rebel generalissimo, Francisco Franco, captor or Bilbao:

"Heartiest felicitations on a noble undertaking which has given back to the Spanish fatherland one of its noblest provinces. It marks a gigantic step forward in the truimph of the Nationalists [rebels]."

The Italian ace of the Spanish rebel air corps was designated by the air ministry, which Mussolini heads, as the recipient of the annual Francesco Barraccaa aeronautical prize for the fiscal year 1936-37. He is Lieut. Adriano Mantelli of Parma, who volunteered in the rebel army as a pursuit pilot. He has brought down twenty-two government planes.

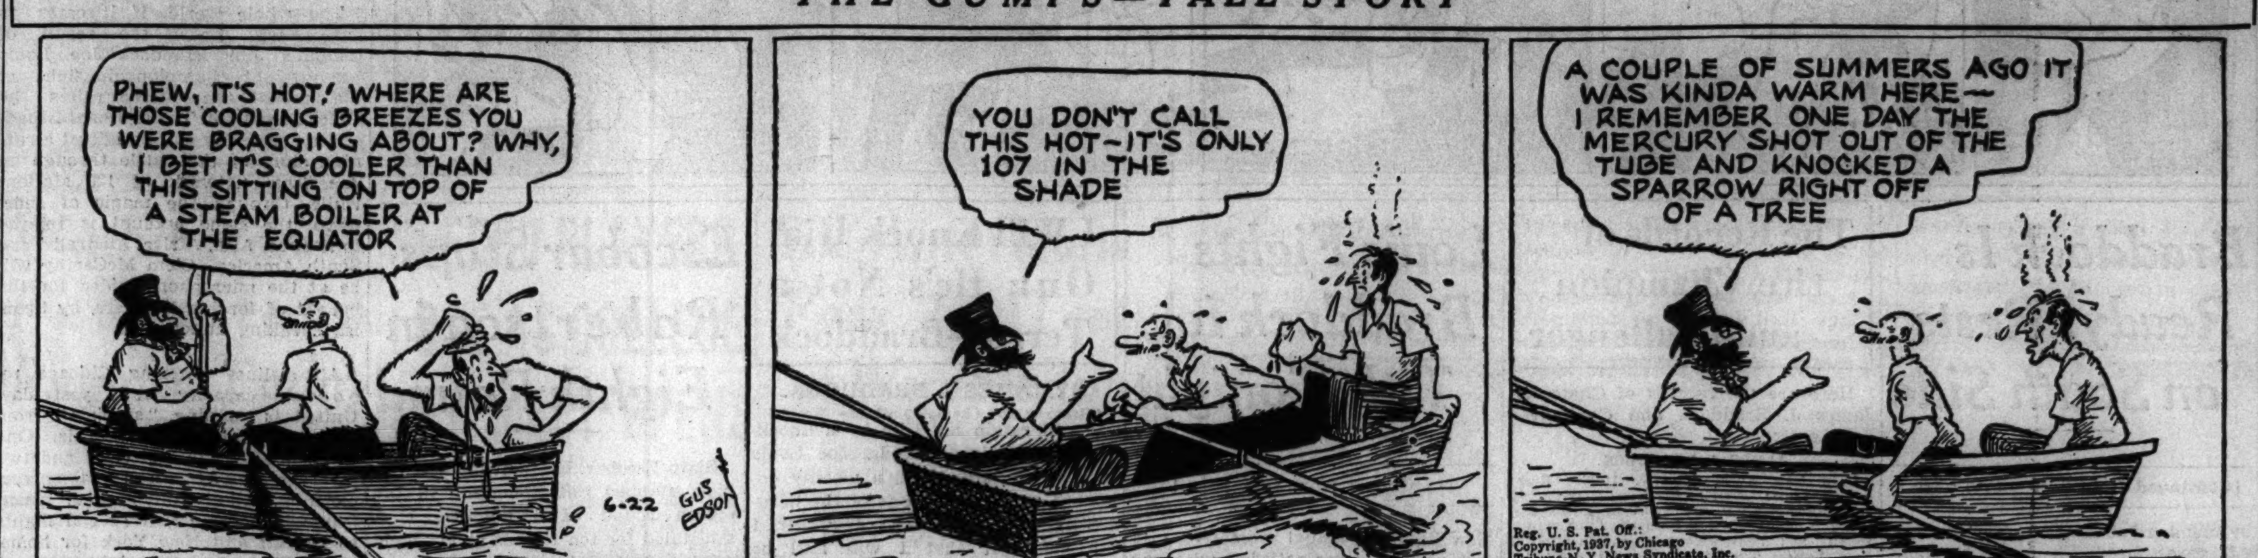
BRADDOCK ON SCENE; LOUIS ARRIVES TODAY

THE GUMPS—TALL STORY



Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright, 1937, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

POLICE ESCORT LATE; CHAMPION DOES WITHOUT

Goes to South Side Hotel for Night.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jim Braddock, heavyweight champion of the world, smiling, joking with his camp mates of the last six weeks with whom he trained for his title defense against Joe Louis, left his camp at Grand Beach, Mich., at 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Two hours later he reached the south side hotel which will be his headquarters until time to report at the Auditorium theater to weigh in at noon today.

Manager Joe Gould drove the car. Braddock was in the front seat. Doc Robb, Jim's trainer, and Eddie Brietz, representative of the press by agreement so that Braddock's trip might be completely covered, were in the rear. The Chicago police escort failed to arrive, although scheduled to appear at noon, and Gould decided to go without them. Barney Ross, world welterweight champion, who was to have gone with Braddock, went to town a half hour later with the police escort which had been intended for Braddock.

They'll Play Safe.

"I'll drive slowly," Gould said, grinning, as he stopped the big car at the edge of camp for final pictures. "There's too much money beside me here to burn up the concrete."

Braddock was up yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, more than two hours after his usual arising time. He went immediately for a brisk walk of nearly two miles, accompanied by Jimmy Nichols, and then sat down to his breakfast, the last meal prepared by Chef Egan Bauer.

By 11 o'clock Braddock was ready to break camp. His baggage had been stowed away in Gould's car. Other members of the camp were busy packing and by noon all were loitering in front of Pinewood Inn at Grand Beach.

Jim Isn't Excited.

Braddock was completely at ease, in contrast to his conduct the previous two days, when he irritably declined to pose for pictures or to discuss the championship battle.

Jack McCarthy, Braddock's pal as well as training mate, who has accompanied Jim on every trip in the last three years, was butt of the conversation.

McCarthy then came downstairs carrying a floor lamp and plaintively asked Gould if he had room for it in the car.

Boys Will Be Boys.

Solly Seeman was busy with a pocketful of explosion caps which he attached to automobile doors for a parting salute to the boxers and the managers. Harry Raskin, who directs the training of Max Roesch, eventually drove away, but not until he had received a double dose of the fireworks.

Gould was by far the most nervous of the group which sunned in front of camp yesterday. Gould was anxious to reach the Morrison hotel. Among other chores, he had a date to deliver 500 tickets purchased by physicians of northern Indiana so that a group of children from South Bend may attend the fight. The B'nai B'rith is sponsoring the party at Comiskey park tonight.

Champion Believes He'll Win.

Braddock believes implicitly he will whip Louis. You may discount any statement concerning Jim knocking out the Bomber, however, for Braddock really thinks it will be a hard fight and that he will retain his title only by a decision at the conclusion of 15 rounds.

Ross, in discussion of Braddock's probable plan for fighting Louis, indicated he believed Jim would box cautiously and stay away from Louis, if possible, for at least five rounds. This coincides with every statement

How Tribune's Writers Pick Tonight's Fight

Arch Ward—Joe Louis is not the fighter he was a year after graduating from Golden Gloves. Braddock probably is in better physical condition. But they'll have to whip Louis once more to convince me he isn't the best of the present mediocre group of heavyweights. He will win by a knockout.

French Lane—Braddock will win inside of eight rounds by a knockout. Two years of idleness have helped him rather than hurt him. He is in perfect condition, physically and mentally, for the defense of his title.

Wilfrid Smith—Unless Joe Louis is the most overrated fighter in history he will knock out Jim Braddock in six rounds. Braddock is superbly conditioned and if he outboxes Louis for six rounds he must be given a chance to retain his championship.

SELECT REFEREE AND JUDGES JUST BEFORE BIG BOUT

Five referees and eight judges will be at the ringside tonight when James Braddock defends his championship against Joe Louis at Comiskey park. From this group the Illinois boxing commission will select the referee and the two judges for the fight after Louis and Braddock have entered the ring.

The judges are John Bray, D. E. A. Frankel, Ed Klein, William A. Battye, Carl Witt, Rube Metz, Edward Hintz, and Harry Hall.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Giants are in town. But not the second place Giants, mind you. The Cubs, ever since they went in first place on June 15 have been looking forward to a nice private battle for first and second places. And what happens? The Cardinals win two on the Sabbath and sneak into second place.

So it's a different setup as the Cubs and Giants start their three game series at Wrigley field this afternoon. The Cards will be entertaining the not so remarkable Dodgers, and it will require no heavy juggle of mathematics for the symphonic Cards to pry their way into first place, laughing raucously at the Giants and Cubs as these contenders struggle to cut themselves a slice of throat.

Here's the Standing.

The standing of the three contending teams as National league business resumes this afternoon is:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	33	20	.623
St. Louis	32	21	.604
New York	33	22	.600

The Pirates, of course, haven't left the league, but they are four games back of the Cubs and can't take first place in the next three days, no matter what happens.

900 POLICE TO HANDLE FIGHT THRONG TONIGHT

Transportation Companies Plan Special Service.

Nine hundred policemen, one sixth of the city's force, will be detailed to the Comiskey park area tonight as insurance against trafic jams when the expected crowd of 55,000 moves on the arena to watch Joe Louis fight Jim Braddock for the heavyweight championship.

Chief John Prendergast of the uniformed force and Capt. David Flynn, head of the trafic detail, yesterday drafted special regulations to guarantee an orderly flow of auto trafic and to minimize parking troubles. At the same time transportation companies, street car, elevated and bus lines—announced extra equipment would be put on to handle the fans.

Wild-Catters Are Barred.

Wildcat parking space solicitors, who customarily sell everything from a slice of the sidewalk to their back yards to distraught motorists, will be barred from the fight scene, Capt. Flynn said. The regular lots used by baseball fans, east and west of the park on 35th street, will be open at $1 a car.

Comiskey park is at 35th street and Shields avenue. Surface lines officials recommended that persons going to the bout from the loop use the Clark street-Wentworth avenue line, getting off at 35th street and walking a short distance west to the park. Other street cars passing within walking distance are the State street, Wallace street, Racine avenue, Halsted street, 31st street, and Pershing road lines, and the 35th street line runs past the gate.

This Is a Limousine Crowd.

"A fight crowd usually is a street car crowd," commented one official last night, "but this one may be a limousine or taxi crowd." [Top price is $27.50.]

All express trains on the elevated lines will stop at the 35th street station. Either the Jackson park or Englewood expresses or the Kenwood local trains may be used from downtown. Since this is not a transfer point, the "L" customers will have to walk several blocks to the park or ride taxis.

The Chicago Motor Coach company will operate a shuttle service in 35th street from Michigan avenue west to the park. Passengers may transfer from the regular south side buses, which are operated in Michigan avenue.

Park Police Help, Too.

Official cars and buses will be parked in 34th street between Shields avenue and Wells street. This section also will be open as a taxicab stand. Cabs also will be accommodated in Shields avenue between 35th and 37th streets.

After the fight 33d street will be reserved for eastbound trafic and Shields avenue for northbound trafic. Regular two way trafic will be permitted on all other streets. Left turns will be barred except for cars turning north at 35th street and Shields avenue.

Twenty-five extra park policemen will be assigned along Garfield boulevard, Western avenue, and Michigan avenue. Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer for the park district, estimated the fight will swell the normal trafic in these arteries by 9,000 cars.

U. S. RYDER CUP STARS LAND AT PLYMOUTH TODAY

Aboard S. S. Manhattan, June 21.—(AP)—America's Ryder cup golfers were preparing tonight to abandon shuffleboard sticks for golf clubs as the Manhattan slid through a placid sea 200 miles from Cobh. The players will disembark at Plymouth tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. and leave immediately for London.

Sam Snead, who had his troubles with seasickness, today challenged Horton Smith's claim to the Atlantic shuffleboard title. Ed Dudley's sore throat was much better. Only Gene Sarazen, swinging a two pound driver an hour daily, showed any interest in golf.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

PROMOTERS, who have been making daily announcements of a million dollar gate for the Braddock-Louis fight, estimate that the contest will bring 5 million dollars to the business men of Chicago.

Merchants and caterers, men whose work necessitates meticulous study of publicity values and finances, have established through experience and their books that sporting spectacles of national importance excel all other events as business stimulants. They are not prepared, however, to share the promoters' optimism.

Mike Jacobs.

Fixing a definite figure on the Braddock-Louis boom to Chicago business is pure guess work. But it is not unreasonable to predict that the bout will put 5 million dollars into circulation throughout the country. Airways from New York, California, and the south report unprecedented reservations. Railroads are running special trains and many fans will come by automobile, spending meal money and buying gas and oil along the way.

These expenditures cannot be construed as being directly beneficial to Chicago. Local hotel men, however, expect to be enriched $250,000 by the bout on their own estimate that conventions and normal trade will limit Chicago hotel accommodations to 10,000 fight fans. The average cost of a hotel room in Chicago is $4 and the average cost of food per day is computed at another $4 for persons pleasure bent. The remainder of their estimated $250,000 income will be derived from bars and entertainment provided in the hotels.

More definite estimates are precluded by the confusion in the fight headquarters, where veterans in championship promotions are having difficulty reaching unanimity of opinion. Outside of a million dollar gate, 80,000 spectators, and a great fight, all of which are highly problematical, the boys find little room for agreement. Mike Jacobs, the promoter in fact, estimates 60 per cent of the crowd will come from a distance of more than 100 miles. Walter St. Dennis, his veteran publicitor, insists 45 per cent. And Rivington Bisland, in charge of tickets, says 16 and not more than 20 per cent of the customers will be visitors.

On the basis of a $700,000 gate, contributed by 55,000 spectators, an estimate perhaps more in keeping with the attraction than the promoters' seven figure hope, $368,000 of money paid at the box offices will remain in Chicago. This includes $98,000 to Louis as his share of the purse on the basis of 17½ per cent of the net, $200,000 promotional costs, and $70,000 to the state athletic commission. Of course, quite a chunk of Louis' $98,000 will remain here only long enough for him to settle up with the internal revenue collector.

How can I tell on which side to align

SPECIAL CAR TO BRING BOMBER FROM KENOSHA

Weighs In at Noon in Loop Theater.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., June 21.—There is one wrong note in this sophisticated picture of Joe Louis, the bored pugilist, lounging languidly here tonight in his Spanish villa on the shores of Lake Michigan waiting, while the big grandfather's clock in the hall ticks away closer and closer to the biggest moment in his life.

Joe himself is as calm and quiet as an old shoe. His trainer, Jack Blackburn, is a picture of the perfect jovial host. His two managers, John Roxborough and Julian Black, are suave and well poised as matinée idols. Louis' Hoosier schoolmaster and his physician are doubling in the parts of genial greeters.

Mr. Nelson Is Shaky.

But here's where the discordant note pops up. Carl Nelson, Joe's bodyguard and for many years one of Chicago's best liked and handsomest colored policemen, is entirely out of character.

He is just plain jittery. Like old bojangles Bill Robinson himself, Nelson simply cannot make his feet behave. And when a man's bodyguard gets nervous it looks like a dead giveaway on the real state of affairs.

Nelson dashed into Kenosha for the mail today hours before the mail train arrived. When it arrived he gave Blackburn's mail to Roxborough and Louis' mail to Billy Bottoms, the cook. About that time he remembered he had left his hat at the postoffice. He played catch with Louis and his tosses were, to put it gently, slightly inaccurate.

Nelson says the suspense is awful and that he will feel much better along about 11 o'clock tomorrow night.

It's a Grim Faced Outfit.

Off guard this little group at Joe's villa is a grim faced band of colored men weighted down with the responsibility of Joe's big job at Comiskey park tomorrow night.

They don't say it in so many words because they don't have to, but one understands that this 23 year old saffron tinted fellow who just "growed" down in Alabama is face to face with one of the greatest opportunities anyone of his race was ever afforded pugilistically.

They know that he is only the second colored lad in history ever given a chance to fight for the championship. Jack Johnson was the first.

Everything known to the science of fist fighting has been brought into play during the six weeks that Louis has been training here.

Takes Long Walk.

He even hasn't shaved for ten days and will not shave until after tomorrow night's fight. Long black whiskers against his swarthy cheeks make him look quite ferocious, although that look is often softened by his none too polite yawns.

From now on until he climbs into the ring everything known to keep a man from getting nervous will be applied.

He wasn't asked to go on the road this morning. Instead he was allowed to sleep until 9 o'clock and then enjoyed a leisurely breakfast. It consisted of half a grapefruit, two soft boiled eggs, buttered toast and green tea. He walked about four miles after breakfast.

In midafternoon he drove to Municipal stadium. He did no work there, however. Two masseurs worked over him on a rubbing table for almost an hour. It was dinner time when he arrived back at the villa and that was a heavy meal, the piece de resistance of which was a thick juicy steak. Tonight he was permitted to stay up until 11 o'clock, the first time since he opened the camp.

Cab Disappoints Him.

He telephoned his wife, Marva, in Chicago, his mother in Detroit, and had a long talk with Cab Calloway, who was in Kansas City. He left the phone a bit mad when Cab broke the news to him that he wasn't coming to Chicago for the fight.

He will sleep late again tomorrow. Breakfast will be served at the villa at 9 o'clock. Then camp will be broken. The party will go by automobile to Zion City, where the members will board a private car for the trip into Chicago. Louis expects to reach the Auditorium theater for the weighing in ceremonies at exactly 12 o'clock.

The private car will carry the party to the Congress street elevated station so Joe won't waste much energy getting from here to the scales.

Jim Sends Gift.

Early tonight a special messenger arrived at the Louis villa with a package. Joe and all his handlers crowded around while Jack Blackburn unwrapped it. It was a victrola record, and the title of the piece on both sides was the same, "You Can't Take That Away From Me." On a card in the package was the signature, "James J. Braddock."

SMILIN' JACK—MONEY BALKS

Braddock Is Ready; Rests on South Side

by members of Braddock's entourage. All agree Braddock is in excellent physical condition for a long battle.

Strangely enough, Ross, as well as all others who discussed tonight's bout, make Louis the question mark. They are convinced of Braddock's condition and his boxing ability. All guesses on the outcome hinge on Louis.

"If Louis hasn't lost his punching power," one of these forecasters said yesterday morning, "he has his best chance to win by a knockout in the first five or six rounds. After that, Louis will slow up."

Joe Can't Change Quickly.

The Bomber showed against Max Schmeling that it is almost impossible for him to adjust his tactics during a round. In other words, he depends on his seconds for instructions. These men at Braddock's camp, whose business is judging fighters, are convinced Louis is a dumb boxer. They point emphatically to the fact that Schmeling hit Joe 57 times with the same right hand punch and that Joe never was able to defend himself from this chopping right.

Jim may not be the smartest fighter in the world, but he is superior to Louis, his followers add. He expects to make Louis fight the kind of a fight he wishes.

Louis made his phenomenal reputation, as did Jack Dempsey, by attacking. His attack was his defense. Now, if Louis has spent several weeks perfecting a defense, and fails to come out swinging as he did against Primo Carnera, Max Baer, Jack Sharkey, and King Levinsky, the boys here are convinced Braddock will be the winner.

"Louis never has improved as a fight progresses," Ross said in conclusion. "That's why I think if the bout goes five or six rounds, Braddock will win. No one can say what Louis will do, but I think whatever he does he must do in five rounds."

BAR THE DOORS, MEN; CONNOLLY'S COMING TO TOWN

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.] —One-Eyed Connolly, the gate crasher, en route to the Louis-Braddock fight, crammed his way into the Illinois house of representatives tonight and regaled the members with reminiscences.

"At the Dempsey-Gibbons fight in Shelby, Mont.," screamed Connolly into the microphone, "I crashed the gate with 80 pounds of ice on my back. Once I got inside I went out again with two buckets to get water to wash off the ice, as I told 'em. Of course, I used the water to make ice water for sale and I cleaned up $120.

"Then, when I crashed the gate at Boyle's thirty acres for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight," bragged the interloper, "I really pulled a fast one. I came in with an empty trunk on my back, staggering like I was carrying a ton.

"'Say, boss,' I said to an usher, 'I've got the extra tickets here for the fight. Watch it, will you, while I get a drink?' As far as I know that boy is still watching it."

Louis Fights Braddock for Title Tonight

New York, the actual promoters, said last night he was satisfied with the sale.

The windup fight is scheduled to get under way not later than 10 p. m., Chicago time. The management reserves the right, however, to move it up in case of threatening weather. The first preliminary will go on at 7:30. Extraordinary police precautions have been taken to handle the crowd. While there has been no indication of any untoward celebration or disorder, 76 commanding officers will direct the operations of 900 policemen inside and outside Comiskey park.

Not One Scandal.

The fighters will weigh in at noon at the Auditorium theater. Only those who have been issued special credentials will be admitted to the routine ceremony. This completed, the principals will return to their hideouts with nothing to do except possibly to polish up on the words of the popular refrain, "There's a Lull in My Life."

The training processes of both Braddock and Louis have been uneventful, almost monotonous. Rarely did either flash the form associated with title contenders. There is considerable speculation as to whether or not Louis has recaptured the confidence that marked his work previous to his knockout at the hands of Schmeling. He apparently is no more excited about tonight's encounter than if he was going a-huntin' or a-fishin'.

The most encouraging aspect of the training periods is that neither fighter developed into savage conversationalist. They probably took a lesson from Baer, who tried to destroy Braddock two years ago with a pair of noisy tonsils a week in advance of their meeting. He later found that the eloquence of a boisterous right in the ring was much more dangerous.

Louis Is Favorite.

While the corps of reporters from all over the land have been hedging on their predictions, Louis has polled a substantial plurality among the forecasts. His popularity is attributable to his punching power. Louis gave indications in his drills at Kenosha that he still is right hand shy, but apparently the rank and file of observers believe he will hit Braddock early enough and hard enough to take the sting from the champion's gloves. No boxer, not even Dempsey, compiled a more impressive knockout record than has the Brown Bomber of Chicago's Golden Gloves. He has won 28 of his 34 fights by knockouts and has earned five decisions. Schmeling is the only man who has whipped him.

Braddock, whose last appearance in Chicago three years ago was as a preliminary fighter, has had 82 bouts with only 2[illegible] knockouts to his credit. He has been beaten twenty times, but never has been counted out.

There's one thing about Braddock that most of the boys seem to overlook. He can box. He's a fairly deft scratcher with either glove. And he bobs and weaves and he ducks and he sidesteps. The trouble with Jimmy is that he can't seem to drill 'em dead. Louis had a lot of trouble winning his last important fight from Bob Pastor. Braddock certainly will be a tougher foe than Pastor. He's more experienced and he's braver. A few busts on the jaw will not discourage him. He has some qualities Louis lacks, including a confidence that is wholly genuine.

Tonight Will Tell.

Whether Braddock is as good or better than the night he wrested the title from the shell of Max Baer, your correspondent knoweth not, for he hasn't put on a glove seriously since then. That means two years. Whether this 24 month armistice has benefited him, as his manager, Joe Gould, claims, or has penalized him, as many contend, no one can really know.

No matter what is the result of tonight's battle, there will be no tears shed for the loser. You can't feel sorry for a fellow who has just made $100,000 or more for a few minutes' work.

I Will Knock Him Out; He's Not a Terror—Braddock

BY JAMES J. BRADDOCK.
[Heavyweight Champion of the World.]

I will retain my title by a knockout within eight rounds. Joe Louis is a great fighter and a worthy opponent and I expect one of the hardest fights of my career. However, I am confident that I will still be heavyweight champion of the world after tonight.

Thanks to Manager Joe Gould and Trainer Doc Robb, who have trained me wisely and carefully, I am in the greatest condition of my career. My legs are strong and my eyes sharp, and, as for my ability to punch, I'll let my performance against Louis speak for itself.

I have never been afraid of any fighter I faced, and certainly Louis holds no terrors for me. I will fight him every step of the way, and, if I am defeated, it will not be through fear. I will not quit. It will take a clean knockout to keep me down for the count, but I can say truthfully I am not afraid of anything like that happening. There will be a knockout tonight, but it will be Louis, not I, who will be counted out.

Pitcher Allen's Condition Good After Appendectomy

Boston, Mass., June 21.—(AP)—Pitcher Johnny Allen of the Cleveland Indians spent a "very comfortable day" in Boston's Palmer memorial hospital today after an operation for acute appendicitis last night. Dr. Irving J. Walker described Allen's condition as good. He will be confined to the hospital for eleven or twelve days, Dr. Walker said.

ARRANGE WORLD BROADCAST OF BOUT FOR TITLE

Short Wave to Transmit Ringside Account.

The whole world, if it cares to listen, will know the result of tonight's Jim Braddock-Joe Louis heavyweight championship fight at the instant the referee raises the victor's right fist. The National Broadcasting company will broadcast a running story of the battle through an American network of 120 stations while, through the magic of short wave, the same account is relayed to Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, and South America. Clem McCarthy will be at the microphone, aided for the benefit of foreign listeners, by Spanish speaking announcers.

All airlines entering Chicago reported capacity traffic yesterday. United is running "specials" from both New York and California. One will leave for the east coast and two for the west early tomorrow morning. All are fully booked. American will operate four special flights to Detroit and New York for homebound fight fans late tonight.

Transcontinental and Western Air Lines will fly three special planes out of Chicago tonight, two to New York and one to Kansas City. The planes will leave as soon after the bout as passengers can get from Comiskey park to the airport. The New York flight will be made in 3 hours and 55 minutes.

Among the prominent out of town fans quartered at the Morrison hotel in addition to Joe Gould, Braddock's manager, are Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling; Mrs. Braddock, Edward B. [Slip] Madigan, football coach at St. Mary's college; L. A. Wentz, prominent oil man from Ponca City, Okla., and C. H. Strickland of New York, telegraph company executive.

Joe Gould has announced that J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, will be his guest at the fight.

Seven preliminary bouts definitely are scheduled for the championship show with an eighth ready to go on if time and the weather permit. The card includes the following six-round heavyweight matches: Abe Feldman, New York, vs. Hans Haverlich, Austria; Nathan Mann, New Haven, Conn., vs. Charley Massera, Pittsburgh; Jorge Brescia, Argentina, vs. Harry Thomas, Chicago; and Arturo Godoy, Chile, vs. Tony Galento, Newark, N. J.

The largest wager reported was one at $1,600 to $1,000 on Louis.

In the political division were Postmaster James A. Farley, Attorney General Homer Cummings, and Govs. Bayley of Arkansas, Murphy of Michigan, Leche of Louisiana, Townsend of Indiana, Davey of Ohio, Horner of Illinois, Hurley of Massachusetts, Marland of Oklahoma, La Follette of Wisconsin, and Langer of North Dakota. Some sixty legislators decided to halt the law mill at Springfield and sit in on the combat.

Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, who figured in a long count at the box office and in the arena at Soldiers' field ten years ago, led boxing's delegation to the current war front. Behind them came Billy Petrolle, Lew Tendler, Barney Ross, Mike and Tommy Gibbons, and John Henry Lewis.

Charley Harvey, veteran manager, who piloted Tom Heeney into a title bout with Gene Tunney in 1928, will come in from New York today.

Attorneys for Howard West, Safford, Ariz., promoter, filed a suit against Louis and his manager, John Roxoborough, in the Superior court yesterday in an attempt to collect a $1,271.40 judgment rendered against the challenger in Arizona courts for failure to keep an exhibition engagement in May. Louis declined to keep the date at Safford last May when it was found there was no arrangement to heat his private pullman.

The Madison Square garden trophy, which was won by Braddock when he dethroned Max Baer two years ago, is reputed to be worth $12,000. The diamond studded belt, which is on display in a loop store, will not pass out of the hands of Braddock if he loses to Louis.

Autograph hunters were spurred by reports George Raft, Clark Gable, and Robert Montgomery had slipped into town and that Douglas Fairbanks and his wife, the former Lady Ashley, were flying in today.

The first of the various boxing commission heads to reach the loop was Tris Speaker, former Cleveland baseball leader. Tris now is chairman of the Cleveland athletic board. Also represented will be members of commissions from Louisiana, Rhode Island, South Dakota, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Florida, California, Missouri, Washington, and District of Columbia. Dr. William McClelland will represent Pennsylvania, Ernest Brown the District of Columbia, Jack Ahearn, Minnesota, and George H. Payne, California. President Edward Foster will be here to represent the National Boxing association.

I Will Knock Him Out, Maybe in the 1st Round—Louis

BY JOE LOUIS.
[Heavyweight Challenger.]

Kenosha, Wis., June 21.—I am fit, ready and confident for Braddock and will win the heavyweight championship of the world. I intend to fight as I always have, moving in and taking charge of the battle.

Many experts say I haven't looked so good during my training, but I am satisfied that my drilling has conditioned me perfectly to meet a fighter of Braddock's style.

This time I do not care to name the round. It may be anywhere from the first to the 15th, and I hope it's the first. After the fight I am going to take a brief rest and then go to Pompton Lakes to get ready for a return bout against Max Schmeling.

OUTSIDERS TRIED TO CONVINCE ME THE PUBLIC WOULD NEVER KNOW
the difference between beer made with machine-age methods and the old-time, slow-made brew
By RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster

But they changed their minds when they tasted BEER brewed without SUGARS or SYRUPS
I can get full sparkle and foam with natural draft beer carbonation

In regular or steinie bottles, in cans marked KEG-LINED*, in ½ gallon or ¼ gallon "Hospitality Size," or on draft.
*Trade-mark of The American Can Company

I've been told I'm 45 years behind the times—that it's extravagant today to make MEISTER BRÄU the way we did in 1891. Well, I prefer the old, slow method. Even if it does cost more. And here's why.

Some folks today still remember the old-time brew. And wonder why good beer is so hard to get nowadays.

I think the short cuts of near-beer days have a lot to do with it.

Some beers are too sweet. That's from adding sugar and syrups to save time in brewing.

Some beers are bitter. Usually that's from using an inferior grade of Hops. It makes the beer raw.

We pay above the usual price to get the finest Malt and Hops. We clean them carefully before boiling. This removes the chaff—so we don't have to boil and boil until the life is boiled out of the beer.

Thus we get the full high foam and sparkle with natural draft beer carbonation created in the beer itself. That's why MEISTER BRÄU has the true draft beer flavor.

I know you'll find a real difference in MEISTER BRÄU Beer, made the old, slow way. It's now obtainable in this vicinity in bottles or cans. But to be sure of getting beer made this way ask for MEISTER BRÄU. You'll give thanks for a bottled beer made like draft beer.

They'll Try to Beat A's with Stratton Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—A day of rest even in Philadelphia was acceptable to the White Sox today. They've been kicked around so much lately that any kind of leisure is satisfactory, with no questions asked as to where the loafing must be done.

All that our recently gay warriors have accomplished since their amazing home stay is one victory in seven games. But while they have had trouble in quantities on the ball field they are not troubled trying to figure out the cause of the sudden decline. It is plainly a collapse of their attack and when fellows who pride themselves on their hitting ability go into a slump the mental strain is so severe they become doubly helpless. And the worry slows down the process of recovery.

Right Where It Hurts.

The slump is right in the center portion of the batting order, and that's what hurts. Zeke Bonura, who had been driving in runs at a great rate, has produced only three hits in thirty times at bat in the last eight Luke Appling has been at bat twenty-seven times for a yield of six hits. That's a .222 average, which isn't much for a fellow who topped the majors with .388 last season. During this same stretch Dixie Walker has slowed down so much that he has picked up only six hits in thirty attempts.

If the bats resume playing pleasing music in the opener against the Mackmen tomorrow everything will be forgiven for the time being, but if hits are scarce there probably will be some alterations for the following day. Appling and Bonura, of course, can't be removed because there are no suitable subs, but Walker may be given a rest and Dykes may return to third with Piet moving over to second, vice Jack Hayes.

Stratton Seeks Revenge.

Monty Stratton, the boy wonder of the Sox staf, will work in tomorrow's opener and the Texas Gander will endeavor to make the Macks pay for their good fortune against him in two previous games.

A few days ago Manager Dykes was on the verge of turning Vernon Kennedy loose in the bullpen and letting him finish games until he showed he had recovered control. Now Dykes thinks it might be a good idea to give him another start in the second game here. Kennedy, who won twenty-one decisions last season, has pitched only five complete games out of eleven so far and one of his complete performances resulted in a loss.

day's off day in St. Louis, announced before he left that Clyde Shoun would start today. Clyde was the winning pitcher in each of the three games the Cubs have won from the Giants in six played. Shoun pitched the ninth inning Sunday and easily retired the side in order, but is ready to accept the assignment today.

It's Hubbell's Turn.

Lovable Bill Terry, manager of the third place defending champions, still is refusing to coöperate with press, radio and the folks who lay it on the line by revealing his starting pitchers. It is Carl Hubbell's turn to start, however. The great Carl has been having an awful time since he ended his phenomenal winning streak more than three weeks ago, but is said to be eager to get back on the winning road, since nothing definite ails him. Known as "Terry's meal ticket," it behooves the Giants' skipper to get Carl going again. And quick.

Washington Is Favorite in Regatta Today

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21.—[Special.]—There is an unusual quiet and calm along the Hudson today as the crews that will compete in the races of tomorrow's intercollegiate regatta await the starter's gun.

Washington has become intrenched as a favorite, despite the feeling among rowing men that the big Navy crew should rate on even terms with the winners of last year's intercollegiate and Olympic championships. California is the third in the field which includes Wisconsin, Cornell, Syracuse, and Columbia.

Navy Is Husky.

But it will take more than Washington's prestige as Olympic champions to turn back what appears to be the most powerful varsity crew Navy has sent to Poughkeepsie since it won in 1931. The Middies have swept through the season without a defeat and have beaten Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Cornell, and Syracuse, every major crew in the east, in fact, with the exception of Yale.

If any crew can break the domination of the far west, a reign that began when California won in 1932, it appears to be the midshipmen.

The Navy boat, man for man, is every bit as husky as the giants from Washington, and although they have not been rowing together as long, they are, nevertheless, one of the smoothest crews on the river. Their average weight is in excess of 180 pounds.

Huskies Change Coxswains.

Washington will defend its title with exactly the same crew it sent forth last year. There is a new coxswain, however. Earl Schenck was shifted to the varsity boat day before yesterday, following the dead heat the Jayvees rowed with the varsity. Schenck displaced John Rosenkranz, who had held the varsity berth all season.

The Huskies, timed in 5 minutes 28 seconds, won by a second from California, with Navy third in 5:40, and Cornell trailing, 5 seconds back of Navy. The Cornell entry was a four-oared boat without cox.

The race was held after the American Rowing Coaches association, in its annual meeting, elected Jim Ten Eyck of Syracuse, president to suc- Al Ulbrickson of Washington was named secretary-treasurer, succeeding Buck Walsh of Navy.

SEEDED PLAYERS LOSE AS COLLEGE NET MEET OPENS

Haverford, Pa., June 21.—(AP)—Two seeded players were defeated in the opening day's play in the 53d annual national intercollegiate lawn tennis tournament at the Merion Cricket club today.

George Dunn, University of Pennsylvania, seeded No. 7, was eliminated by Robert Madden of the University of Pittsburgh, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, and Owen Anderson, University of California at Los Angeles, runner-up in the Pacific coast intercollegiates, seeded No. 8, lost to Howard Stephens, Yale, 6-3, 6-3.

Play 98 Matches.

Players engaged in a total of 98 matches and the record breaking field of 132 players was reduced to 33 survivors for the fourth round of competition tomorrow. Ernie Sutter defending champion from Tulane, advanced with a pair of victories. He defeated Jack Finley, Haverford college, 6-4, 6-2, and brushed aside Martin Goldman, Temple university southpaw, 7-5, 6-2.

Three players from Northwestern university and one from the University of Chicago reached the fourth round of singles play. The Ball Brothers, George and Russell, of Northwestern won their third round matches from Herbert Abrams, N. Y. U., and Jack Hall of Southern California, respectively, George triumphing, 6-1, 6-3, and Russell, 8-6, 6-3.

Rugg Beats Ramsey.

The other Northwestern player to reach the fourth round was Dick Rugg, who defeated Bill Ramsey of Duke, 6-2, 6-4. Marvin Wachman, another Purple entry, lost in the third round, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, to Mulloy of Miami.

William Murphy remained the lone Maroon in the singles running when his twin brother, Chester, and Norman Bickel were eliminated, the former in the third round by Franklin of Texas, and Bickel in the first round by Gus Genzenmuller of Columbia. Bill Murphy whipped Ames Schoniger of Niagara, 6-0, 6-2, in his third round engagement.

McMillen and Bruns Wrestle 90 Minute Draw

Jim McMillen and Bobby Bruns wrestled to a ninety minute draw last night at the White City arena. Lem Stecklin and Bert Rubi also drew in the thirty minute semi-windup. In other matches Rudy Kay tossed Jack Curtis in 22:03, Al Perry threw Jack Kogut, 16:53, and Knute Franklin pinned Eddie Schoen in 24:17.

Six Americans Pass 1st Test at Wimbledon

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, June 21.—Six Americans advanced to the second round of the All-England tennis tournament today and three were beaten.

This Trio Was Unlucky.

The three who were eliminated were Wilmer Robertson of San Marino, Cal.; Larry Hall of San Jose, Cal., and Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Jack Crawford of Australia, who won the tournament in 1933, but who was not seeded this year, defeated Roderich Menzel of Czechoslovakia, seeded No. 6. The match went two hours before the Australian emerged with a 6-4, 7-9, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 victory.

Budge, who is seeded No. 1, had no trouble eliminating Norman G. Farquharson, South African Davis cup player, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1. Grant, troubled by a cold, conserved his energy as much as possible while beating J. M. Hunt of England, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. Parker whipped J. H. Ho of China, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

Mako Defeats Jamain.

Mako beat Jacques Jamain of France, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3; Sabin beat R. J. Ritchie of England, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, and Surface beat S. Martensen of Sweden, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1.

TERRY SAYS CUBS ARE GIANTS' ONLY PENNANT THREAT

Memphis, Tenn., June 21.—(AP)—Bill Terry slipped into town today for a brief visit and left behind him the prediction his New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs will fight it out for the National league pennant.

Terry was quite confident the Giants would repeat last year's triumph if they could conquer the Cubs.

"Chicago's the only club we have to worry about," Terry said. "The Pirates don't bother us and although the Cardinals give us a battle, the other clubs take care of them. Now with the Cubs—it's different.

"All we need is some hitting to get in there. The pitchers are going good and we're getting topnotch fielding. But we aren't hitting. Lou Chiozza and Mel Ott will have to pick up a lot. We've had them out in batting practice in the mornings and Chiozza, particularly, is picking up, but they'll have to hit hard to help us."

Senate Gets Bill Asking Sunday Racing in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Sunday horse racing in Illinois was brought into the range of possibilities tonight by a bill introduced in the state senate by James O. Monroe [D., Collinsville]. It provides that if a trac kincludes Sundays in its application for racing it shall drop some other day of the week, and makes it mandatory that the racing commission grant the Sunday privilege.

RIGGS CAPTURES 2D STRAIGHT CLAY COURTS CROWN

Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles won his second consecutive National Clay court tennis championship by defeating Joe Hunt, a fellow Californian, in a four set match at the River Forest Tennis club yesterday. The scores were 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In winning his second straight championship, the 19 year old coast star, ranked fourth nationally, joined two other players who have accomplished this feat. Bill Tilden was unbeatable from 1922 through 1927, and Bryan M. Grant finished on top in 1934 and 1935.

BOURBON KING WINS TRIAL FOR $40,000 FUTURITY

Holds Five Length Margin Over Hermana.

Bourbon King, racing straight and true, defeated three other Futurity candidates and four who are not eligible for the $40,000 closing day feature. He did it with such ease that most of the regulars on hand decided they would follow Bourbon King right on through his 2 year old stake engagements.

Yesterday's early races were run over a muddy track, but by the fourth race, when Bourbon King came out, the track had dried out so much it was labeled slow.

Built Along Whopper's Lines.

As Bourbon King made his Chicago debut, a handsome $18,000 colt, Farrell, was making his first start for Mrs. Ethel V. Mars. The well backed Teddy Weed carried Warren Wright's colors, and the entry of Hermana and Diavolo Boy came out for the Valdina Farms and was made the slight choice. Alup, Employer, and Balufuss completed the field.

Bourbon King, a son of Which One-Ancient Queen, built along the lines of Mr. Headley's giant Whopper, attracted so much attention in the parade to the post that he was promptly bet down to almost three to one. When the race started he attracted even more attention.

Hermana, on the rail, was off fastest but Lester Balaski, astride the big Headley colt, moved up easily to assume the lead before they had gone more than a few yards. Hermana was second and Blaufuss third with Farrell racing well until caught in a jam as they went into the turn. Farrell was not pushed thereafter and finished last.

Wins by Five Lengths.

Bourbon King was galloping along nicely as they turned for home and it was only Hermana to beat as they came down the stretch. Jocky Balaski hardly had to shake up the colt as they coasted along with a five length lead to win by just that margin. Hermana was two and a half lengths in front of Blaufuss, which managed to beat out Teddy Weed by a head. Diavolo Boy and Teddy Weed both finished strongly. Bourbon King's time was 1:07.

Bourbon King is expected to be accompanied by a running mate, Menow, in the Futurity. He may be expected now to be one of the choices along with the Milky Way entry of Mountain Ridge and Farrell. In his two previous starts in the east Bourbon King was beaten by C. V. Whitney's The Chief.

The second dead heat of the meeting resulted in the first event when the favorite, Dark Wonder, ended up even with the outsider, Rommy. When Petty Taw won the second a split daily double resulted with tickets starting on Rommy worth $100.40 and tickets on Dark Wonder worth $12.

Charley Kurtsinger and Charley Corbett returned to Washington Park yesterday afternoon after riding at Detroit on Saturday.

Dawn Play, American Derby winner, still is at the south side track, but plans have been made to ship her back to Belmont Park tomorrow. The big filly's next engagement has not yet been decided upon, but it may be the Latonia Oaks.

WHITE BOY GIVES ZUNIS HARD RUN IN STICK RACE

Zuni, N. M., June 21.—(AP)—Zuni Indian youths held intact today their supremacy in the tribe's arduous 10 mile stick race, but it was over the grit of Ernie Vanderwagen, 10 year old white boy, that the old braves chuckled.

Ernie, first white entry ever to threaten in the race, ran the last mile with two of his bare toes split and bleeding from a stumble on sharp rocks just as he appeared the winner. Even so, he finished on the heels of his Indian playmates. Vanderwagen is the first white boy to live in the village that Coronado conquered in 1540.

The race is run barefooted. Each side has a small stick which is half kicked, half flung with the bare toes as the runners jog over the rock and cactus strewn flat at the foot of Thunder mountain.

*Dead heat. Time, :24 4-5, :49 1-5, 1:01 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Rommy, $7.80 straight, $11.40 place, $5.20 show; Dark Wonder, $3.20 straight, $3.20 place, $2.80 show; Delovley, $3.60 show. Winner trained by C. E. Durnell and owner.

ROMMY, unlucky and probably much the best, was eased back when in close quarters while racing on inside soon after reaching the turn, swung to outside after three-eighths and, after racing to DARK WONDER, fought it out gamely while being carried out the final eighth, which probably prevented him from getting up. DARK WONDER, brought over rather sharply soon after the start, held sway easily to the final three-sixteenths and but for forcing ROMMY wide the final eighth might not have gained a dead heat, though she held on well.

SECOND RACE—Three-quarters of a mile. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $675; second, $125; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Time, :24 1-5, :48 3-5, 1:15. Two dollar mutuels paid: Petty Taw, $11.00 straight, $5.80 place, $4.20 show; Zorana, $7.80 place, $5.00 show; Technocracy, $4.00 show. Daily double paid Rommy and Petty Taw $100.40; Dark Wonder and Petty Taw, $12.00. Winner trained by P. Reilly. Went to post at 2:52. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

PETTY TAW, hustled into command, continued with good speed under a snug hold on the turn, was shaken up soon after reaching the stretch and weakening badly in the final eighth, won under pressure. ZORANA had speed from the start and holding on well was slowly wearing down the winner. TECHNOCRACY, under stout restraint for about three-eighths and mildly shaken up on the stretch turn, was inclined to swerve to the inside while racing evenly through the final quarter.

THIRD RACE—Three-quarters of a mile. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $675; second, $125; third, $75; fourth, $25.

TERPSICHORE, raced wide, began to move up fast after reaching the turn, easily disposed of MAIDEN DREAM and won with something in reserve. Latter rated under stout restraint for about three-eighths, took command quickly and continued with good courage to the last eighth, where she weakened. BOHEMIAN LASS, under mild pressure on the turn and strongly persevered within the stretch, outstayed FESTOON, though she also weakened in the late stages.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. The Jack Dempsey. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $675; second, $125; third, $75; fourth, $25.

*Valdina Farm entry. Time, :23 3-5, :47 4-5, 1:00, 1:07. Two dollar mutuels paid: Bourbon King, $8.60 straight, $5.20 place, $3.80 show; Hermana, $3.40 place, $2.60 show; Blaufuss, $9.20 show. Winner trained by D. A. Headley. Went to post at 3:49.

BOURBON KING, obviously a colt of much quality, raced into command gradually, but without need of strong urging, quickly increased his advantage after reaching the last five-sixteenths and, taken in hand in the final eighth, won with speed in reserve. HERMANA was under vigorous riding from the start and held on well in a fine performance. BLAUFUSS, well up from the start, lost much ground on the stretch turn, swerved badly in the stretch and otherwise might have been a stronger factor as he held on well.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $675; second, $125; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 3-5, :47, 1:13 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Four Eleven, $4.60 straight, $2.80 place, $2.40 show; Alice G, $2.80 place, $2.80 show; Moon Harvest, $3.00 show. Winner trained by F. J. Kearns. Went to post at 4:17½. At post 1 minute.

FOUR ELEVEN, outrun her company from the start, drew into a long lead on the stretch turn and was only mildly shaken up to hold ALICE G safe in the late stages. Latter under steady restraint for a half mile, offered good response when called upon but could not get to the leader. MOON HARVEST, raced wide and receiving a hustling ride, came again mildly after dropping back soon after reaching the stretch but weakened near the end and barely outstayed VIRGINIA J.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Four year olds and up. Allowance. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 4-5, :47 4-5, 1:40, 1:44. Two dollar mutuels paid: Sir Quest, $20.00 straight, $6.00 place, $3.60 show; Boston Pal, $2.80 place, $2.40 show; Bon Centime, $3.40 show. Winner trained by F. Gilpin. Went to post at 4:47. At post ½ minute.

SIR QUEST made the early pace under restraint, continued willingly when under vigorous urging after about seven-eighths and stalled off BOSTON PAL. Latter forced to race wide throughout, was reserved off the pace, faltered momentarily after being bumped by BEL ESPOIR when entering the final eighth and, finishing fast following a slow recovery, was wearing down the winner. BON CENTIME, well up from the start, was eased back when in close quarters on the stretch turn and was slow to respond when clear, but finished boldly on the outside.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Three year olds. Claiming. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $675; second, $125; third, $75; fourth, $25.

COSETTE, benefited by the soft track, began to better her position after three-eighths, took command in the final eighth and was drawing out rapidly at the end. SILVER BRAID, under mild reserve for a half mile, continued courageously under strong pressure thereafter, but was no match for the winner. DAY DAWN, badly outrun for a half mile and raced wide, closed with fair belated speed.

EIGHTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $900. Net value to winner, $675; second, $125; third, $75; fourth, $25.

SUN ASIA, well up from the start and taken out after about three-eighths, was under strong restraint for three-quarters, loafed after getting to the front and losing the lead in the final seventy yards, came again. LAME DUCK, saving ground throughout and also a factor from the start, held on well after racing into command but could not withstand the winner, though regaining the lead briefly in the last seventy yards. WATERCURE was under pressure the final quarter and held on fairly well.

Sixteen Hertz Horses to Run at Arlington

Sixteen horses, the pride of Mrs. John Hertz's Leona farm, will be raced under the yellow and black colors of the wife of the Arlington Park executive board chairman during the north side meeting which opens next Monday.

Directed by Lon Johnson, veteran trainer, and Frank Hackett, old time horseman who is manager of the Hertz racing interests, this powerful stable expects to play an important rôle throughout the thirty days at the home course.

Count Arthur Heads Stable.

King of the Hertz establishment is Count Arthur, a 5 year old son of Reigh Count out of Abbatissa, which was a triple stake winner in 1936. Count Arthur won the Jocky Club Gold cup at Belmont Park, the Champlain handicap at Saratoga, and the Continental handicap at Jamaica. He finished second in his five other stake tests during the season.

Also included in the Hertz string are the 5 year old Our Reigh; the 3 year olds Count Atlas, Count Seven, and Count Edward, and the 2 year olds The Boxer, Chance Star, Gypsy Minstrel, Count Cary, Dancing Reigh, Reigh Bengal, Reigh Risk, and Reigh Esteria.

Bomar Horses to Run.

Another representative establishment is Markey and Bohn's Bomar stable, the ranking racing stable in the Detroit sector, which will ship to Arlington soon. Twelve Bomar horses now at Washington Park will be vanned over before the opening of the north side meeting, and a like number will be shipped from Detroit to bolster the Bomar forces.

Among the Bomar horses which will race here are Grand Slam, Yellow Tulip, Billy Bee, Sweet Desire, Frisco Kid, Late Day, Biscayne Blue, Siam, Mary Keen, Little Shaver, Noble Boy, Gold Band, Bomar Cosette, and eleven 2 year olds.

Sweep Tickets Reported.

Information has reached Arlington Park officials that the midwest is being flooded with sweepstakes tickets on the $30,000 Classic stakes and the evidence has been turned over to the jocky club's attorneys. General Manager Roy Carruthers states that if the attorneys advise that there are grounds for prosecution the United States postal authorities will be requested to investigate.

THREE GAMES ON WINDY CITY CARD TONIGHT

The Windy City Softball league has three games scheduled tonight at the new St. Philip stadium, Kedzie avenue and Van Buren street. In the opening men's game the Adducis will battle the Cialdinis of the west side. The Cialdinis have been strengthened by the acquisition of Vito Yario, a star softball pitcher. In the other league game the Winkler Motors will meet the Connellys. The Rival Girls will play the Montgomerys in an opening game.

Disabled Veterans Open Codeball Season Today

The disabled veterans of the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital will open their sixth codeball season tomorrow afternoon with a tournament starting at 1:30 o'clock. For five years men in the hospital have indulged in this sport. Dr. William E. Code, founder of the game, will have charge of the tournament and has arranged a list of prizes.

ANGLER LEARNS WALL-EYES STICK TO TIME TABLE

Checkup Shows They Bite Just When Scheduled.

BY BOB BECKER.

Black bass, pike and muskie fishermen swarmed through the north country last week-end to try their luck with various kinds of lures. Fishing was spotty for many of these anglers who had gone north to open the Wisconsin bass season last Sunday. There were times during the week-end when the fish would hit with plenty of zip. Then would come the dull hours when lures held very little attraction for the finny tribes.

On our trip to lakes in the big woods near the Flambeau river the river muskies were hitting well, although in some of the lakes nearby the fishing was rather slow. We found that the wall-eyes kept to their schedule pretty well by hitting for a short period several times during the day. The rest of the time they loafed and so did the fishermen! But while they were hitting the fun was fast and furious.

Checks Against Tide Tables.

On this trip we again checked the striking periods of the fish against the tide tables which are supposed to give one an idea of the times when game fish are most likely to hit a lure. For three days the habits of the fish were accurately foretold by the tables. For example, we were on Long lake west of Fifield the other afternoon. It was a bright sunshiny day with a stiff breeze. From about 2 to 3:30 o'clock the fishing was slow. We were working a big rock bar. There wasn't much doing for our tubular steel fly rod and our lures.

At 3:50 o'clock a wall-eye started the ball rolling. This one weighed around 2 or 2½ pounds. According to the table giving the probable feeding periods of fish they should have started about five minutes to four. So the system seemed to be working. Within a few minutes of this first strike we hooked another wall-eye. Then Charley, our guide, sang out for help. He was dangling a minnow in the water. It was only five or six feet beneath the bottom of the boat, but a 3¼ pounder had barged up from the depths and grabbed that minnow. Holding the boat in the wind was such a job that he asked for help, so we grabbed his rod and landed this wall-eye. Then we nailed another, but lost him.

Keep Busy for Half an Hour.

For about 30 minutes the fish kept us busy. It was a lot of fun. Then the wall-eyes retired to their cool spots on the rock bar and all was quiet. The party was over for the wall-eyes and the fishermen.

REX MAYS SETS NEW ROOSEVELT TRACK RECORD

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Rex Mays of Los Angeles today gave the rebuilt Roosevelt raceway its first official test in preparation for the George Vanderbilt cup race July 3 and broke the track record for one lap. On a wet track, Mays traveled a 3⅓ mile lap in 2 minutes 30 seconds to average 80 miles per hour. The former record, set in the 1936 race, when the track had more and flatter curves, was 69.939 miles per hour, made by Tazio Nuvolari of Italy.

"May the better man win" say true sportsmen tonight
As they watch the tide of battle ebb and flow.
Just as Wood-Stock on its merit wins decisions

Drink it straight or drink it in your favored mixture

"Goods" without which men . . . and whiskey don't go far.

Urge Control of Securities Committees

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Urging the need for eliminating conflicting interests within a committee, the Securities and Exchange commission today sent to congress the second part of its report on activities, personnel, and functions of protective and reorganization committees representing security holders of corporations in financial difficulties.

W. O. Douglas.

Commissioner William O. Douglas who directed the study, said the report can be summarized by saying that it recommends application of the "simple and ancient idea that no man can serve two masters."

Indorses Lea Bill.

The SEC report forms an indorsement of the Lea bill now pending in congress to regulate such committees and prevent their being dominated by the management, bankers, or lawyers of the corporation involved.

The report recommends that no person be permitted to seek proxies or deposits of securities when he owns or represents securities, claims, or interests which conflict materially with the interests of the security holders to be solicited.

It recommends that no one committee or group be permitted to solicit proxies or deposits from more than one class of security holders unless it is necessary in the public interest for protection of investors.

Neither would it allow soliciting by other than beneficial owners or representatives of beneficial owners of the securities being solicited.

Suggest Many Limitations.

Underwriters of any outstanding securities or persons who have been associated with such underwriters within a reasonable period preceding membership on a committee would be disqualified from seeking proxies or deposits of securities.

With the exception of municipalities and possibly foreign governments, the issuer of the securities would be forbidden to seek proxies. Similarly a person who had been associated with the company within a reasonable period preceding membership on the committee would be disqualified.

FDIC REPORTS 2,000 BANKS NEED MORE CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—Federal Deposit Insurance corporation officials reported today a survey has shown that between 2,000 and 3,000 of the 14,000 insured banks have less capital than that deemed desirable by the FDIC. These officials emphasized this did not indicate the banks were unsound, but said it probably would be desirable for them to increase capital as insurance against possible adverse conditions.

New Illinois Oil Well Runs 2,000 Barrels a Day

Olney, Ill., June 21.—(AP)—Pure Oil company officials said today the Sarah Bechtel well near Clay City, which came in early Sunday, was producing about 2,000 barrels a day. The well was drilled as an offset to the nearby Bunny Travis well, which came in about a month ago with a 3,000 barrel daily production and now is producing steadily at 1,400 barrels a day. Pure Oil officials said the Brach well near Cisne, which came in Saturday, was producing about 100 barrels a day.

BUSINESS CHANCES FOR YOUTH BEST IN HISTORY, SAYS CABELL

More opportunities are available in America today for young persons starting out in business than at any time in the nation's history, R. H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co., yesterday told a luncheon meeting of the Junior Association of Commerce at the Central Y. M. C. A.

"The incompetent and the dispenser of gloom may say "the land has been settled, the railroads built, industry organized; there is nothing left for a young man to do except become a cog in the machine,'" Cabell said. "That is not a correct or fair statement. What has been accomplished in the last hundred years is only the beginning of what a man with imagination can expect."

ASSERTS RATE BOOST WILL AID RAILROAD RIVALS

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—Representatives of the oil industry told the Interstate Commerce commission today that increased railroad freight rates would mean less railroad freight business.

James F. Lawrence, representing Southwestern Oil Refiners, and Harry S. Elkins, of the Western Petroleum Refiners association, said proposed higher charges would divert traffic to the railroads' competitors. They appeared at the commission's hearing on the class 1 railroads proposal to increase rates on heavy commodities, including oil.

"The already too high rates are driving trafic from the rails," Lawrence said. "If this proposed new increase is permitted still more will be driven to pipe lines and to truck, and other competition."

Railroad rates on anthracite coal from the fields to New York harbor are "unjust and unreasonable," forty anthracite coal companies charged.

CENT. NATIONAL BANK CAPITAL BOOST APPROVED

The Central National Bank in Chicago has been authorized by the controler of the currency to increase its capital stock from $200,000 to $300,000, Carl Kuehnle, president, announced yesterday. He said that the new stock is all subscribed and paid in, and that the bank's capital, surplus and undivided profits now amount to $450,000.

"The increased capitalization was desired," he said, "in order to keep the bank's capital in line with deposits which have been increasing rapidly."

The bank opened for business on Oct. 15, 1936, with deposits of $300,000, which since have increased to more than $5,000,000.

Canadian Liquor Exports Drop Sharply During May

Canadian exports of alcoholic beverages, chiefly whisky, during May were valued at $1,685,000, compared with $2,098,000 in May, 1936, the dominion bureau of statistics reported yesterday.

Retailers Act to Improve Trade Position

A voluntary platform aimed at promoting better relations with customers, employés and manufacturers was made public yesterday by Channing E. Sweitzer, managing director of the National Retail Dry Goods association, at the midyear convention of the organization at the Palmer house.

The platform will represent the basis of policies of nearly 5,800 department, dry goods and specialty stores in the United States for which the association speaks.

Described as the backbone of the program is the development of a universal dictionary of terms to be used in describing merchandise with regards to grades, construction, finish, and wearing quality. The purpose is to furnish the shopper with information on which he can tell whether the merchandise offered is what he wants and will do the things he expects of it.

Extension of Program.

The platform calls for further extension of a long term program for the creation of merchandise standards in staple and semi-staple goods so that the consumer may be protected and waste in the industry eliminated. An extensive practical program of informative labeling of merchandise is another plank.

The platform calls for a constructive program of factual merchandise publicity "which will go far toward eliminating representations in regard to merchandise which are exaggerated, misleading, inaccurate or inadequate. This applies to advertising, labels, signs and statements of sales clerks."

Opposes Price Fixing.

The platform recognizes the desirability of legislation establishing minimum hours of work and reasonable minimum wages for women and minors. It reiterates the association's long standing opposition to price fixing in any form and opposes secret rebates. It also opposes child labor under 16 years of age. In condemning sweat shop conditions, the platform proposes to establish an impartial independent body to ascertain facts in any given case.

The platform was drawn by a commission of 49 leading merchants representing stores of various types and sizes throughout the country.

An opinion that the Black-Connery bill to regulate hours and wages will not apply to the retail industry as a whole was expressed by Irving Fox, counsel for the association. He said retailing generally is a local matter and beyond federal regulation.

Expects Retailing Exemption.

Fox termed "ridiculous" a view that retailing would be included on the theory that intrastate commerce is subject to federal regulation and legislation when it competes with interstate commerce.

"I do not believe that the sovereignty of the states is to be completely eliminated and I do not believe that the federal government intends to assume jurisdiction over such a strictly local occupation as retailers," said Fox.

HOUSE PASSES RAIL PENSION BILL, 360 TO 1

Workers and Roads Back Proposal.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—The house voted 360 to 1 today to establish a new government supervised pension system for approximately 1,200,000 railroad employés. It approved the Wagner-Crosser bill which was worked out by representatives of railroad management and labor to replace the existing rail pension law.

Robert Crosser.
[Acme Photo.]

Representative Robert Crosser [D., O.] announced that railroads which attacked the present statute in court have agreed with workers' representatives not to contest legality of the new legislation. Only representative J. J. O'Connell [D., Mont.] was recorded against the measure, which now goes to the senate.

Pensions Range to $120.

The bill would provide monthly pensions ranging as high as $120 for retired employés. Labor officials have predicted that its enactment would result in the voluntary retirement of approximately 50,000 workers the first year it is in effect. This, they said, would make room for at least 40,000 new employés in the industry.

Separate legislation providing taxes to pay the pensions was approved today by the house ways and means committee. It would improse levies starting at 2¾ per cent each on workers' wages and the railroads' pay rolls. The tax would increase to 3¾ each by 1949.

The two bills are designed to provide "social security" for railroad workers who were exempt from provisions of the general act bearing that title.

Major Provisions of Act.

Privilege of retiring at 65, or at 60 provided the worker has 30 years' service or is permanently and totally disabled. However, in the latter cases, the pension would be cut one-fifteenth for each year the applicant was under 65.

Retirement at any age for those with at least 30 years' service who have been totally and permanently disabled.

INCOME TAXES EXCEED HALF BILLION MARK

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Income tax collections up to June 20 totaled $504,155,451, the bureau of internal revenue announced today. This is an increase of 69 per cent over the corresponding period last year and brought total collections through June 20 to $2,114,567,915.

This is approximately $260,000,000 below President Roosevelt's original budget estimate. With a few days to go before the end of the fiscal year on June 30, it is expected the collections will show a slightly higher total for the year.

Internal revenue collections for the first eleven months of the 1937 fiscal year amounted to $3,825,712,791, an increase of $783,733,032 over the corresponding period last year, while for May receipts were $281,057,599, an increase of $98,947,815 over May, 1936.

Business Failures Rise Slightly in Last Week

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Business failures in the week ended June 17 totaled 166, compared with 161 in the preceding week and 192 in the same week a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

Stocks Drift Lower; Trade Below Halt Million Shares

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—In the slowest full day's session since March 4, 1935, prices on the stock exchange backed and filled in a narrow range today to close at irregularly lower levels. Some individual issues moved in a wider fractional base, but they were in a minority. Volume of the day was 423,630 shares.

Continued uncertainty regarding the strike situation in the iron and steel industry kept speculative interest at a low ebb in the opinion of many observers. The fall of the Leon Blum cabinet in France was also said to have had a disquieting effect.

Steel Shares Mixed.

Leading steel shares showed a mixed tendency. U. S. Steel common was erratic. It opened lower, stiffened as the session progressed to go 1 point higher, and then declined to close only a small fraction higher. Inland Steel also closed fractionally higher, while others, including Bethlehem, Youngstown, and Republic showed slight deficits.

Rails encountered considerable resistance and on the average turned in a more discouraging performance than the other major divisions. Pennsylvania hardened after an early 1 point drop. Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, Delaware and Hudson, and Southern Railway lost more than a point each. New York Central, Southern Pacific, and Union Pacific lost a fraction each.

Utilities Easier.

Utilities were neglected for the most part and worked lower. Price movements were narrow.

Motor stocks were sold freely. Chrysler, down almost a point early in the day, stiffened a half point. General Motors, the most active issue of the day, was weak throughout, dropping half point. Low priced motors lost fractions.

Oils attracted considerable attention, but mostly of the offering variety, particularly Socony-Vacuum and Pure Oil. Both issues were pushed one-quarter of a point into the minus column. Chemicals held firm, as did mail order issues.

Anaconda and International Nickel were weak spots in the nonferrous metals ground.

GUFFEY-VINSON COAL LAW IS MADE OPERATIVE

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—A code of "fair practice" for the nation's 3,500 soft coal producers went into effect today by order of President Roosevelt. The code, approved by congress in the Guffey-Vinson coal act, provides a 19½ per cent tax on coal of producers who have not signed it and guarantees workers the right to bargain collectively.

The act itself authorizes the National Bituminous Coal commission to set minimum prices and to enforce trade practices. Details of the commission's orders are scheduled to be determined at meetings of its boards in 23 districts, covering 32 states. These meetings start tomorrow.

The commission's first act after receiving President Roosevelt's order making the code effective was to call a hearing here July 12 to determine what producers could claim exemption because their coal affects only intrastate commerce. The commission also decided to give Alaskan producers until Aug. 1 to accept the code.

STEEL PRODUCTION RATE OFF A LITTLE AS STRIKES CONTINUE

Steel operations this week are scheduled at 75.9 per cent of ingot capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This was a decline of .7 of a point from the scheduled rate for last week, largely due to the continuance of the steel strikes.

A month ago the indicated rate was 91 per cent of capacity, and in the corresponding week of 1936 it was 70.2, a gain of .2 of a point over the preceding week. In the like 1935 week the schedule was for 37.7 per cent, off .6 of a point from the preceding week.

There was a sharp drop in the corresponding week of 1934 when the rate went to 44.7, off 11.4 points from the week before. The drop in June and July of that year was due to sharply increased prices going into effect on July 1 resulting in much lower demand for steel.

CROP DAMAGE CAUSES WHEAT PRICES TO SOAR

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.12	$1.07	$0.95⅛
Corn	1.15¼	1.12¾	.65¾
Oats	.40¼	.39¼	.29½
Rye	.86¼	.82⅛	.63⅝
Soy beans	1.21	1.25	......

Wheat prices in Chicago and other North American markets yesterday jumped 5 cents a bushel—the permissable limit for one day—as reports were received from many sources that the winter wheat crop is being damaged by black rust in the eastern sections of Kansas and Nebraska. Crop experts also confirmed the presence of severe infestation in the spring wheat areas in eastern South Dakota and at a few points in North Dakota.

The close of the market in Chicago found prices at the top. Rye futures in northwestern markets also advanced 5 cents a bushel.

Race for Crop.

It has become a race between the reaper and the black rust as to which will secure the wheat crop in some of the more badly infected districts in Kansas, according to trade reports. Some farmers are said to be cutting immature wheat in parts of southeastern Kansas in order to beat the rust.

The prospect of a smaller crop of winter wheat than anticipated and the prospective damage in the northwest brought in heavy and persistent buying of wheat futures by professional traders and also the public and at no time was there any material pressure on the market, although it was estimated that more than 3,000,-

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Bond trading today was the smallest for a full session in more than a month and small declines occurred in the active issues. The turnover amounted to $5,393,000 face value.

High grade domestic corporation and government bonds were inconspicuous. Some of the better corporate issues did not appear on the market until late in the afternoon.

Less than $200,000 principal amount of United States governments were traded, and most of the swings were on the down side, losses ranging to 6-32 of a point.

There was also a lack of interest in the more speculative issues. Low and medium priced railroad and utility issues worked lower and industrials barely held even.

Improvement in the foreign quarter was confined largely to German and Brazilian bonds. Buenos Aires 4⅛s-4⅝s rose ⅞ to 79½, and Brazil 6½s were a bit higher.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks continued dull and irregular on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Cord again displayed weakness, losing ⅛ to 2⅜ in the most active trading of the day—2,450 shares. General Finance rose ½, Merchants and Manufacturers gained ¼, and Lion Oil dipped ⅞. Dayton Rubber A was off 3¾ and Marshall Field slipped 1⅛. Of the 72 issues traded, 20 were higher, 28 lower, and 24 unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

There were few changes in Chicago bank stock prices yesterday. First National eased $1 and Chicago Title and Trust dipped $2. Merchandise National was unchanged to $5 lower and National Builders unchanged to $5 higher. Others were steady.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—Today's fruit market prices were: Strawberries, 16 quart crates, $1.35 to $1.75; best mostly $1.65.

COTTON

Heavy buying of cotton futures attributed to Wall street, and regarded as due to somewhat less favorable crop comments from the south, lifted prices in leading American markets nearly $1 a bale at the extreme yesterday. While profit taking caused a reaction from the best prices, closing trades were at net gains of .05 to .15 cent a pound higher.

Spot cotton closed .10 to .15 cent higher with New Orleans and Houston 12.35 cents a pound; New York, 12.55 cents, and Galveston at 12.30 cents. Prices in cents per pound follow:

Commodities

Sharp rallies in grains and moderately better prices for cotton, Rio coffee, and several other staples yesterday were matched by declines in metals, cocoa, and rubber as irregularity again prevailed in world commodity markets.

Rubber futures fell 13 to 21 points and rubber for immediate delivery closed at 19⅜ cents a pound.

Rio coffee futures were strong, climbing 5 to 10 points, but Santos futures finished irregular, down 1 point to up 7. Cotton climbed as much as 0.15 cent a pound in the Chicago market.

On the Chicago Mercantile exchange egg futures closed unchanged to ⅜ cent a dozen higher, while butter prices were unchanged to 1 cent a pound lower.

STANDARD GAS ELIMINATES 195 DUAL POSITIONS

Company's Earnings Rise During April.

Since October, 1935, the Standard Gas and Electric company group has eliminated 195 interlocking positions in an effort to decentralize the main holding company and place more responsibility on the operating units, Bernard W. Lynch, president of Standard Gas, said yesterday.

His statement was contained in an earning report which showed consolidated net income of $620,765 in April, against $393,184 in the corresponding period of last year; net income of $2,367,241 in the four months ended April 30, against $1,766,210; and profit of $4,659,521 in the twelve months ended April 30, against $2,744,444 in the preceding twelve months.

Byllesby Interests Out.

"As a result of the numerous resignations which have been brought about and the reduction in the size of certain boards of directors," Lynch said, "no official, director, or employé of H. M. Byllesby & Co., or any other banking institution authorized by law to underwrite or participate in the marketing of securities of a public utility company is now a director of Standard Gas or any subsidiary or affiliated operating company.

"Neither is there on any such board a representative of a company engaged in supplying electrical equipment to public utilities. The vacancies which resulted from these changes have, in almost every instance, been filled by the election of operating executives."

Companies Benefited.

The greater independence of the operating companies and the placing of increased responsibility on the officers of operating companies have benefited these companies by raising their standing and importance in the local communities in which they operate, he said.

"These steps, which are in full accord with the Public Utility Holding Company act of 1935 constitute a strong and continuing decentralizing force in the conduct of the affairs of this group of companies," Lynch continued. "It is intended to continue studies of operating arrangements with a view to making such further changes as are believed to be in the public interest."

American Crystal Sugar Company.

Investors' Guide: Please inform me of the situation of the American Crystal Sugar company.—P. F. G.

Answer: One of the largest domestic producers of beet sugar, the American Crystal Sugar company has effected a sweeping recapitalization and revision of corporate structure in the last two years. This erased the effects of a number of lean years preceding sharp improvement in earnings since 1933.

Funded debt of $3,772,000 in 1933 has been replaced with serial bank notes now outstanding in the amount of $1,100,000. Dividend arrears of $63 a share on the former 7 per cent preferred stock were discharged by issuance of 1.6 shares of new 6 per cent $100 par preferred and $3 cash for each old preferred share on July 1, 1935.

In April, 1936, the company gave up its 98 per cent common stock interest in Amalgamated Sugar company in return for two modern plants. This gave American Crystal Sugar increased productive capacity and rid it of an investment of doubtful value.

The company now operates eight factories in California, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, and Minnesota.

How unsatisfactory operations were until the last few years is shown by the fact that losses have been reported in four of the last twelve years and net income in two other years was insufficient to cover preferred dividend requirements. The record follows for recent fiscal years ended March 31:

1937	$15,269,000	$1,808,000	$3.79
1936	10,360,000	915,000	1.44
1935	14,363,000	1,200,000	2.41
1934	....	1,058,000	1.98
1933	....	*75,000	*1.16
1932	....	*1,285,000	*4.54

*Loss. †Gross in 1935; figures not disclosed in preceding years.

Strong financial position was maintained, despite losses, by withholding dividend payments.

A dividend of 50 cents a share, the first since 1926, was paid on the common Oct. 1, 1936. A payment of $1.50 was made March 15, and 75 cents will be paid June 25 to stockholders of record June 12.

The common appears to be medeum grade now. Prospects depend on sugar prices and competition from imported cane sugar.

UTILITY HALVES PROPOSED ISSUE OF DEBENTURES

Water Firm Cancels Its Financing Plans.

The Buffalo Niagara Electric corporation yesterday filed an amendment with the Securities and Exchange commission in Washington, D. C., reducing the amount of an offering of serial debentures from $7,000,000 to $3,420,000.

Plans now call for issuance of $1,140,000 series A 2 per cent debentures due June 1, 1938 to 1942, $1,140,000 series B 3 per cent debentures, due June 1, 1943 to 1947 and $1,140,000 series C 3¼ per cent debentures due June 1, 1948 to 1952, the concern said.

Other Issue Unchanged.

No change was made in the amount of general and refunding mortgage 3½ per cent bonds to be offered.

The SEC commission granted the Hackensack Water company permission to withdraw its registration statement covering $13,600,000 of first mortgage bonds and 61,500 shares of $25 par common stock.

Union Electric company of Missouri filed an amendment with the commission naming 80 underwriters for its proposed issue of $80,000,000 first mortgage and collateral trust 3¾ per cent bonds and 11 underwriters for a $15,000,000 issue of 3 per cent notes of 1942.

Minnesota to Sell Notes.

The state of Minnesota will enter the market July 20 with an issue of $1,225,000 of certificates of indebtedness, for which bidders are asked to designate the rate of interest. The certificates will be dated July 30, 1937, and will mature on July 30, 1942.

Evansville, Ind., yesterday awarded to a banking group composed of the First National Bank of Chicago, the Northern Trust Company of Chicago, and the Old National Bank of Evansville, a new issue of $425,000 of refunding bonds on a bid of 101.043 for 2½s. The bonds will be dated July 1, 1937, and will mature serially from July 1, 1938, to 1957.

SEC DISMISSES TECK-HUGHES DELISTING PLEA

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The Securities and Exchange commission has issued an order dismissing an application by Teck-Hughes Gold Mines, Ltd., to withdraw its $1 par value capital stock from listing and registration on the New York Curb exchange because the company failed to appear to offer evidence at a hearing April 6.

At the hearing the New York curb, opposing the application, made a motion to dismiss on the grounds that it was not in accordance with the rules of the exchange and that no facts were presented upon which the commission properly could act.

The commission also said George Henry Heyman of New York City had agreed to a permanent federal court injunction restraining him from violating the securities exchange act. The commission charged Heyman lifted the price of common stock of Aluminum Indistries, Inc., a Cincinnati company, on the New York Curb exchange through "manipulative practices."

FIVE TAX DATES FACING ILLINOIS BUSINESS IN JULY

The taxpayers' calendar prepared by the Chicago Association of Commerce discloses that during July there are three last days for payment of various levies and two due dates for other taxes, making a total of five days on which Chicago business men may have engagements with the tax collectors. During June there were four occasions for tax payments.

The earliest July tax payment date occurs on the first day, which is the last day for the payment of domestic and foreign corporation franchise tax for the year ending Dec. 31, 1936. On July 15 the Illinois retailers' occupation return tax is due on retail sales of goods during June.

The other three engagements will occur on July 31 as follows: the last day to pay the federal old age benefit tax for June, 1937 [form SS-1]. The last for filing information return on taxes paid for old age benefits in preceding six months [forms SS-2 and SS-2a]. Payment due on third installment of federal unemployment insurance tax for 1936.

FOUR CANADIAN PAPER CONCERNS BOOST WAGES

Montreal, Que., May 21.—[Special.]—Four large Canadian newsprint companies operating in Quebec province will grant wage increases amounting to aproximately $1,150,000 a year to 5,650 employés under contracts being negotiated under provincial labor legislation, it was learned today.

The four companies are the Consolidated Paper corporation, Price Bros. & Co., Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper company, and Lake St. John Power and Paper company. Other companies are expected to negotiate similar agreements.

Aircraft Production in U. S. Rises 56 Per Cent

Deliveries of aircraft and airplane engines in the United States in the first five months of this year were valued at $39,435,602, compared with $25,175,475 in the corresponding 1936 period, a gain of 56.6 per cent, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday. May deliveries were $8,960,731, against $8,908,079 in April, and $6,296,670 in May, 1936.

Chicagoan Asks Review of 1935 Tax Assessment

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—Edward Katzinger, Chicago, asked the board of tax appeals today to redetermine a $69,300 deficiency in 1935 gift taxes assessed by the bureau of internal revenue.

FRANC ADVANCES DESPITE CHANGE IN GOVERNMENT

Inactive Gold Fund Now Over Billion Dollars.

Little change was noted in foreign exchange markets yesterday as a shift in governments took place in France, following the resignation of Premier Leon Blum. The franc rose slightly, but this was attributed to official control. At the same time the United States treasury reported that the inactive gold fund had passed a billion dollars.

The treasury's report for June 18 showed a total of $1,009,343,288 in "sterilized" gold held by the treasury, an increase of $15,189,342 for the day.

The sterilization program was undertaken last December to prevent further increases in excess bank reserves which might serve as a basis for extensive credit expansion.

How Plan Works.

Under the plan the treasury purchases imported and newly mined gold with money out of its general cash fund, which it replenishes by borrowing.

The franc closed at 4.46 cents, up .00½ of a cent, but the discount on franc futures widened to .20½ of a cent. The pound sterling advanced ½ cent, while Swiss francs lost .00½ of a cent and Dutch guilders were unchanged.

Traders waited hopefully in the world markets to see what would evolve from the French government shakeup. Week-end developments were viewed calmly in international banking quarters. But the general interpretation was that the collapse of the Popular Front government represented a small victory for the conservative forces.

Tight Grip on Market.

The steady performance of the franc yesterday was pointed to as demonstrating the tight grip which the French control fund has on the market. On other occasions when a cabinet has fallen the currency displayed wide movements.

Gold engagements abroad yesterday for shipment to this country included $486,000 from England for shipment to New York and $4,800,000 from Japan for shipment to San Francisco.

RFC HOLDS LIEN ON TRACK SOON TO BE ABANDONED

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation has in its possession as part of its collateral for a loan to the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, granted in 1932, $100,000 in first mortgage 5 per cent bonds of the Rock Island and Dardenelle railroad company, which it would like to liquidate. These securities, it was disclosed today, are soon to represent an abandoned railroad, if an I. C. C. examiner's recommendation is followed.

The trustees of the Rock Island have applied to the commission for permission to abandon the Rock Island and Dardenelle, a 14 mile stretch of track in Arkansas, connecting Ola in Yell county with Dardenelle. The oral argument on the application is scheduled for Wednesday.

In this connection G. R. Cooksey, secretary of the RFC, wrote to Commissioner B. E. Meyer to ask that as a condition of approving the abandonment the commission require that the proceeds from selling the land, rails, and other equipment covered by the $100,000 in bonds be applied in the reduction of the parent road's debt, unpaid interest on which amounted last November to $1,502,407. Meyer replied that it could not be done.

SMITH URGES BANKERS HAVE GREATER ABILITY

New Brunswick, N. J., June 21.—(AP)—The time has passed when "just any one can be a banker," Tom K. Smith of St. Louis, president of the American Bankers' association, said tonight.

He discussed the "deeper responsibilities" of bank executives in an address for delivery at the third annual session of the Rutgers university graduate school of banking, conducted by the association.

"In the future only men of proven ability as financiers should be permitted to hold managerial positions in our institutions," Smith told 600 bank executives from 46 states. "We must have men who have a sense of responsibility to the economic order as a whole."

Bids to Charter U. S. Ships Rejected by Commission

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The maritime commission today rejected all bids for the charter for one year of six government owned shipping lines operating thirty-seven vessels. The bids, which ranged from one half a cent per dead weight ton a month to $1.50, were opened on June 15 and for the last week have been the subject of study and discussion by the commissioners.

Everyday Economics

This daily feature is presented in response to requests for simple explanations of matters concerning finance, business, and the markets. Suggestions from readers are welcomed. Address "Editor, Everyday Economics."

Minority Interest.

"Minority interest," an item which appears in the consolidated balance sheet of a corporation and its subsidiaries, designates that portion of capital and surplus [net worth] of a partially owned subsidiary which is not owned by the parent company.

If corporation A has an 80 per cent interest in subsidiary B, then the remaining interest of 20 per cent in capital stock and surplus of the subsidiary belongs to other stockholders. This is the "minority interest."

Consequently, in a consolidated statement it is necessary to show separately that portion of subsidiary net worth that is not available to the parent concern.

A consolidated statement of parent company and subsidiaries is used for the sake of simplification. Otherwise separate statements would be necessary for the parent concern and subsidiaries.

DISCUSS PLANS TO REFUND BIG ARKANSAS DEBT

Gov. Bailey Confers on Details.

Gov. Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas conferred here yesterday with officials of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. and of A. C. Allyn & Co., on the proposed refunding of $146,000,000 of Arkansas highway debt which the two investment houses have contracted to handle.

All that is necessary to start action on the operation—aside from developments in the bond market—is the expiration of the period during which a rehearing may be asked of the Arkansas Supreme court of a suit decided by that court in favor of the refunding plan. The period expires July 1.

Plan Is Voluntary.

Gov. Bailey emphasized yesterday that the refunding plan is entirely voluntary, that it is being worked with the coöperation of the bondholders.

"There is nothing arbitrary about our plan," he said. "We are not seeking to force bondholders to do anything, but we want them to go along with the operation because it will be to their advantage to do so.

"The main problem before the state is to rearrange the maturities of our bonds so that we shall not have heavy payments to make in any one year."

Gov. Bailey pointed out that in the last three years Arkansas has reduced its debt by $12,000,000 and of this $3,000,000 was done since he took office last January.

88 Million in Highway Bonds.

Of the 146 million in bonds which it is proposed to refund, $88,500,000 are state highway bonds and the balance consists of road improvement district bonds, certificates of indebtedness, and toll bridge bonds. Interest on the present bonds outstanding ranges from 3 to 5 per cent. Under the refunding program it is hoped to sell bonds to pay off the old loans at a rate below 4¼ per cent. The plan provides that the old bonds may be exchanged for new bonds.

The state now has a maturity of approximately $45,000,000 of road district refunding bonds coming due on Jan. 1, 1949, and it is to rearrange this that provides one of the most important reasons for setting up the plan.

Joseph D. Murphy, vice president of the Chicago office of Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., worked out the refunding plan for the state, based on the experience of his house and of A. C. Allyn in handling the $61,000,000 refinancing plan last year for Cook county and the forest preserve district of Cook county. The conference will continue today.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—The Bethlehem Steel company has taken a contract for 2,900 tons of sheet piling for the East River drive, New York City. The American Bridge company received the contract for the La Grange, Ill., plant addition of Electro-Motive corporation, involving 2,500 tons.

N. Y. SUBWAY LINE CUTS DIVIDEND ON COMMON STOCK

Extra Payments Voted by Other Firms.

Directors of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation yesterday declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock. The company has been paying quarterly dividends of $1 on the stock since October, 1936. Before that it paid 75 cents quarterly.

Decreased earnings due to competition, chiefly from extensions of the independent city subway in New York, and demands for higher wages for employés, were said to be the chief factors in causing the board's action.

Directors also authorized the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on preferred stock for the next fiscal year, which begins July 1. Stocks of the company rallied yesterday after announcement of the dividends.

Vote Special $5 Dividend.

Pepperell Manufacturing company, makers of cotton and flannel goods, announced a special dividend of $5 on common stock. A similar dividend was paid last December.

Directors of Weinberger Drug Stores, Inc., declared an extra dividend of 40 cents and the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents on common stock. In April the company paid 40 cents a share.

Glen Alden Coal company voted an interim dividend of 12½ cents on common stock. The last previous payment was a special of 50 cents on Dec. 23, 1936. McGraw-Hill Publishing company voted an interim distribution of 15 cents on common. A similar payment was made April 15.

Directors of Supervised Shares, Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of 15 cents, 9 cents of which represents net income from dividends and interest and the balance derived from capital gains.

Other Payments Voted.

N. Y. EXCHANGE MAY INVOKE NEW RULE FOR TRUSTS

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—New York Stock exchange officials today took steps which were interpreted as being preliminary to formulation of rules governing participation by members in investment trusts of all kinds. The exchange now has rather strict rules applying to fixed trusts, but has allowed relatively unsupervised activities in connection with trusts of the management type.

The committee on stock list has requested all exchange houses to notify it "whether or not they are at present associated with any investment trust, either through participating in the organization or management of the trust or by offering or distributing its securities."

In stock exchange circles it was understood that the request for information and the possible passage of new rules based on it could not be considered significant in the light of Washington investigations of investment trusts. Governors of the body are merely tying down loose ends which have been considered unimportant in the past.

RAILWAYS SERVE PUBLIC BETTER, REDUCE CHARGES

I. C. C. Member Tells of Recent Progress.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 21.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the fact that they have been making epochal improvements in their services during the last seven years, the railroads have cut transportation costs to the public during this period, Frank McManamy, member of the interstate commerce commission, today told the annual convention of the mechanical division of the Association of American Railroads. He indicated that their ability to do this was the best answer to threats from their competitors.

Frank McManamy.

Also meeting here are railroad officers under whose direction approximately 1 billion dollars is spent annually for fuel, materials, and supplies of all kinds. This group comprises the purchases and stores division of the association. Approximately 70,000 different articles are purchased annually by the railroads.

Develop in Trying Period.

"In the last seven years," Commissioner McManamy said in his address, "the railroads have been through a very trying period, but it has also been a period of great development, both in equipment and service.

Such improvements as air conditioned, streamlined, Diesel powered passenger trains, which operate at 100 or more miles an hour, and high speed freight service, which includes store door pick-up and delivery of freight, mark an epoch in railroad history and are the answers of the members of this association to the threatened loss of business to competing forms of transportation.

"This improved service has not resulted in increased costs to the public. Since 1930 the average rate per ton-mile has decreased from 1.063 cents to 0.903 cents, and the average rate per passenger-mile has dropped from 3.25 cents to 2.01 cents.

Cites Reasons for Gains.

"The commission is in part responsible for the decrease in the rates per passenger-mile, but not for the decrease in the rates per ton-mile. This is partly the result of losing short haul trafic, which takes a higher than average rate per ton-mile and partly the result of voluntary rate reduction made to meet competition from other forms of transportation. Gross and net earnings of the railroads show a substantial recovery."

CROP DAMAGE CAUSES WHEAT PRICES TO SOAR

000 bushels of new crop wheat was received at leading points of accumulation. For the corresponding period last year receipts were 1,300,000 bushels.

Reports Received Early.

Black rust reports from the northwest have started to be received at an unusually early date this season, according to Chicago crop experts, and weather conditions over the weekend were regarded as having been favorable for its development.

In contrast with the reports showing excessive moisture in the more eastern sections of the spring wheat belt were the claims of heavy damage in the more western sections of the Dakotas, southern Saskatchewan and southeastern Alberta by drouth earlier in the season. Canadian reports yesterday indicated additional moisture was needed over a wide area.

The Liverpool wheat futures market closed yesterday before the big advance in North America got well under way, with the English market closing ⅜ to ⅝ cent a bushel higher. Export demand, however, was limited, with only a few scattered lots of new American hard winter and old crop Canadian being sold.

Corn and Oats Affected.

Corn and oats were affected by the action of wheat, with corn closing as much as 2½ cents a bushel higher, while the nearby deliveries of oats gained a cent a bushel. Liquidation developed in soy beans with futures 1⅛ to 4 cents lower. The latter decline was for July delivery, which declined the permissible limit for one day and sold at a new low for the season, showing 56 cents a bushel under the recent high point.

Reports regarding the new corn and oats crops were generally favorable, although a period of dry and continued warm weather would be beneficial.

REPORTS GAINS IN STRUCTURAL STEEL INDUSTRY

The volume of business in the fabricated structural steel industry in the United States during 1936 was approximately 57 per cent of the average for the years 1928 to 1931, inclusive, according to the report of the American Institute of Steel Construction, read yesterday before the sixth international conference on steel development being held at Duesseldorf, Germany.

Shipments during the first three months of 1937 were 19 per cent above shipments during the like month a year ago, while bookings were 9 per cent larger, the report said.

"The apparent hesitancy on future business results from buyers' apprehensions over prices which have been advancing constantly in recent months," the statement continued. "During 1936 the structural steel fabricating industry produced over 1,600,000 tons of fabricated structural steel."

URGES FEDERAL OWNERSHIP OF RESERVE SYSTEM

Boston, Mass., June 21.—(AP)—Gov. Charles F. Hurley said today the time had arrived for the government to "take over the control and ownership of the federal reserve board." Addressing the annual convention of the National Retail Grocers, he suggested federalization of the Reconstruction Finance corporation policies for expansion of credit, saying "Equal opportunity and expansion of credit is needed today."

"We are in this half way, the government having loaned $4,000,000,000 to the banks, and we might as well go in it the whole way and take complete control of the credit facilities of the country."

He told the grocers that during the depression "It was the local grocer who never turned his back on the person who wanted credit. Your organization, to my mind, represents the backbone of the local community."

MEMBER BANKS BOOST FEDERAL BOND HOLDINGS

298 Million Upturn for Last Week.

Interrupting a nine week decline, member banks of the federal reserve system in 101 cities during the week ended June 16 increased their holdings of direct obligations of the United States government by 298 million dollars the federal reserve board reported yesterday.

Follows Large Bond Sales.

The sharp increase in holdings of government bonds, which totaled 8 billion 556 million on June 16, was attributed to large bank purchases of treasury notes sold during the month. Bank holdings of obligations fully guaranteed by the federal government declined 1 million dollars.

Loans made by the member banks to commerce, industry, and agriculture continued the expansion which has been in progress for several weeks. Loans on securities increased 2 millions and loans otherwise secured and unsecured increased 40 millions, against a 30 million dollar gain in the preceding week.

Making Money in Real Estate

Today, as for more than twenty years, the Tribune prints more real estate want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

PRICES OF HOGS HIGHEST SINCE EARLY IN MONTH

Slaughtering Still Low as Demand Gains.

Hog prices yesterday advanced mostly 10 to 15 cents to the highest levels since early in June as slaughtering continued abnormally low at all packing plants. There was a noticeable pickup in demand. The average price rose 10 cents to $11.15, highest since June 1, and the top came up 10 cents, to $11.65, the latter indicating a gain of 30 cents over the middle of last week.

Pork continued draggy in Chicago retail channels, but the relatively low position of hogs and many cuts of pork compared to other live stock and meats stimulated sufficient buying in the east to send wholesale pork prices up 50 cents to $1.50 at the various points.

Better Pork Demand.

Better pork demand increased buying of hogs on shipping account, resulting in some of the liveliest competition between local and outsiders in recent weeks.

Most of the better grades of 200 to 300 pound butchers cashed at $11.35 to $11.60, while the bulk of the sows weighing 300 to 400 pounds brought $10 to $10.50. Some 425 to 600 pound sows sold at $9.25 to $9.90.

Markets for other meats improved also yesterday. Beef sold steady to 50 cents higher, while lamb meat and veal ruled strong to $1 higher.

Cow Prices Weaker.

The run of cows was heavier and these sold weak to lower. Best hefers were stronger, but others weakened off in sympathy with plain steers and beef cows. Little change occurred in bulls and calves. Replacement stock met broad country demand at 15 to 25 cents higher rates.

FIND REGULATION EXTENDING INTO AGRICULTURE

Ames, Ia., June 21.—(AP)—Charles W. Holman, Washington, D. C., secretary of the American Institute of Coöperation, said here today regulation of private business, increasing in this country, is "extending to agriculture." He spoke at the institute's 13th annual conference which opened today.

Attending the conference are leaders of the nation's farmers coöperatives, which, Holman said, last year handled commodities valued at $1,840,000 for 3,660,000 members and patrons.

Their 5 day program calls for an appraisal of trends affecting coöperatives, evaluation of present coöperative services, and an analysis of "approaches toward the solution of present problems and the adjustment of services to meet present demands.
